BIBLE THOUGHT

"NOT I BUT CHRIST." (Gal. 2:20)
"That in all things HE might have the preeminence." (Col. 1:18)

Someone has pointed out that usually the young Christian worker starts out with the prayer, "Lord help me to do my work." Later on he learns to pray, "Lord help me to do Thy work."

WHY WE NEED A NAVY OF TREATY STRENGTH

A few years ago a great many Americans would have been seriously disturbed by an announcement that their navy was to be built up forthwith to treaty strength and made literally second to none.

Today the news that this is to be done bothers hardly anyone; and this change of attitude measures the failure of American efforts to get the other nations of the world to agree on an effective disarmament program.

No peace-loving American need be ashamed of his country's record in respect to disarmament.

Shortly after the close of the World war the United States fleet, counting vessels already built, vessels laid down and vessels definitely appropriated for, was by far the most powerful fleet ever dreamed of.

If the program then in effect had been completed, no other navy on earth could have hoped to cope with American sea strength. The Washington conference saw this country voluntarily throwing away the finest fighting ships ever built.

That was a magnificent beginning. But it was not followed up; and the fault for that failure does not rest on the American government. Repeatedly during the next decade Washington sought to extend the arms reduction treaty and scale down world navies, and repeatedly other powers refused to go along.

As a result, it has been made very apparent that world sentiment has not yet reached the point at which any genuine, far-reaching naval disarmament program is possible. We have tried, we have made sacrifices, but it is no go.

That being the case, what is there left to do but build up to treaty strength? The time has not yet come in which we can discard our defenses. If we continue to maintain any navy at all, it has to be a good one; and since no one else is willing to go with us on a new reduction program, we can hardly do anything else than make our navy the best navy that the existing treaty permits.

Hollywood story says no sooner do newly-married movie stars begin to get really acquainted with each other than they want a divorce. Probably that explains it.

Upon reading the statement of Elyria, Ohio, bank tellers that 75 per cent of women depositors carry their money in their stockings, one naturally reaches a conclusion. The conclusion is that Elyria bank tellers should pay more attention to banking.

Husbands who complain they never get a kick out of life might try making a tactless remark while sitting opposite the wife at a dinner table when guests are present.

"Five Thousand Pocketbook Makers Strike in New York"—headline. Too bad that this should happen just as a lot of people are finding use for them again.

We haven't yet heard the details of that strike called by microphone technicians at a Hollywood studio, but doubtless there were sound reasons behind it.

NEWSPAPERS' OPINIONS

HOW ABOUT YOUR STATE?

Morgan T. Ryan, registrar of motor vehicles in Massachusetts, is troubled about a 10 per cent increase in auto accidents this year, though there is a decrease of 8 per cent in the number of cars registered.

"It may not be beer alone that is the cause of the increase of accidents, but the general let-down regarding strong drink that followed the agitation for beer. But here are some facts that beer lovers and 'repeaters' might think about. In this country we have almost eight times as many motor vehicles, according to population, as they have in England.

"In spite of this fact, England, where there is no prohibition, and with eight times less cars, produces almost three times as many motor vehicle deaths in proportion to the number of cars. If intoxicants come back to our country, and leaving out the increased hazard of the greater number of cars, but figuring only on the number in England, we will have over 72,600 people killed every year by automobiles. And that would equal the wiping out of a city the size of Salem (Mass.) every year. I am speaking of automobile deaths only. Automobile accidents that resulted in maiming and injuries only would run up into the millions."—The Presbyterian Advance.

DRY FIGURES

Before prohibition there were 176,000 open saloons in the United States; now there are 350,000 gasoline stations.

The open saloon paid an annual revenue to the government of 363 million dollars; the annual tax of automobiles and gasoline is 779 million dollars.

Since prohibition the drinking of liquor has decreased 64 per cent, and the drinking of milk has increased 28 per cent, while infant mortality has decreased 30 per cent.

Since prohibition 30 million new savings accounts have been opened up.

Since prohibition 400,000 new homes have been built annually.

Since prohibition there has been an increase of 68 billion dollars in life insurance.

Since prohibition there has been 150 per cent increase in high school attendance, and 300 per cent increase in college attendance.

Since prohibition all but ten of the 250 institutions for the treatment of inebriates have been closed, and eight of these have no patients.

Since prohibition there has actually accrued to the United States in fines and confiscated property of liquor captives a profit of about 25 million dollars a year over the cost of enforcement.

Automobile fatalities in England, a wide-open beer country, are almost three times more frequent per thousand car registrations than in the United States.—Rutherfordton News.

WHERE ARE ANTI-TRUST LAWS?

What becomes of the anti-trust laws under the new national recovery act? Are they to be abrogated or suspended during the emergency or will they continue to have their original force and effect?

These are pertinent and natural queries in connection with the business of adopting codes among businesses and industries relating to prices to be charged and to other vital factors in the management of these enterprises.

