Deltas partner with Winston-Salem Prep on international project

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

For the last three years, the Winston-Salem Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. has partnered with Winston-Salem Prep Academy Middle School to bring awareness to international water crises.

The students in Janel Sharpe's 8th-grade classes learned about and discussed international water crises.

On Thursday, April 9, Dr. Jean R. Dominique, a native of Port Au Prince, Haiti, spoke to the classes about the importance of maintaining clean and safe water. He explained that in the United States, water is often taken for granted but in many places such as his native land, Haiti, there is a severe water crisis. He further stated that sanitation issues lead to clean water not always being available.

Haitians sometimes become chronically ill due to the lack of clean water. The students were very attentive and had numerous questions for Dominique.

The students have written essays and prepared posters describing the international water crisis. The posters and essays will be judged and winners will be selected. Delta Sigma Theta Sorority will award prizes to the winners at their 8th grade graduation.

Through its International projects, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority Inc. enables Delta women and the community to broaden their knowledge and understanding of nations other than their own and in a small way, assist in the solutions of world problems.

Elizabeth Newton is the president of the Winston-Salem Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority and Gail Hosch is the chair of the International Awareness Committee.

Alumnus, photographer, filmmaker to speak at UNCSA high school graduation

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

An alumnus and world-renowned photographer, documentary filmmaker, and director will return to the University of North Carolina School of the Arts as speaker for High School Commencement.

David LaChapelle (Visual Arts '81) will speak during the event at 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 16, at UNCSA's Stevens Center.

LaChapelle, Chancellor Lindsay Bierman said, is a great role model for graduating seniors.

"His high school arts conservatory education helped him build a successful, meaningful career doing what he loves. We want that for all of our graduates," he said.

LaChapelle will receive an honorary doctorate from UNCSA during the ceremony, which will award diplomas to an estimated 121 students in Dance, Drama,

Music and Visual Arts.

Celebrating its 50th anniversary, the University of North Carolina School of the Arts is America's first state-supported arts school, a unique stand-alone public university of arts conservatories. With a high school component, UNCSA is a degree-granting institution that trains young people of talent in music, dance, drama, filmmaking, and design and production.

Established by the N.C. General Assembly in 1963, the School of the Arts opened in Winston-Salem in 1965 and became part of the University of North Carolina system when it was formed in 1972. UNCSA's college commencement will be held at 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 9. For more information, visit www.uncsa.edu.
