newest period of suffering. As their undisputed leader, Samuel urges them to return to God by putting away the Canaanite idols. He tells them to gather at Mizpah (Mizpeh) to fast and he will pray to God for deliverance.

The pouring of water signifies repentance, replacing disloyalty with loyalty to God alone. As their judge (who pointed out their sin) and priest, he prays for them before offering a sacrifice to God. As their prophet, his prediction of deliverance will come true. The Philistines are defeated never to occupy the Israelites' land again. They are victorious because they have faith in God, not the Ark!

Application: During this month, our focus is "Justice Enacted." What better way to enact justice by putting God first in all things. If we aren't in a right relationship with Him, how can we practice justice towards others?

will be Bible lessons on how to be a disciple, along with fun, fellowship, games, songs, skits, snacks and a fish fry. The public is invited to attend. ## Something New

Winston-Salem State University students, administrators, staff and faculty take part in last week's groundbreaking ceremony for a new residence hall. The building is slated to go up near the S.G. Atkins House on Wallace Street and should open in August 2013. It will house first- and second-year students. School officials say that the building will be a 44,000-square-foot, 227 bed, two tower "pod" concept facility, with each floor of each tower containing 16 double-occupancy student rooms, two shared bathrooms and a common living space. A one story connector building will link the two towers with common space for all residents, including a classroom for group resident instruction in a living learning community. The building is being financed through the support of the WSSU Foundation at a construction cost of just over $10 million.