While the act was under consideration in the senate, Senator Wagner accepted for the administration, and the senate adopted, an amendment by Senator Borah providing that codes under the act "shall not permit combinations in restraint of trade, price fixing, or other monopolistic practices."

As the bill emerged from conference and was passed by congress, the Borah amendment read only: "Such code or codes shall not permit monopolies or monopolistic practices." Senator Wagner explained that the change had been made because broad court interpretations of the phrases "restraint of trade" and "price fixing" might frustrate the purposes of the act.

In signing the industrial recovery bill, President Roosevelt stated: "We are relaxing some of the safeguards of the anti-trust laws. . . . We are putting in place of old principles of unchecked competition some new government controls . . . (but) the anti-trust laws still stand firmly against monopolies that restrain trade and price fixing which allows inordinate profits or unfairly high prices."

General Johnson, the administrator of the act, announced that codes submitted might properly contain agreements not to sell at less than production costs. Nevertheless, the first code on which public hearings have been held, that of the cotton textile industry, makes no direct mention of prices. It merely cites among the subjects on which amendments of the code may later be asked, "the naming and reporting of prices which may be appropriate."

The farm relief act provides that marketing agreements between the secretary of agriculture and producers, processors, and handlers of agricultural products shall not be held in violation of the anti-trust laws. This exemption follows similar exemptions from the anti-trust laws for farm associations contained in farm relief legislation of the last 20 years—particularly the Clayton act of 1914, the Capper-Volstead act of 1922, the co-operative marketing act of 1926, and the agricultural marketing act of 1929.

The farm relief act, directly aims at establishing prices—not at specified levels, but so as to maintain the pre-war relationship between agricultural and non-agricultural commodities.—The Charlotte Observer.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Times-News, Hendersonville, N. C.

Dear Sir: In Saturday's paper my name was listed as being among those to participate in a local golf tournament advertised as beginning on Sunday, the Christian Sabbath, or Lord's Day. Let me say that this was an error on somebody's part. Should I take part in a tournament, it certainly will not be in one, any part of which is played on the Lord's Day.

Those who play this fine game for recreation and pleasure but who do not do so on Sunday, I understand very well. But when a tournament is arranged and advertised to begin on Sunday, that bars out those who disapprove of Sunday athletic contests, who see no difference in principle between Sunday golfing and Sunday baseball, fishing, movies, and the like.

A city golf tournament was recently held in Columbia, S. C., in which there were a hundred participants; but the Lord's Day was respected—it was from Monday through Saturday.

Those who indulge in such contests on Sunday are rarely found to be supporters of the church and of religion; and if all Christians followed their example, we would have a churchless and a religionless community. God makes promises of rich blessings to observers of His Day. May I quote one of them. "If thou turn away thy feet from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on My holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable; and shall honor him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words; then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord; and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father; for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it." (Isa. 58:13,14).

Yours respectfully, L. T. WILDS.

OAVATION AT CHICAGO ITALIAN FLIERS GIVEN

(Continued from page one) revealed when he landed at Tempelhof airdrome here at 11:56 a. m. (6:56 a. m. EDT). The robot pilot worked perfectly, he said, and his speed was increased by tailwinds over most of his course after leaving the coast of Newfoundland.

Post met murky weather over part of his course. Headwinds retarded him slightly between New York and Newfoundland. Post flew so high and the mists were so thick that he did not sight land after leaving Newfoundland until he zoomed to low altitude there.

Wednesday the squadron is scheduled to lift again from Lake Michigan and return to Italy. Balbo had pleaded before arrival that his crew be given as much freedom from ceremony as possible but the welcome Saturday night lasted far into the morning and Sunday was completely occupied.

DEMPSEY WILL WED IN NEVADA TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—(UP).—Jack Dempsey and Miss Hannah Williams, New York actress and former wife of Roger Wolfe Kahn, will be married quietly by a justice of the peace somewhere in Nevada today, Al Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, the fighter, said here yesterday.

Hoffman said he left Dempsey and Miss Williams at Salt Lake City, where the ex-heavy champion was visiting his mother. Dempsey and Miss Williams were to start their smorging on their leisurely motor trip through Nevada, said Hoffman, and the time and place of their marriage had not been decided.

ALTON BANKER IS HOME AGAIN

How to Relieve Headaches In Three Minutes

When you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, you can get soothing relief in three minutes with "B. C.," a reliable, pleasant-to-take remedy. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist compounded on a different principle from most relieving agencies in that it contains several ingredients so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia; for reducing fever and quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold. (adv.)

IS HEADED FOR MALF WAY PAUSE ON TRIP

over Northwestern Germany, the aviator explained to newspapermen while mechanics refilled the gasoline tanks of the Winnie Mae.

The impatient flier at first rejected offers of food and an opportunity to take a shower bath at the field but when he learned that his gasoline would have to be loaded aboard by hand pumps, a tedious process, he decided to refresh himself under a shower. Meanwhile a bundle of sandwiches and three oranges were placed in the pilot's cockpit of the Winnie Mae.

