Angus MacLachlan to Perform at SECCA in April

Winston-Salem actor/playwright, Angus MacLachlan will perform his most recent work Bound and Gagged at the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA). The performance will take place in SECCA's McChesney Scott Dunn Auditorium on Friday, April 29 at 7:30 p.m.

Bound and Gagged is a one-man drama, written and performed by MacLachlan. An eerily evocative musical score by Rhan Small, of the performance group Three People, is interwoven with MacLachlan's darkly poetic story of the throw-away lives of his characters. Bound and Gagged is work in a very different vein from Winston-Salem's premier resident playwright. Tony Brown of the Charlotte Observer stated, "If you are up to facing your own monsters and weaknesses, you should not let this incisive, exacting one-man tour de-force skip town without catching it."

Tickets are $5 for SECCA members, senior adults, students and $7 for the general public.

For more information contact the Education Department 725-1904.

As your responsibilities change, so do ours.

There's a lot more to raising a family than adding a new place at the table. For most families, it's a whole new way of thinking. And one that BB&T understands. It involves sorting out the best ways to borrow for current expenses. And the best ways to save for future ones. It also means a little extra sensitivity to the credit needs almost all growing families undergo.

So, if it seems your current bank isn't what it used to be, perhaps it's you who's done the changing. See BB&T. A different sort of attitude. A different sort of bank.
