he was going to launch them.

"I was looking to take the shot both times," he said. "I'm a senior and I had to step up. I didn't want my career to end without us having a chance to play for a championship."

Thomas was one of only five players on the WSSU team who were alive the last time the Rams played in the championship game in 1977. The others, seniors Windell Owens and Torrian Wynn, along with juniors Larry Patterson were all between one month and eighteen-months-old.

Patterson, who had a game-high 23 points, which included 14-of-15 shooting from the free throw line, said the Rams had confidence in Duckett.

"We were picked to finish last, but Coach Duckett came in and told us that we were going to do better than that," Patterson said. "We had faith in him and we worked hard and it finally paid off. It feels good because of how far we've had to go."

Duckett said his team stuck together through difficult times to get its win.

"I have to give the players a lot of credit," Duckett said. "They worked really hard and never got down on the program or what we asked them to do. They hung in there and now they're able to reap the benefits."

Defense is where the Rams made their mark during the season. The Rams held the Vikings to 22-of-59 shooting (.364) from the field. The Vikings came into the game averaging .456. ECSU was especially inept from the field in the second half, when they made only one of 12 field goals.

"We threw everything at them tonight," Duckett said. "We were able to force some traps out of our press and I think that threw their rhythm off."

Marcus Best of WSSU, who was voted the Rookie of the Year, shadowed William Fitzgerald, ECSU's leading scorer, for most of the game when the Rams were in a man-to-man. Despite an obvious height advantage, Best (6-2) held the 6-8 Fitzgerald to only 15 points, eight points below his league-leading 23-point average. Fitzgerald, the league's top 3-point shooter, made only four of 13 from 3-point range and was five of 19 overall.

WSSU also managed to offset the Vikings' size. The Vikings, whose starting lineup was 6-1, 6-8, 6-10, 6-8 and 6-9, held a slim 37-33 rebounding advantage but managed only 26 points in the paint, the same figure compiled the Rams.

Jennings was hit with two other beer bottles and a water pitcher, Notwitzky said.

Notwitzky said King told him the fight started when Jennings "put his hand on the Marine's leg" and the older man tried to force himself on him.

Defense attorneys argued that the defendants' actions were justified to repulse "unnatural advances."

vehicle. Of all blacks stopped, 12 percent are searched. Only 5 percent of the whites who are stopped are searched.

According to Ballance, the bill is not meant to accuse state highway drug interdiction teams of racial discrimination but to gather data to see if there is a problem. Among the things that can be determined if the bill comes to pass are; Whether drivers fitting certain descriptions are stopped more often than others, whose cars are searched more often and where and who is doing the differant.
