

Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority Holds Health Screening

Alpha Mu Sigma in conjunction with Bowman Gray/Baptist Hospital Medical Center held a community health screening on April 16, 1994, at Williams C. Sims Center.

Information to the community was provided on family planning, fire prevention, cervical and breast cancer, nutrition and health.

Participants were also able to get their blood pressure and cholesterol checked. Screening for sickle cell and weigh in was also provided.

Sigma Gamma Rho in conjunction with Bowman Gray/Baptist

Hospital has made this an annual project for a number of years.

Alpha Mu Sigma Chapter of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, Inc. would like to thank the fire department, engine number 4 and all of the volunteers for their support in helping to make this community service project a success. A special thanks to soror Cathy Oliver and Ben Piggott for their hard work in helping to organize the projects.

A Tribute to Breast Cancer Victims Opens Friday

"The Faces of Breast Cancer," a photographic tribute to breast cancer victims, open April 29 for an 11-day run in Diggs Gallery at Winston-Salem State University.

The exhibition, from the National Breast Cancer Coalition, is being presented in cooperation with Bowman Gray School of Medicine. The 15-panel display tells the stories of 63 American women who died of the disease. The show opened to sell-out crowds in Washington's National Museum of Women. The exhibit has since traveled to Indianapolis and Princeton, New Jersey.

Breast cancer is the second-leading cause of cancer deaths in women. Each day in North Carolina, 14 women will learn they have the disease. This year, an estimated 5,000 North Carolinians will be diagnosed and 1,400 will die.

"We hope that the exhibit will increase awareness and lead to earlier detection," said Electra Paskett, assistant professor of public health sciences. "The 1,400 deaths include a disproportionate number of low-income and minority women who are not diagnosed with the disease in its early stages when it is treatable." Brochures and other materials will also be available at the gallery through the end of the show on May 9.

The gallery also is featuring two other exhibitions, "From These Hands: The Second Annual Senior Art Show" and "S.E.X. (Social Economic X-Ploitation)," a display of 24 assemblages by Ce Scott.

Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday.

There is no charge for admission.

For more information, call (910) 750-2458. Special accommodations can be arranged for persons with disabilities by calling Maurice Johnson at 750-2263.

COMMUNITY BRIEFS

Arts Council to Hold Annual Meeting

The Arts Council of Winston-Salem and Forsyth County will hold its 1994 annual meeting on Tuesday, May 10 at noon in the Mountcastle Forum of the Sawtooth Building, 226 N. Marshall Street.

Robert Lynch, president and chief executive officer of the National Assembly of Local Arts Agencies (NALAA), will be the keynote speaker. NALAA, the umbrella organization that represents the nation's 3,800 local arts agencies in developing an essential place for the arts in American's community, has been under Lynch's direction for the past nine years.

Lynch will speak on "Community Development and the Contemporary Arts Movement." The annual meeting will also include year-end reports, election of the 1994-95 officers and board of trustees and a buffet lunch. The luncheon meeting is open to the public and costs $10 per person.

▲ Courses Offered
