

ONE MAN ONE BUILDING ONE VISION

AND 120 YEARS

With a one-room schoolhouse in 1892, Simon Green Atkins laid the foundation for an enduring legacy to provide opportunities for all to achieve success and strengthen our community.

From our beginning as Slater Industrial Academy in 1892 to Winston-Salem State University today, we are proud to continue Dr. Atkins' legacy – strengthening our community while preparing students for a global workforce. As we enter our 120th year, there are many exciting changes taking place on campus and in the classroom as we continue our commitment to transform education to develop the whole student.

THIS IS WSSU NOW.
