ENLARGES UPON HIS LIBERAL VIEWS

CHAPEL HILL, Dec. 6. (UP). Liberalism in government is here to stay and birth, wealth and political position no longer carry the indisputable right to govern, President Roosevelt told the nation yesterday in an internationally broadcast address.

Speaking before the forum of North Carolina University where he received an honorary degree of doctor of laws, the chief executive reaffirmed the liberal philosophy of the New Deal and said that his strongest conviction is his abiding belief that the security and well-being of the people "can best be served by the democratic processes which have made this country strong
