Another black college giant has fallen.

Less than three weeks after the death of legendary black college basketball coach John McLendon, former Jackson State running back Walter Payton, who set a standard of unmatched excellence both in college and in the NFL, died Monday outside Chicago from complications of a rare liver disease. He was 45.

Payton, who retired from the NFL in 1987 after a record-setting 13-year career as the heart and soul of the Chicago Bears, began his ascent as a running back at Jackson State. It was there that he began the highstepping, hard-running style that would become his trademark. By the end of his college career, the Columbia, Miss., native was a Heisman Trophy finalist, the leading scorer in college football history and a first round NFL draft pick. He was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1996.

In the NFL, his legend grew as his flair, will and determination led him to become the league's all-time leading rusher with 16,726 yards. He surpassed the 1,000 yard rushing mark a record ten times and holds seven other NFL records. He was inducted into the league's Hall of Fame in 1993.

"He was all class, on the field and off the field,"

BCSP Notes

t Southern (8-0) gets their second chance to knock off the MEAC's best when they travel to Tallahassee to face Florida A&M (6-2) Saturday (4:00 pm). The Jaguars knocked Hampton from atop the MEAC standings and from the unbeaten ranks, 21-6, at the Oct. 2 Circle City Classic. Southern is ranked third in the latest Sports Network Div. I-AA poll while FAMU is 12th. Southern will also be looking to avenge last year's thrilling 50-48 loss to FAMU on a last-minute field goal in Baton Rouge.

said his former Bears coach, Mike Ditka, now head. coach of the New Orleans Saints. "And he had such a' respect for the game." NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue called Payton "one of the greatest players in the history of the sport. Walter was an inspiration in everything he did."

In an interview last year, Payton's brother Eddie, a former NFL player and current head golf coach at Jackson State, talked about the running style that marked, Walter's career and about the upbringing that framed his outlook on life.

"We were both under the same tutelage," Eddie Payton said. "They (coaches) taught us to attack, not receiver hits. You didn't go down easy, you went down hard. You delivered blows, you didn't accept them. That's the way we were taught.

"We got the basic philosophy (of life) from our parents. What was instilled in us is that there is one rule inathletics and in life. If you start, there's no quit until it's over. We learned early in life that we owed it to ourselves to try to be the best."

Both on and off the field, Walter Payton demonstrated that he took those lessons to heart.

Payton is survived by his wife Connie, son Jarrett, who currently plays for the University of Miami and a, daughter, Brittney.
