

Sigma Gamma Rho Hosts 45th Boule

Alpha Mu Sigma and Delta Sigma Sigma Chapters of Sigma Gamma Rho are hosting the International 45th Boule of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority Inc. July 29-Aug. 4.

The theme is "Sailing the Seas of Change in the 90's: Launching New Idea. Challenging Tradition."

There will be a public meeting on July 30 at 6 p.m. and the guest speaker will be Congresswoman Eva Clayton D-N.C.

Earlier that day the National Education Fund and Alpha Mu Sigma chapter will host a "Wellness Fair."

The program mascot is a teddy bear, and the sorority is asking everyone to bring a teddy bear to be presented to Brenner Children's Hospital.

For fund-raising purposes there will be a "K Bear" for purchase.

It is named for Congressman Kweisi Mfume, D-Md. Chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus. It will benefit the National Education Fund.

The Wellness Fair is free and open to the public.

Opening ceremonies for the fair is 10:45 a.m.

There will be booths and exhibits.

Sorority to Hold Pre-Boule Wellness Fair

The national education fund and Alpha Mu Sigma Chapter of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, Inc. are hosting a "Wellness Fair." This is a pre-boule event.

The purpose of the wellness fair is to increase the value and the awareness of the importance of the health, welfare and fitness of the young child and or infants; to improve and or enhance, via an increased accessibility to educational data and information; to increase awareness of relevant programs that can provide and serve as both preventive and intervention resources for the African-American community; to identify available resources such as people and services within the health care system; to establish a data bank of resources with the central focus on children, that will encourage not only the improvement of the health of the young child or infant, but will also set the stage for future career choices.

The wellness fair will be held Saturday, July 30 at the Adams-Mark hotel at 11 a.m.

Many celebrities will be at the press conference, including actor Kene Holliday.

Holliday's television credits include "Carter Country," "Matlock," and "The Josephine Baker Story."

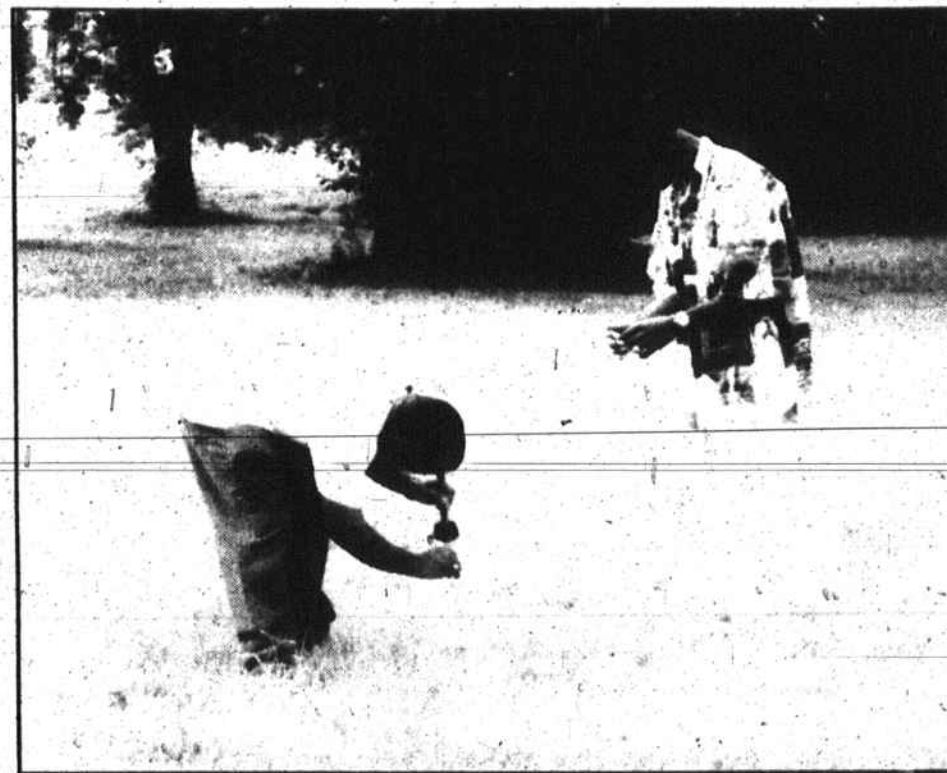

Kene Holliday

Recently he appeared in the series "Ain't Misbehavin'" with Nell Carter and the movie of the week "Stormy Weather" with Cybil Shepherd.

Rocket Launch

Students who participated in the Math and Science Academy for Excellence recently ended their session on a high note as they launched the rockets they made during science class. Students constructed and decorated their own rockets, and tiny engines were used to fire them off. The launch concluded a science class taught by Valerie Davis. In order to understand how the rocket could lift off, students learned about Newton's laws of motion and forces, such as gravity, drag, thrust and lift. Academy assistants helped students load the rockets onto the launcher in preparation for lift off.

