DD Adams vs Virginia Foxx

BY TODD LUCK
THE CHRONICLE

Denise "DD" Adams will take on U.S. Rep. Virginia Foxx in November.

After more than a year of campaigning, Adams won her primary against fellow Democrat Jenny Marshall.

Adams, a city council member who represents Winston-Salem's North Ward, got about 54 percent of the vote and Marshall, a school teacher and first-time politician, got about 45 percent of the vote, according to unofficial results. Just over 14 percent of registered voters cast their ballots in all races statewide.

The 5th District contains parts of 11 counties, including all of Forsyth.

Rep. Foxx

Adams won Forsyth County, while Marshall led in the other parts of the district. The district is heavily Republican, which has led to decisive General Election victories in the past for Foxx, who is in her sixth term. Foxx won her primary against challengers Dillon Gentry and Cortland J. Meader Jr. with 80 percent of the vote. As of April 18, Foxx's campaign had nearly $3 million on hand compared to Adams' campaign, which had $4,579.93 on hand and had raised $131,074.93 overall.

THE CHRONICLE

We now have an answer to who the Democratic winner is for the office of sheriff. With 85 percent of the precincts reporting, Bobby Kimbrough has won the nomination to the General Election in landslide fashion over Tim Wooten and Cliff Kilby.

Kimbrough led with 71 percent of the vote with 86 of the 101 precincts reporting at the time this article was written. Kimbrough held a watch party at Carolina's Vinyard & Hops to wait out the results.

Many of his family, friends and supporters were on site to witness his triumph. As the results continued to come in, the mood in the room became more and more jubilant as his lead spread wider throughout the evening.

As Kimbrough received notification he had won, it seemed as though it was a foregone conclusion as his lead was never in jeopardy. Kimbrough expressed the fight is not over as he will now face off against incumbent William Schatzman in the fall.

"I am very humbled by the experience and grateful to the people that came out and voted regardless of who they voted for," said Kimbrough. "I am happy for the support that the

McDaniel, El-Amin win Commission seats

BY TEVIN STINSON
THE CHRONICLE

In the battle for the two seats up for grabs in District A on the Forsyth County Board of Commissioners, incumbent Fleming El-Amin and Tonya McDaniel came away with the victories over Tony Burton and incumbent Everette Witherspoon.

McDaniel, a city native and graduate of Winston-Salem State University, was the top vote getter in the closely contested race.

CAMPAIGN

The director of human resources at United Health Centers, McDaniel is also the second vice president of the Winston-Salem NAACP chapter.

Although she is considered a newcomer to the political stage, in 2012 McDaniel served as Earline Parmon's campaign manager and credits Parmon for showing her the ropes. McDaniel said she decided to run because District A needed a "vision for constituency." She said while attending the Women's March on the Polls earlier this year, she decided enough was enough and made the decision to run.

In a post on her official Facebook page where she is discussing her reasons for running McDaniel wrote, "It takes a lot of courage, strength, and tenacity to run in an all-minority male dominated race for Forsyth County

Rev. Jackson: "We must fight the Right Now fight"

BY BUSTA BROWN
THE CHRONICLE

"I once asked Rosa Parks, I said 'Mrs. Parks, why didn't you give up your seat and go to the back? You could have been killed, or beaten. Five thousand lives have been lynched.' She said, 'I thought about going to the back, but then I thought about Emmett Till, and I couldn't go back,'" said Rev. Jesse Jackson as he addressed the students, their families and faculty at Bennett College's 2018 Baccalaureate Service this past Friday, May 4.
