Upward Bound Begins Summer Program

On Monday, the Winston-Salem State University Upward Bound Program opened its 1994 six-week summer residential program.

A total of eighty-five students will participate in one of two summer components. The thirteen graduating seniors are currently participating in the Bridge component which allows each of the seniors to begin their college enrollment early by enrolling in the first summer school session at Winston-Salem State University. Each student is enrolled in six hours of course work which includes World Civilization I and Introduction to Music. The cost which includes tuition, fees, room, board, books and weekly stipend is paid by the Upward Bound Program. Credits earned will be transferred to the University the student has been admitted to for the fall.

The second program component - Non-Bridge program will involve the remaining seventy-two rising 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th grade students from the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County School System. The non-bridge students will arrive on the campus of Winston-Salem State University Sunday. During their residency, they will be enrolled in academic classes in the morning and special interest workshops and college preparatory seminars in the afternoon.

The academic classes which will include Communication Skills (composition, grammar, reading and speech), mathematics (pre-algebra, algebra I, II, III, geometry and pre-calculus), and laboratory science will each meet for 50 minutes daily from 8 a.m. - 12 noon. During the hours from 1 p.m. - 3 p.m. each enrollee will attend two pre-selected special interest workshops from the following list; art, black history, calligraphy, computer science, drama, French, music and Spanish. Each of the aforementioned interest workshops will meet for fifty minutes each day. In addition, all seventy-two participants will attend college preparatory seminars from 3:30 p.m. - 4:30 p.m. and then conclude with an hour and a half required study period and two hours of planned recreational activities.

The Award Ceremony which will be held Friday July 22, 1994 will compete the six week summer residential program. Students who have earned the highest grade point averages in each academic class along with those who exemplify good residential citizenship will receive awards.

The staff will include instructors, residence counselors and special interest workshop coordinators who come from either Winston-Salem State University, the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County Schools or the Winston-Salem Community.

Gateways Music Festival Board is Organized and Planning for October

After the 1993 Gateways Music Festival ended, efforts to select and organize a board of directors began. That effort has been rewarded with the successful formation of such board.

Armenta Hummings, the founder of the festival was elected artistic director; Winifred Garrett was elected project coordinator.

The board includes: John Williams, president; Leroy Sellars, vice president; Margaret Johnson, corresponding secretary; Wandalee Nevels, recording secretary; Walter Tucker, treasurer; Virginia Newell, financial secretary; Renee Andrews, Christopher Benjamin, Rudolph V. Boone Sr., D'Walla S. Burke, Larry Leon Hamlin, Gladys Oldham, James D. Smith, Theresa Watkins, Velma Watts, and Nancy

A board of advisors include: Peter Funkhauser, the Rev. John Mendez and Ernie Pitt.

The board had been meeting regularly since January and recently completed the necessary requirement for incorporation by the state of North Carolina. Prior to the 1994 Gateways Music Festival, several fund-raising concerts and other efforts will be announced, including: (1) The Susuki String Class of The Harlem School of The Arts; (2) Wynton Marsalis, (3) The William Grant Still Memorial Youth Orchestra of Metropolitan Atlanta, (4) Isosceles Concert (Winifred Garrett) and (5) Salem College Concert (Armenta Hummings).

The Festival will be co-sponsored by Winston-Salem State University and the North Carolina School of the Arts. Funding will be obtained through contributions from private, foundations, and business sources. Checks may be forwarded to: The Winston-Salem State University Foundation for The Gateways Music Festival.

The Mission of the festival is to increase the visibility and viability of the African-American musician with special focus on classical music and heighten public awareness of their classical music contributions. Also, to establish role models for young African American musicians as well as musicals of all ethnic origins and to specifically encourage young musicians of African American descent to study and seek careers in the field of classical music.

Law Firm to Fund Minority Scholarships

Petree Stockton, one of North Carolina's largest law firms, will help provide three full scholarships for minority students at Wake Forest University School of Law.

