Commerce Body Sees Election as Warning Against Reforms

ICKES STILL TALKING POSSIBLE 3RD TERM

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (UP)—Apparently unperturbed by the sharp Republican gains in Tuesday's elections, President Roosevelt yesterday said he would continue to fight for New Deal objectives even though the next congress opposes him.

It was his first comment on the election which swept many New Deal stalwarts into the discard and raised the Republican party to a place of power in both the house and senate.

A widely divergent note was sounded by the chamber of commerce of the United States which voices the sentiments of big business.

"Business takes heart in the prospect that the incoming congress, reflecting the trends of elections returns, will be more concerned with promoting real recovery and re-employment than with initiating new experiments and reforms," it said.

GEN. PERSHING PRESSES NEED FOR DEFENSE

Nation's Leaders Urge Armament as World War Dead Honored

WORLD'S SITUATION NEVER MORE CRITICAL

By GRATTAN MCGROARTY United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (UP)—President Roosevelt led the nation yesterday in honoring America's World War dead on the 20th anniversary of the armistice while other national leaders urged all possible speed in building a mighty military machine in preparation for the "next war."

After a minute's pause, during which thousands stood bare-headed the president returned to the White House to summon his cabinet for a discussion of national problems, including a forthcoming recommendation to congress for the largest army and navy appropriations in peace-time history.

General John J. Pershing, commander of the American armies in France, said that "immediate and vigorous" action to increase the nation's armed forces is urgent "lest there be visited upon us the recent experience of England and France."

Pershing called on President Roosevelt late Friday.

Stephen F. Chadwick, national commander of the American legion, in a radio address from Arlington cemetery, recommended immediate enactment of a universal service law for conscription of both labor and capital in event of war.

Episcopal Bishop Jas. E. Freeman, speaking at the tomb of the war-time President Woodrow Wilson, said that "in a world of magnified armies and navies there can be no continuing security and peace."

"America may not be what we want it to be, but if it is it is largely because we haven't done what we should to make it that way."

J. Harold Flanagan, commander of the local post, presided at the service, which was opened with music by the high school band and the advance of the colors.

U. S.-MEXICO LAND DISPUTE SAID ENDED; TO PAY FOR OIL

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 12. (UP)—The 27-year-old dispute between the United States and Mexico over the expropriation of American-owned agrarian properties south of the Rio Grande was reported settled yesterday.

It was said unofficially that an agreement had been reached in a final conference between Eduardo Hay, foreign minister, and American Ambassador Josephus Daniels yesterday following lengthy negotiations in Washington and Mexico City during which Secretary of State Cordell Hull sent a formal note of protest against the seizures to President Lazaro Cardenas.

The report came as a surprise as it had been understood that the negotiations were being concluded in Washington. However, President Cardenas' personal friendship for the United States ambassador is believed to have induced him to have Mexico's final note, accepting the terms of the agreement, delivered to Ambassador Daniels so that the ambassador might have the honor of transmitting (Continued on page four.)

MASS FINE IS IMPOSED FOR RATH MURDER

Segregation From German Business, Economic Life Begun

ARRESTS IN BERLIN PLACED AT 8000

BERLIN, Nov. 12. (UP)—The Nazi government today issued a series of drastic decrees designed to drive Jews from German business and economic life, and it also imposed on them a mass fine of one billion marks or $408,000 for the murder in Paris of Ernest von Rath, third secretary to the Paris embassy by a young Polish Jew.

A Nazi decree earlier today forbade Jews to attend theaters, concerts, lectures, motion picture shows, dance recitals and museums. It was one of the series of decrees designed to provide a final solution of the Jewish problem as a result of the fatal shooting of Rath.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels' decree prescribed that violators of the ban, either Jews or proprietors who admitted them, would be subject to heavy fines. Goebbels said Jews would have ample opportunity to develop a cultural life of their own within their own community.

A foreign source said that it is unlikely that Jewish stores wrecked in anti-Nazi outbreaks would be reopened pending establishment of Ghettos or segregated areas for Jews.

Unofficial estimates place the number of Jews arrested in Berlin as high as 8,000 but officials said it was 1,600.

Anti-Semitic action in Germany thus turned from a reign of terror to the work of Nazi legal experts, ordered to devise new repressive measures of unprecedented severity and probably along the lines of medieval Ghetto laws.

Dr. Goebbels, propaganda minister, defending the vengeance wreaked on Jews throughout the Reich as a spontaneous, popular uprising without official guidance, warned Jews abroad that a worse fate might befall their racial brothers in Germany if foreign Jews agitate against Germany.
