Mount Sinai holds Junior Miss Pageant

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

The Nurses Board of Mount Sinai Full Gospel Deliverance Center presented the Junior Miss Mount Sinai Pageant 2004 on March 28, with the thematic emphasis of Psalm 127:3, "Children are an inheritance of the Lord and the fruit of the womb is his reward."

Contestants were: Shaunetta Campbell, daughter of William and Shanna Campbell; Brianna Lowery, daughter of Elder Kenneth and Clarissa Lowery; Gabrielle Oldham, daughter of Deacon Michael and Minister Nina Oldham; Sarah Paige, daughter of Elder Ronald and Vanessa Paige; and Tabitha Pankey, daughter of Elder and Debra Pankey.

Escorting the contestants were Simon Danzy, Timothy Paige, Joshua Oldham, Daniel Paige and Paris Harris, respectfully.

The contestants modeled leisure and formal attire.

In the talent portion of the pageant, Shaunetta Campbell recited poetry, Brianna Lowery played a recorder, Gabrielle Oldham did a spiritually uplifting dance of praise, Sarah Paige presented a dramatization of Psalm 121 and Tabitha Pankey did a cardio workout of jump rope, hula-hooping and steppin'.

However, this was not just a fund raiser, talent or fashion show as each contestant also performed community service and wrote an essay titled "The Importance of a Christian Life."

The apex of the evening was the crowning of Junior Miss Mount Sinai 2004.

Pastor Yvonne Hines announced the winner's name and placed the crown on the head of Sara Paige. The first runner-up was Shaunetta Campbell.

After the crowning ceremony, contestants serenaded the audience with a dedication song titled "People Need the Lord."

Each pageant participant exhibited poise, grace, and talent. Each also expressed an understanding of the Christian spirit and expounded on this knowledge through composition. This experience will undoubtedly help them to grow in Christ and to develop into well rounded young women.

The Junior Miss Pageant was supported by the Nurses Board, under the direction of Vanessa Paige; the talented Pankey sisters; the gospel group Ecclesia; and the auxiliaries of Mount Sinai Full Gospel Deliverance Center.

The church is at 2721 Man-
