West Point, N. Y., Jame 13-Addressing the graduating class of the millary academy here today. President Wilson touched on almost all the subects discussed by Former Justice Hughes, in his telegram accepting the Republican nomination, and alluded to Americanism, militarism, prepared tess, peace, war and other topics of pressing interest.

Substance of Speech

He told the graduates that they faced "many extraordinary possibilities." because no one could tell what the immediate future is going to be, either in the history of this country of the history of the world, it is the present inperative duty of America to be prepared, he said, to see that nobody marthe civilization she has built up and being safe itself against interference from the outside, he added, "all its force is going to be behind its moral

"You know that the chief thing that is holding many people back from enthusiasm for what is called preparedness is the fear of militarism. I hierarchies in Mexico want to say a word to you young gentlemen about militarism. You're not a militarist, because you are military. Militarism does not consist in the existence of an army not even in the maintained of the constant of the American transfer of the American transfer of a statement the first issued transfer. Continuing, he said existence of an army not even in the maintainance of a very great army.
