Glenn overcame five first-half turnovers and scored late in the game on a halfback pass to beat neighboring rival East Forsyth, 14-6, Oct. 26 in non-conference junior varsity football in Kernersville.

The winning touchdown came with 3:44 to play on a 52-yard pass from halfback Lamonte Stephens to Kevin Witherspoon as the defensive back missed knocking down the ball by an eyelash. Darnell Payne bulled over for the extra point as Glenn won for the second time this season. It stands 2-7 overall, while East Forsyth fell to 3-6. "I thought the effort was there," East Forsyth coach Phillip Beeson said. "Our defense rose to the occasion for most of the game. We were in the coverage we wanted on the touchdown pass, but Glenn executed well. We tipped the ball and they caught it. You have to give them credit."

Glenn sweated out the victory, which could have been much easier had the Bobcats not turned the ball over five times in the first half, four times within scoring distance. "It was not a good first half with five turnovers," Glenn coach Eddie Hawley said. "East did a good job stripping the ball. It's hard to establish momentum when you turn the ball over."

East Forsyth capitalized on one of the Bobcats' turnovers when defensive back Joe Conrad intercepted a pass that ricocheted off the shoulder of receiver James Evans and scooted 94 yards untouched to give the Eagles a 6-0 lead. The interception was Conrad's second of the game. He also picked off a pass on Glenn's opening possession to thwart a drive.

East Forsyth's Blake Lindsay and Barney Harris recovered fumbles in the first half, while Jeff Chaffin snared two loose balls for Glenn as the teams combined for seven turnovers in the error-prone opening half.

Glenn came out focused like a laser in the second half, taking the kickoff and marching to the East 12-yard line behind the bull-like running of Stephens, Payne, and Willie Gore, but did not score. The Bobcats pounded the middle of the East defense time and again in the second half, a strategy Hawley devised at halftime.

Up In The Air

Soccer is usually thought of as a game played on the ground but North Forsyth and East Forsyth High Schools put a different twist on their Oct. 24th match when they met in junior varsity soccer at East Forsyth. The Metro-FA Conference rivals put the ball in the air frequently during East's 12-0 win.

Paisley Tops Philo as Middle School Volleyball Begins

◆Bell sparks Paisley girls to season-opening win

Kaitlin Bell served 12 consecutive points, including six aces, in the second game to rally Paisley Middle School to a 15-13, 15-9 girls volleyball victory over Philo Oct. 25 in the season opener for both teams.

Philo led 9-3, in large part to the serving of Shannon Snyder and Amy Thompson, who served three and five points, respectively, when Bell stepped to the serving line in the second game. Her low, line-drive serve, which sank sharply once across the net, wasn't returned on first serve to make the score 9-4. Bell then found a weak spot in the Philo defense, rifling four consecutive aces to the middle of the court about three-quarters deep as the stunned Tigers watched helplessly as Paisley pulled within 9-8.

The Panthers tied the game at nine when Philo was unable to return Bell's sixth serve. After a Philo timeout, Bell's seventh serve glanced off the shoulder of one of the Tigers and sailed out of bounds as Paisley took its

When Robby Mills' third of eight consecutive serves tied Paisley with Philo, he looked over and smiled at Paisley coach Van Monroe. At that moment Monroe knew there was no need for concern.

In the end there wasn't as the Panthers posted a 15-12, 16-14 victory as middle school volleyball got underway in Forsyth County Oct. 25.

As the scores indicated, Paisley didn't have an easy time against Philo despite Monroe's professed lack of concern. The teams traded serves for much of the match, neither able to establish much momentum.

Paisley trailed 6-3 in the opening game when Mills began serving. After tying it at 6-6, he served five more winners to give Paisley an 11-6 lead. Two more points off serves by Joel Justus pulled the Panthers within two points of victory at 13-6. That's when Philo's Curtis Barnette took command. He served the
