

Achievers assemble feast for area family

The Pfafftown Chapter of National Youth Achievers (NYA) met Nov. 25 at 6:30 p.m. at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, 810 Highland Ave. The purpose of this meeting was to fill several Thanksgiving boxes for a needy family. The NYA gave their boxes to a single mom with two children who lives in the Kimberly Park Terrace area. A social service person was helpful to the group in finding this family.

The boxes contained a huge turkey, dressing mix, a variety of can goods, eggs, bread, pie, crust, sweet potatoes, white potatoes, cranberry sauce, frozen juices, boxes of macaroni and cheese, butter, spices, shredded cheese, marshmallows, hot chocolate, raisins, a fruit basket, plastic silverware, cups and paper plates.

The Rev. Clifford Coles, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, said a prayer for the food items before they were boxed and delivered.

Youth Achievers present were Jonathan Henry, Charnette Tetterton, Kaneisha Connelly, Charlaye Miller, Varnette Tetterton, Demetria Dove, Candrice Nolan, Ashely Nolan, and Alveria Dove, NYA Pfafftown president.

Adult Achievers present were Jeannette T. Lewis, president of Pfafftown Chapter of National Women of Achievement; Emma Norman; Ann Moye; Valeria Dove; and parents Pamela Nolan and Theresa Henry.

The Pfafftown Chapter youth and adult achievers said they were pleased to make a family happy for Thanksgiving Day.

The Rev. Clifford Coles, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, and Pfafftown youth and adult Achievers gave thanks for the Thanksgiving food.

Pfafftown Youth Achievers show their pleasure with the Thanksgiving box items.

Presbyterian moderator visits Winston-Salem

Patricia Brown, moderator of the Presbyterian Church USA, will speak at the fourth annual Advent Vesper of the Winston-Salem Presbyterian Interracial Dialogue on Sunday, Dec. 7, at 6 p.m. at Parkway Presbyterian Church.

Brown comes from five generations of Presbyterians. She is a descendant of a slave woman, who was owned by Maryland Presbyterians. Now she is the moderator.

In partnership with her husband, she is a businesswoman. She is an elder from the Cincinnati Presbytery, and she is completing her doctorate in sociology. She is active in civil rights causes, spreading her message through a busy schedule of speaking and storytelling.

She said she was moved by the Dialogue's mission to improve race relations and accepted the invitation to be the Advent Vesper speaker.

The Dialogue consists of six Presbyterian churches: Dellabrook, Grace, Highland, Lloyd, Parkway, and Trinity.

Parkway Presbyterian Church is at the corner of Silas Creek Parkway and Yorkshire Road.

NC State to offer courses by cable TV, Internet, video

Registration is open for the 1998 spring semester session of North Carolina State University's Courses by Telecommunications, which offers classes beginning Jan. 5 via cable, the Internet and video programs.

Forty-six courses are being offered. Nine will be broadcast on the Time Warner Cable Education Channel (Raleigh, Knightdale and Zebulon, Channel 18), one will be available on the Internet, and 36 will be accessible on video-cassette. The cable courses may be viewed by all cable subscribers, but those who wish to earn college credit must register and pay tuition to NC State through the university's Office of Instructional Telecommunications.

A current course listing is available on the web at www2.ncsu.edu/oit/. For more information and registration forms, contact the Office of Instructional Telecommunications at (919) 515-7730 or e-mail oit@ncsu.edu.