The scholarships will be awarded to one student in each of the law school's first, second and third year classes.

The first award will be made this fall, in conjunction with three university-sponsored law scholarships.

Several of the firm's attorneys serve as adjunct professors at the law school, while others provide support for its clinical program. Petree Stockton also provides the faculty for a number of continuing legal education seminars held at Wake Forest.

"This is an exceptional gift for the law school's biggest need additional financial aid for students," said Robert Walsh, dean of the law school. "This is only one of many important ways in which Petree Stockton has supported our law school community."

Petree Stockton was founded more than 75 years ago in Winston-Salem and is one of the state's oldest and largest law firms. It was recently named one of the top 50 law firms in the U.S. by the legal journal International Corporation Law, which surveyed the 400 largest law firms in the country. Wake Forest University School of Law begins celebration of its 100th Anniversary in August.

Local Students Selected To Attend Conference

Seven Winston Salem youths recently attended the 1994 North Carolina-West Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY) Leadership Seminar. This three-day, expense paid seminar was held June 10-12 at the University of North Carolina Charlotte and included 170 of the top high-school sophomores from Western North Carolina.

Each area high school selects one sophomore student, who has demonstrated leadership potential, to attend the event. The nominees representing the Winston Salem area are: Camille Breathette, Salem Academy; Raleigh Gregory, Reynolds H.S.; Todd Hollander, Mount Tabor H.S.; Darryl Piggott, Carver H.S.; Raphael Rosen, Forsyth Country Day School; Rebecca Sheets, Parkland H.S.; and Jonathan P. Shepherd, West Forsyth H.S.

The conference provides these outstanding students an opportunity to interact and discuss the "American Incentive System" with prominent leaders from business, government, education and the non-profit sector. HOBY challenges its participants, the leaders of tomorrow to make critical decisions about our current societal conditions and formulate strategies to improve this environment in the future.

Founded by actor Hugh O'Brian more than 30 years ago, HOBY's basic philosophy is to seek out, reward and stimulate leadership potential in high school sophomores. The seminar is hosted by the Charlotte Jaycees together with Kiwanis and the North Carolina Federation of Women's Club.

At each HOBY Leadership Seminar site one, boy and one girl is chosen to represent their state at the World Leadership Congress. The 1994 World Leadership Congress will be held July 22 - July 30 at Arizona State University, Tempe, Arizona.

At the closing ceremonies of the HOBY West seminar, it was announced that Camille Breathette from Salem Academy and Jonathan Shepherd from West Forsyth would be the 1994 World Leadership Congress representatives for North Carolina. These two "outstanding" youth leaders will be two of only 160 youths from around the world to attend this Congress.

At the World Leadership Congress, Camille and Jonathan will be discussing "The Role of the United States in the World Community" with prominent national and international leaders."

Kate B. Reynolds Awards Grant

The North Carolina Council of Churches has been awarded a $38,000 grant by the Kate B. Reynolds Charitable Trust of Winston-Salem.

The funds will be used to expand the staff of the Triangle AIDS Interfaith Network, a program of the Council. The director of the program is the Rev. Virginia Goig, a deacon of the North Carolina Diocese of the Episcopal Church. The North Carolina Council of Churches was founded in 1935 to encourage unity among the churches and to be an agency of cooperation. Twenty-five denominational bodies comprise the membership of the Council. The Rev. Ann Colvin Roger-Witte is president of the Council.

Success Stories Don't Just Happen On Television.

Roscoe Hubbard is living proof. One of McDonald's many real life success stories. Roscoe first joined us while still a student in high school. Since then, his talents have helped him rise quickly through our ranks. Today, though not yet 30 years old, Roscoe is an Area Supervisor who oversees the operations of four restaurants and more than 200 employees. And that's not surprising because McDonald's believes our doors should open to the type of opportunities that make great success stories possible.
