THE CHRONICLE

Day one of the Lash/Chronicle Tournament provided everything a basketball fan could want. There were close games, blow outs, dramatic comebacks and more. After the dust settled on the first day of action, Mt. Tabor looks like the team to beat in the Lash Division, while North Forsyth looked impressive in the Chronicle Division. With the top two seeds in the Chronicle Division (Walkertown and Atkins) getting a bye on Day One, this Saturday could provide some fireworks.

Christmas for the City

BY TEVIN STINSON
THE CHRONICLE

The holiday spirit permeated the Benton Convention Center last Thursday evening as thousands came together to celebrate Christmas.

For the past decade Love Out Loud, a local non-profit, has partnered with local churches, businesses, and other non-profits to host Christmas for the City and this year the event was bigger than ever. Imagine the entire city coming together for a Christmas party and you get the idea of Christmas for the City.

The event had something for everyone. There were live performances, arts & crafts, food, ven-

While helping her grandson at the Cookie Decorating Station, Teresa Robinson said it was her first time attending Christmas for the City but it wouldn't be her last. Robinson said, "I think it is great that we have something where everyone can celebrate the holidays. There are people here from all walks of life and that's what the holidays are all about - coming together."