Walter Marshall to Fight Random from page 1

would be no discrimination," he said.

The possibility for discrimination arises, Marshall said, because there would be no one to monitor if school personnel stayed true to a certain formula in a random search, such as every third student.

"They can't make sure that it's going to be used right," Marshall said.

Piggot, who is black, agreed that there is a possibility of discrimination with random searching. He added that in most policies there is a possibility of misuse, but those applying the policy must be responsible and carry it out fairly.

"Those applying the policy must show some integrity," he said. "If they say every fifth kid, it must be every fifth kid, whether they are green or blue."

Jessup said the responsibility of conducting the searches fairly would be with school administrators. Also, in most cases, schools would ask that liaison officers for the Sheriff's Department be present. Jessup added that teachers may be involved with conducting searches if a situation arose that warranted a search of all the student body.

Marshall and Piggot share a concern about Fourth Amendment violations with random searching. But Jessup said if the policy is carried out the way Pungor proposes, the school system would not have to worry about legal ramifications. He added that Pungor has been really conservative on the issue of metal detectors because of the Fourth Amendment.

After the policy board votes on the issue, it will appear before the entire school board for final approval.

Cyrene Crusaders to Celebrate Anniversary

Elizabeth Court No. 7 Order of the Cyrene Crusaders will celebrate its first anniversary the weekend of Aug. 27-28.

On Aug. 27, the Court will host a prayer breakfast from 9-11 a.m. at Goler Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church on Patterson Ave. The anniversary service will be held at 3:30 p.m. on Aug. 28 at Goler.

The theme for the celebration is "We Are Family." The chairperson is Princess Gwendolyn Goins. Special guests will include the Men of Goler Memorial Church, all the affiliate bodies of the Prince Hall family, and other Cyrene Courts throughout North Carolina.

The Prison Ministry Choir of the church will render the music under the direction of Aaron Orr for both services. Orr is an associate minister at Goler. Princess Pat Rhodes-Landingham is the commandress. Sir Knight Weldon Hay is the chief engineer. Eminent Commander Hessie Smith and the sponsoring Knights Temple will co-host the anniversary.

Pat Rhodes-Landingham

Todd Burke, Pansy Glanton To Vie For Superior Court Seat

from page 1

perhaps neither — is likely to get it when the seat becomes vacant.

"I think I have the temperament and the ability to be a fair and impartial judge," Glanton said Wednesday morning in an interview. "And I think we need a woman in Superior Court."

Glanton has worked in the Forsyth County district attorney's office since 1987, which was shortly after she left the Thurgood Marshall School of Law at Texas Southern University. She graduated with honors from North Carolina Central University in 1983.

Burke, a graduate of Morehouse College in Atlanta and North Carolina Central's law school, worked briefly as an assistant district attorney in Winston before joining the district attorney's office here. In 1991, the Winston-Salem native went into private practice with Billy D. Friend.

Burke has experience prosecuting jury cases on the district and superior court level. He specializes in civil and criminal law.

For both Glanton and Burke, it has been a wait-and-see game. For either to be considered for the Superior Court, there has to be a vacancy — and that appears imminent. The FBI and the American Bar Association are conducting background checks on Forsyth County Superior Court Judge James A. Beaty Jr. to confirm his fitness as the new U.S. District Court judge in the state's Middle District to replace senior federal Judge Richard C. Erwin.

"Yes, I am interested and I have let my interest be known in the event that (Beaty's) nominated and there becomes a vacancy," Burke said.

Erwin retired in November 1992, but President Clinton has not nominated anyone to replace him. "I'm just carrying on until a judge comes. There's no way to tell when that will be," he said.

Erwin said the federal judgeship in the Middle District is one of approximately 80 judgeships for which President Clinton must make a nomination.

"The FBI and the ABA are looking at (Beaty's) qualifications and as soon as they are ready they will send it to the president who'll send it the Senate for confirmation," he said.

Erwin said filling the vacancy in North Carolina may not be President Clinton's top priority. "The president did not carry North Carolina, so if Illinois has a vacancy and I carried that state, I

Mitchell, Martin Seek Seat on

from page 1

ethnic background. I feel I have strong people skills and I feel very qualified after practicing law for 14 years. I know the law and would apply it fairly, appropriately and compassionately."

Martin graduated from Wake Forest University's law school in 1978 and has been an assistant county attorney since 1988. Prior to that she was a general practitioner specializing in criminal, traffic and personal injury law.

Mitchell, also a graduate of Wake Forest's law school, said the judgeship would allow her to continue in her role as a conduit of the community and the legal system.

