North Forsyth Students Win Science Cash Award

Three North Forsyth High School students shared in the Alpha Pi Lambda Chapter/Lowden Anderson Science Award of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity at Recognition/Awards Day Assembly on May 18. Eddie Easley, president of Alpha Pi Lambda Chapter presided.

Dudley Products of Kernersville is the sponsor of the science cash award and hopes that the recipients and their projects will be seen more widely as an example for others.

The science award is named for Lowden E. Anderson Sr., a retired middle-school science teacher. Anderson is chairman of Science Project/Related Community Services of his fraternity.

The winners of the shared $500

cash awards are:

Chris Sapp, 1st place $250, his project: A comparative Study of Monocot and Dicot Seed Germination and Growth.

Sharene Davidson, 2nd place $150, her project: Subliminal Messages and the Effects of same on Humans.

Rysen Amin, 3rd place $100, his project: Hydroponics, Affects of Different Solutions on Plant Growth.

Terrie Clawson, vice president of Educational Services of Dudley Products, presented the cash awards.

The main objective in getting students involved in Science Fair projects is to get them interested in science.

Dudley Makes Food Donation

Dudley Cosmetology University Inn on May 13 made the first donation to Second Helpings, the new prepared- and perished-foods project of the Food Bank of Northwest North Carolina.

The food included 69 pounds of mustard greens, french toast, spaghetti, sausage patties and beef stew. Samaritan Ministries, a food-bank agency, received the food. Samaritan operates a soup kitchen that feeds over 300 people daily.

Second Helpings provides a way for restaurants, caterers, food service organizations and hotels to donate prepared foods to help feed the hungry.

Second Helpings picks up food in a refrigerated truck and delivers it to on-site feeding agencies in Forsyth County.

"By adding prepared foods to our food distributing program, we hoped to be able to provide a greater variety of more nutritious food for our agencies," said Nan Holbrook Griswold, executive director of the Food Bank. "Our first donation shows what great potential this project has for the community."

We appreciate Joe Dudley's support in helping us feed the needy in Forsyth County."

Since opening in 1982, the Food Bank has distributed 17 million pounds of food and hopes to rescue over 30,000 pounds of prepared foods during the first year of operation for Second Helping. Located in Winston-Salem, the Food Bank serves over 270 agencies with more than 500 programs in 18 counties.

Many of these agencies serve young children and families hit hard by economic situation.

The Food Bank is a member of Forsyth County United Way and Second Harvest.

The Second Harvest Food Bank Network consists of 185 food banks nationwide and is the largest charitable source of food in the United States.

Nearly 50,000 pantries, soup kitchens and homeless shelters receive food from the network to feed hungry people.
