Winston Lake

Many at Winston Lake believe that winning is in the blood. And ironically enough, both teams are connected in many ways.

Four years ago marked the last time that the 15-and-under team represented Winston Lake in the national tournament. Oddly enough, Anthony Caldwell, Dameon Foster, Josh Pittman and Darrell Johnson—all permanent fixtures on this year's 19-and-under championship team—were integral parts of that national team.

The ties also run in the veins. Vincent McConnell and Brandon Cain for the 15-and-under squad are related to Caldwell. Point guard Johnathan Skinner's older brother Lynwood started on the last national 15-and-under team. Nineteen-and-under starting point guard Foster has served as a mentor to guards Tyson Patterson and Jarian Wallace for the younger Lakers.

Geoffrey Williams and Brandon Cain are acclimating themselves to the constant comparisons to 19-and-under standouts Pittman and Johnson.

From a significant distance, the coming new of anything, especially déjà vu begins to arrive by steady drumbeat and muffled whisper.

Both teams will try to shoot for that elusive national title and yet another piece of history.