"I see it as a further opportunity for me to give something back to the community — to have some impact," Mitchell said in a recent interview.

Interestingly enough, the seat that they are seeking is being vacated by Biggs, in part, because of her inability to have an impact. Biggs said that as a judge she could not have the type of influence she wanted to have in the community. At the U.S. attorney's office, Biggs will have more of an impact because she will coordinate crime-prevention efforts in the Middle District. Mitchell, however, said judges can have an impact. If she wins the appointment, one way that she hopes to make an impact is to look at alternatives to incarceration and treat fairly those who appear before her.

"As a judge you have an opportunity to see that people are treated fairly," Mitchell said. "I agree that you are limited to a certain degree. You don't make the law — you enforce the laws that are there. But you can ensure that it is meted out fairly."

Mitchell, a native of New York City who now lives in Bethania, graduated from Wake Forest law school in 1979 and has been a solo practitioner ever since, specializing in residential, commercial and civil law.

Biggs' departure leaves only one African American — Judge Roland Hayes — and one woman — Judge Margaret Sharpe — among the remaining six judges in District Court.

Mitchell and Martin agree that it is important to maintain an ethnic and gender balance. Mitchell said she would add a perspective to the bench that a white person could not.

"It makes a difference in how you perceive the person before you," she said. "The fact that you came from what is referred to as a non-traditional home should not mean that you are more harshly treated than someone who comes from an environment you might consider traditional and normal. I have had exposure to the non-traditional and would not judge them in a harsh way." The Forsyth County Bar will meet Aug. 3 to vote on what three names will be submitted to the governor. The meeting will be at 4 p.m. at the Hall of Justice.

Should the governor fail to make an appointment within 60 days after receiving the list of candidates, the judgeship goes to the bar member with the highest number of votes.

Others seeking the nomination are Anne Connolly, Lawrence J. Fine, Lisa Menefee and Ronald E. Spivey.

Martin, 40, is married and has two children, ages 13 and 7. Mitchell, who declined to reveal her age, is separated from her husband. They have no children.

ADVERTISEMENT

PRESIDENT

SAINT AUGUSTINE'S COLLEGE
RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA 27610-2298

The Board of Trustees invites applications and nominations for the position of President. Saint Augustine's College was founded in 1867 by the Freedmen Commission of the Protestant Episcopal Church and the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina to educate newly-freed slaves. The college is a member institution of the association of Episcopal Colleges, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools of which the college is fully accredited, the United Negro College Fund, the American Council on Education, the National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education, the American Association of Higher Education, the North Carolina Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, cooperating Raleigh colleges, and other educational-related organizations.

REPORTING RELATIONSHIPS:
The president reports to the Board of Trustees.

EXPECTATIONS & RESPONSIBILITIES:
Ability to define a vision and to lead the college in its pursuit of excellence in education and in producing the highest quality graduates; providing leadership in significantly strengthening college and related programs; serving as primary emissary of the college to external groups and actively representing the college at the local, state, national and international levels on social and public issues which do or may impact on the interest of the college; enthusiastic willingness and ability to lead effectively and measurably the perennial fund-raising programs and activities; coordinating and monitoring an annual budget in the $25 to $30 million range; recruiting, evaluating and developing senior administrators and faculty; sustaining an environment which facilitates academic excellence in all divisions which include business, education, humanities, natural science, social science and allied health; maintaining a strong relationship and commitment to the Protestant Episcopal Church and the ability to maximize the organic ties between the college and the Protestant Episcopal Church at all levels of the hierarchy of the church without regard to geographical boundaries; able to promote consensus-building programs with students, faculty, staff, alumni and other college interest groups and the ability to set goals, establish measures of effectiveness and develop plans of action as a means of accelerating progress in advancing the mission of the college.

DESIRED QUALIFICATIONS:
Earned doctorate from a college or university which is approved by a regional accrediting association; an exemplary record of relevant administrative experience; demonstrated ability to be a fund raiser; a history of being able to communicate effectively both orally and in writing to the various college constituents and the public at large.

SALARY & COMPENSATION:
Competitive and commensurate with background and ability to meet the expectations, responsibilities and qualifications as set forth above.

APPLICATION DEADLINE:
Applications accepted until 12:00 midnight, October 1, 1994, EST.

DATE OF APPOINTMENT:
As soon as possible, but not later than March 31, 1995.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE:
Send letter of application, current resume and names, telephone numbers and addresses of five references in strict confidence to:

MARSHALL B. BASS
CHAIR, SEARCH COMMITTEE FOR THE PRESIDENT,
SAINT AUGUSTINE'S COLLEGE
P.O. Box 25545
RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA 27611-5545

Saint Augustine's College is an equal opportunity employer.