Post's arrival was witnessed by a small crowd of Lufthansa airplane employes, newspapermen, and spectators. A hand played "Deutschland Uber Alles" and the Star Spangled Banner waved from a staff on the administration building of the field as the white and purple plane glided down to a smooth landing.

Spectators shouted "Heil!" and gave the Nazi salute as Post climbed nimbly from his cockpit. He did not appear particularly tired, considering the fact that he had just flown the Atlantic.

Colonel Jacob Wuest, U. S. military attache here, stepped forward and greeted Post.

"It is a very fine sensation to be able to greet you," he said, gripping the flier's hand. "I'm anxious to get my ship gassed and ready to go," Post replied.

The Oklahoman stood somewhat impatiently while photographers snapped his picture. Then he dashed off to arrange refueling of the plane.

Finally mechanics completed the refueling and Post hastily climbed aboard, tested his motor for a few minutes and then swept down the field to take off at 2:11 p. m. (9:11 a. m. EDT) toward Novosibirsk. He had estimated he could reach the Siberian point in 22 hours before he was forced down at Koeningberg. He had hoped to pick up time by avoiding Moscow, where James Matern, his unlucky predecessor, paused on his recent attempt at the world record which ended in a crash in Siberian wilds.

Public attendance of twice the size of the first marked the second community sing held Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the high school auditorium. R. W. Brickert conducting. Words of the various hymns in which the people joined were projected on the screen, making hymnals unnecessary.

Miss Esther Minott in a piano solo, Mrs. H. R. Bobst in a vocal solo, "Abide With Me" and the Gibson orchestra in two selections on Hawaiian stringed instruments were the added features of the program.

THE TINY TINIERS

Story by HAL COCHRAN. Directed by GEORGE SCARBO.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

THE Tiniers did as they were told. Thought Cobby, "Gee, the water's cold." And then he started swimming so that he could reach the top.

"Hey, there, where are you going, son?" cried Shrimpy. "Stay and have some fun. If all of you lads leave me now, my plans will be a flop."

"Although I don't amount to much, I have a very magic touch, and I have touched each one of you to fix you for the sea."

"You'll find that you can breathe down here, so there is not a thing to fear. Just act like you are on the shore. Oh, please, lads, don't leave me!"

SOON Scouty said, "Our friend is right. I just now breathed with all my might. The breathing didn't choke me, so I'm going to stay with him."

The others joined right in to say, "We also breathed, so we will stay. Gee, won't it be real fun, 'cause we can either walk or swim."

CHANGE IN TAX ON SALES TO BE EFFECTED

now finding that they are not working out satisfactorily. As a result, after conferences with different groups of merchants within the next week or so, we are planning to work out a single composite schedule that will apply to all sales and all merchants alike, to become effective August 1."

The ruling requiring merchants to collect the tax on each individual sale, rather than on the aggregate cumulative sales of several articles, has also not worked out as was expected, Mr. Maxwell said. This ruling was made with the idea of helping the merchants collect enough tax on taxable items to make up for those not taxed. But many of the merchants now say they would rather be permitted to charge the straight tax on the total sales of a number of articles rather than on each sale, both from the standpoint of greater convenience and better satisfaction to the public. As a result, this regulation will be changed after August 1, Mr. Maxwell indicated.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Perhaps we're going to have a "rubber dollar" and perhaps not.

That's what Roosevelt has been talking about lately, beginning with his assertion that the United States sought "the kind of dollar which a generation hence will have the same purchasing and debt-paying power as the dollar value we hope to attain in the near future."

Such a dollar—often called a "commodity dollar" or "compensatory dollar"—might not buy the same amount of bread or shoes in 1945 as in 1935, but it would have the same purchasing power when applied to a general list of commodities.

Some economists and currency experts here think the "rubber dollar" is highly impractical unless other countries become willing to operate on the same basis, which is doubtful.

NEVERTHELESS, the man to whom Roosevelt is supposed to have listened most intently of late in his money deliberations is Prof. G. F. Warren of Cornell, the foremost present-day advocate of a dollar whose gold value would be based on the prevailing price level.

Professor Warren is considered radical by many economists, but the record shows that Roosevelt's various recent currency moves at home and abroad have closely paralleled the professor's theories. Professor Warren's theory consequently becomes of much cur-

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

A BOTTLE SET ADRIFT ON THE EASTERN COAST OF THE U.S. IN APRIL, 1931, WAS RECOVERED NEAR HAWAII, FERRET, NORWAY... A RECORD OF 4550 MILES IN 663 DAYS.

THE BUREAU OF FISHERIES, in Washington, D. C., releases hundreds of bottles every year for the purpose of testing the drift of the ocean currents, and their relationship to the movements of schools of fish and masses of fish eggs. Each bottle contains a post card addressed to the Fisheries Bureau, and anyone who returns one of these cards is rewarded by a check for 25 cents drawn on the United States Treasury.
