

Winston-Salem State University to celebrate Founder's Day Oct. 22

Speaker Dr. Charles Love is a WSSU alumnus

Dr. Charles Love

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

Dr. Charles Love, dean of the School of Education at the University of South Carolina Upstate, will serve as the guest speaker for the 2010 Founder's Day Convocation at Winston-Salem State University (WSSU) on Friday, Oct. 22 at 9:45 a.m. in the K. R. Williams Auditorium on campus.

Founder's Day honors Dr. Simon Green Atkins who, in 1892, began Slater Industrial Academy, which became Winston-Salem Teacher's College and is now Winston-Salem State duties as dean, he occasionally teaches classes in educational curriculum issues and school leadership.

Prior to his current role, he held positions in higher education at Albany State University, Georgia College & State University, Grambling State University and Johnson C. Smith University. Love also served as a teacher, assistant principal, principal and in administration with the public schools in Charlotte, N.C., as well as serving as director of Student Information and Management for the N.C. Department of Public Instruction.

An alumnus of Winston-Salem State University with a B.S. degree in elementary education, Love earned his master's degree from the University of North Carolina Charlotte and a specialist degree in educational administration from Appalachian State University. He earned his doctorate degree in educational administration from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill.

Love serves in numerous positions with the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education and is a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Teacher Educators. He also serves on the Board of Visitors at WSSU.

Also as part of Founder's Day, there will be the traditional wreath laying ceremony at Dr. Atkins' statue on campus at 8:45 a.m. prior to the convocation.

City offering free business training series

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

The city's Minority/Women's Business Enterprise office is offering a free eight-week business training program for people interested in starting a small business or who recently started one.

Topics include market analysis, writing a business plan, applying for financing, legal issues, bookkeeping & taxes, business insurance and more. The course will also include information on how to apply for a city loan for your business.

The program starts Oct. 21 and will wrap up Dec. 16. Classes will be held 6 to 8 p.m. on Thursday evenings at the Carl H. Russell Sr. Recreation Center, 3521 Carver School Road.

The program is free but you must register by Oct. 17. For more information or to register, call City Link at 727-8000.

UNCSA to hold Open House

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

The Office of Admissions at UNCSA will conduct a Fall Open House for prospective students and their families on Friday, Nov. 5. The Open House will allow prospective applicants to experience the campus for a day and discover why UNCSA is the place for talented students to train. Registration will start that day, from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. An Information Fair will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. A Welcome Session will be held from 1-1:45 p.m. At 2 p.m., prospective students will be able to visit the arts school of their choice and meet with deans, faculty members and current students. From 3:45-5 p.m., campus tours will be offered to the prospective students and their parents.

UNCSA offers programs for middle/high school to graduate school, depending on the particular discipline. Prospective high school students should note that the state of North Carolina now pays the full cost of attending UNCSA (tuition, fees, room and board) for all in-state students who are accepted into the high school program.

Registration is required. Prospective students may fill out the form available online at www.uncsa.edu/admissions/open-house.htm and email the completed form to open-house@uncsa.edu, or mail it to UNCSA Office of Admissions, 1533 South Main St., Winston-Salem, NC 27127.

For more information, visit www.uncsa.edu/admissions or call 336-770-3290.
