Churches unite for relief effort

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

Retired Presiding Elder L. O. Saunders, 78, recently organized and brought together St. James AME Church and First Waughtown Baptist Church in an overwhelmingly successful relief effort for the victims of Hurricane Katrina.

"As I watched on television and read the local paper concerning the relief efforts locally for the Katrina victims, I saw a great disparity between the broadcasting of the white church efforts versus the black church efforts," Saunders said. "This bothered me greatly.

Along with the relief efforts of these churches, Minister Saunders donated $6,000 in cash from his retirement money. Currently, this effort has grown tremendously and items are still coming in.

Rev. H.S. Williams of St.

Organizers pose with the donated items.

James AME Church said he was glad to join with Rev. Dennis Bishop of First Waughtown Baptist Church not only because it was a good thing to do, but because God says it's more blessed to give than to receive. Williams said that he was very glad to participate in this worthwhile project.

Rev. Bishop said that he was also glad to be a part of such a "great work." "This is something that is tangible for the black community," he said.

Ericsteen Lash, owner of the Community Shoe Store in Winston-Salem, who also attends St. James AME Church, donated more than 100 pairs of brand-new shoes to this effort.

These efforts are still ongoing and you may drop off any donations that you have between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. daily for the next several days at St. James AME Church, 13th and Patterson streets. Call Rev. H.S. Williams at (336) 724-3865 if you have further questions concerning this drive. The items collected will be delivered to the hurricane victims on the fifth weekend in October.

VOICES OF PRAISE

The Sons of Thunder, a Southern gospel quartet perform for a crowd of more than 200 Saturday Habitat for Humanity of Forsyth County's Homecoming. The members of the group belong to Clemmons United Methodist Church.

Union's McDaniel to pastor Elon church

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

Rev. Marceo Keith McDaniel, an associate minister of Union Baptist Church, has been called to pastor Elon First Baptist Church in Elon.

McDaniel

His preaching ministry began at Union Baptist Church under the leadership of the Rev. Dr. Sir Walter Mack Jr. While at Union, McDaniel taught Sunday school classes, family life institute classes and led Bible studies.

Many refer to McDaniel as being the son of Union Baptist Church. His grandfather, the Rev. A.H. McDaniel, was the pastor for 47 years until his death in 1980. McDaniel's first sermon as pastor of Elon First Baptist was preached from his grandfather's Bible. During that service, he thanked the members of Elon First Baptist for giving him the opportunity to preach from that Bible as their pastor.

McDaniel is the son of Minister Silas C. Hart and Deaconess Branelisa Kay Hart. He is married to Garriel McDaniel. They have two children - Marceo Jr. and Madison Nicole.

He is an honor graduate of Shaw University, where he majored in religion and philosophy and minored in business management. He is currently studying at Duke Divinity School, working toward achieving a Master of Divinity degree.

The installation service for McDaniel will be held Oct. 30 at 4 p.m. This celebration will be held at Ebenezer United Church of Christ ECCO Building, 734 Apple St. in Burlington.

Galilee will host homecoming Oct. 30

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

Galilee Missionary Baptist Church will observe its 51st homecoming on Sunday, Oct. 30, in a joint worship service at 9 a.m.

The theme is "Pressing On." The homecoming theme song is "Higher Ground."

The guest speaker for the occasion is the Rev. J.E. O'Neal, pastor of Holden Chapel Missionary Baptist Church in Boiling Springs, S.C. O'Neal is a graduate of Shaw University in Raleigh and has a Bachelor of Arts degree in religion and philosophy. He has also attended North Greenville College, Morris College School of Raleigh, Columbia Bible College, Mid-Atlantic Bible College, and Greenville Technical College with an associate's degree in marketing.

O'Neal has been accepted and plans to attend in the winter of 2006 Erskine Bible College and Seminary in pursuit of his Master of Divinity degree.

O'Neal is and has been very active in the local union of churches, association and the community in which he pastors. In 1997 he was appointed to the Minority Advisory Board at the University of South Carolina in Spartanburg. He is married to Barbara A. O'Neal, and they have two children and three grandchildren.

A special invitation is extended to the community and to all former Galilee members to come and share in this special homecoming service.

Galilee is at 575 Martin Luther King Jr. Drive. The interim minister is Preston Fulp. For more information, contact the church office at 724-3857.

United Cornerstone to hold breakfast

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

United Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church will hold its quarterly prayer breakfast, fifth Sunday missionary program, and salad fest this weekend.

On Saturday, Oct. 29, at 9:45 a.m., the quarterly prayer breakfast will be held with guest speaker Larry Butler, Raleigh. Butler is the third son of Marion L. Butler and the late Dr. J. Ray Butler.

Butler has a B.S. degree in political science from N.C. A&T State University, Greensboro. He has done postgraduate studies toward an M.S. degree in public administration from N.C. State University, Raleigh. He is an N.C. certified criminal justice instructor.

Butler set the tone for his

family devotion many years ago when he answered God's call to Christian discipleship at the tender age of 8. He has remained a committed and dedicated worker in God's vineyard through the years.

Butler believes "Everything moves by the Power of God."

On Sunday Oct. 30, at 11 a.m. worship, the quarterly fifth Sunday program will be held. The guest speaker will be Bronnie Harris Daniels. Daniels is the daughter of the late Lucy Harris Hawkins and widow of the late Dr. Benjamin F. Daniels. She is a retired guidance counselor with the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County School System.

On Sunday Oct. 30, at 4 p.m., the church will hold a salad fest. The public is invited to attend. Hilda C. Smith is president of the Joint Missionary Ministry. The church is at 2743 Patria St. at Wright Street.

Church honors Youngs for their service

SPECIAL TO CHRONICLE

The Ephesus Seventh-day Adventist Church, 1225 N. Cleveland Ave, has named the Revs. John and Nancy Young as the recipients of its Community Service Award. The Youngs founded and run The Potter's House.

The award was given Oct. 15 at the Ephesus SDA Community Guest Day. The event was well attended, and the festivities surrounding this special day were well received. The Youngs have demonstrated their commitment to improving their once-improverished neighborhood by establishing the Potter's House in 1998, Ephesus officials said.

The Youngs' mission is to assist families once overcome by addiction and poverty by investing in their education, developing wholesome relationships and mentoring to the youth. Some of the programs and services offered by The Potter's House include: an after-school enrichment program, transitional housing for homeless women, adult computer classes, food distribution program, youth survivor teen ministry and a women's support group.

New Orleans pastor to speak at Goler AME

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

Oct. 30 at 11 a.m. will be exciting and important time for the community and the Goler Memorial Church family. First, it is important because the church's young people will be culminating the planning of the "True Love Waits" program.

Second, the church is proud to have a dynamic guest speaker, the Rev. Dwight Webster, the pastor of Christian Unity Baptist Church in New Orleans and the director of African studies at Southern University in New Orleans. Webster will preach and tell the firsthand story of the devastation in that area.

Contributions are still being collected and may be brought to the Goler Community Building, 600 N. Chestnut St. Those persons wishing to help may bring nonperishable food items, new clothing, cleaning supplies, grocery gift cards or cash. The community is invited to come and join Goler for this occasion.

The community is invited to this service. The church is at 630 N. Patterson Ave. The Rev. Dr. Seth O. Lartey is the pastor. For more information, contact the church office at (336) 724-9411.
