Academy to Begin Classes

Classes at the Math and Science Academy of Excellence will begin Sept. 18 at Winston-Salem State University. Classes will meet every Saturday on the campus in the R.J. Reynolds Building from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m.

The academy will teach four subjects: math, science, communications arts and computer science. Classes are open to students in grades six through twelve. Tuition is $225 for the entire school year.

Registration and a parent information meeting will be held in the Reynolds Building today and tomorrow from 6-8:30 p.m. Registration may also be done by calling Virginia Newell at 722-3480 or John Sigers at 723-2728, or by coming to the Winston Mutual Building, 1225 E. Fifth St.

The academy has sponsored the program for the past four years. Its purpose is to cater to students who have a love of learning and wish to enrich their regular schoolwork.

The program is not remedial and is intended to challenge students.
