▲ Grant Awarded

The Winston-Salem Urban League's "Health Is Life" program has recently been awarded a $5,166 grant from the Northwest Piedmont Council of Governments (COG) to expand health services to older adults in Forsyth County.

The program, which was initially funded for six months, was established in 1993 with a grant of $3,000 from the National Urban League. "Health Is Life" was developed to address the health needs of African Americans and other minorities, as well as other disadvantaged citizens. Health issues such as cancer, diabetes, heart disease, stroke, hypertension and substance abuse, which negatively impact African Americans and other disadvantaged citizens, have been the focus of the program.

The primary focus of the program is to get the message of prevention, education and health screening to seniors who need it. Health issues pertinent to the older adult, 60 years and older, will be the focus of health fairs, disease prevention seminars, information and screening sessions and physical fitness programs. Community-wide presentations to family members and care givers will also be a part of the health and disease prevention effort.

 A FRESH LOOK ~~~~~ A FRESH APPROACH

Rosalyn Hinson
 Philadelphia, PA

"Martial Arts build self-esteem, motivation and a sense of unity."

Rosalyn Hinson had a vision. Give people a means to focus their energy and keep them out of trouble by training them in martial arts. All the while, teaching them life lessons: respect, discipline and self-worth. That's just how Indomitable Spirit Martial Arts School began. That was five years ago. Today it offers everything from creative writing classes to safety tips for the elderly. Rosalyn and her volunteer staff encourage students to stand on their own two feet and not rely on others. Now that's a fresh approach.

Thank you Rosalyn for bringing a fresh approach to Philadelphia. In recognition of your dedication, a donation of $5,000 has been awarded to your organization.
