Mr. Anthony Dowlin Harris, a prominent and hustling business man of Warrenton, N. C., was in the city a part of last week buying goods. Speaking of improved conditions in his town and county, Mr. Harris said you can judge a community's moral and business conditions by its schools. Judging by that token you must put Warrenton down as one of the best towns in the State and Warren county as one of the best counties. Of course, I know they are that, and have known it all the time, but I am just explaining how you can find it out. There are splendid up-to-date public schools all over the county and the graded school in Warrenton cannot be beaten anywhere in the State. The old Warrenton Male Academy building, erected away back yonder in the days of old Bob Ezell, has been remodeled, practically rebuilt, and made strictly up to date for this school. Warrenton's private schools are considered among the best in the State.

"Business: why certainly there is business aplenty there. It's one of the liveliest business towns going. We will sell over two million pounds of tobacco there this season. Most of our merchants buy their goods in Richmond and we regard this city as the best wholesale market we can hit, and then it is so convenient." Mr. Harris spent several days at the Lexington.—Richmond Times Dispatch.
