Stand Up for Your Town.

If you have made up your mind to live in a town, then stand up for it, and if you know positively no good, then silence is golden. Do all you can to help along every man who is engaged in legitimate business. Do not send away for everything nice you want and still expect the home man to keep a stock to suit the whim of one or two customers. The success of your fellow townsmen will be your success. No man liveth to himself and no man does business independently of his fellow business men. Take your home paper. Do not imagine the big dailies fill up all this space. There are many little crevices of a good cheer, social sunshine, personal mention, in the home paper that the big dailies do not print. Then do not abuse your neighbor. The main difference in the number of his faults and your own is that you see through a magnifying glass as a critic. The ill omen, the croaker, can do a town more harm in a minute than two good citizens can repair in a month.—The Standard Laconic.

GET BUSY.

Don't sit down in silent woe; Get busy.
Swear you'll get another show; Get busy.
Luck will stop and smile on you, If you'll stand a knock or two; Don't give up and don't get blue; Get busy.
Start something. Stir something up; Get busy.
Upset Melancholy's cup; Get busy.
Fortune loves the busy bee, Plum chock-full of energy; Face the rough-house cheerily; Get busy.
Stagnant waters do not flow; Get busy.
Microbes in the slow blood grow; Get busy.
Microbes of the wretched blues, Where despair discourages brews; Shake the moss roots from your shoes; Get busy.
Here's your creed and here's your tip; Get busy.
Practice that stiff upper lip; Get busy.
Here's a prophecy for you: If you'll only up and DO, You'll triumphantly go through; GET BUSY!
—C. M. Finch, San Francisco, Cal.

SLAUGHTERING SAILORS.

The explosion of a boiler tube on the Armored Cruiser Tennessee, with the result of killing four men, mortally wounding two, and seriously injuring eight others, has revived talk of the charges filed in 1906, against the Shelby Tube Company, in which it was alleged that that concern had furnished defective boiler tubes for our war ships. The Tennessee was one of the ships in which the Shelby Company tubes were placed. Either that Company or some government inspector seems to be guilty; for the tube which has just burst was certainly defective. Three men were indicted and tried on these charges last year; but the jury disagreed. It is to be hoped that the cases will now be reopened and a thorough legal investigation had. A fleet of war ships fitted with cheap and defective boiler tubes is more of a curse than an asset, and if we have such a fleet, the Navy department and the President are responsible for they had full notice of the rotten boiler tubes and have evidently taken no measures to replace them with sound tubes.—Miller.

The Remedy That Does!

Dr. Kin's New Discovery is the remedy that does the healing others promise but fail to perform," says Mrs. E. K. Pierson, of Auburn Centre, Pa. "It is curing me of throat and lung trouble of long standing, that other treatments relieved only temporarily. New Discovery is doing me so much good that I feel confident its continued use for a reasonable length of time will restore me to perfect health." This renowned cough and cold remedy and throat and lung healer is sold at C. A. Thomas drug store. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

The American Protective Tariff

It Can't Be Beat.
The best of all teachers is experience. C. M. Harden, of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that's claimed for it. For Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back, and all run-down conditions. Best too for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Thomas drug store. 50c.

Lengths of Dreams.

How long do dreams last? A German servant is investigating the matter. A writer in the London Chronicle says: "The dream comes in the few seconds before the awakening, and has no relation to time or space. This is clear enough to the man who has ever been placed under an anesthetic for a short eliminated. As an experiment this writer was placed under a whiff of chloroform by a doctor. Absolute unconsciousness, the questions of the universe; up through layers of consciousness, with always the feeling: 'Now I have solved it!' and the 'no' and the 'yes' alternating through centuries of thought. And then the quizzical face of the doctor—remembered after a million years. How long have I been under?' The experimenter struggled up, and saw the doctor with his watch in hand. 'Ten seconds,' the doctor said: And the dreamer had been outside time for a time that has no measure."—Chicago News.

Everybody's Fiction.

There is splendid refreshment for the hot weather in the July Everybody's. O. Henry leads off with a picturesque tale of the West, "The Last of the Troubadours," and he is followed by E. J. Rath, who has an indescribably funny tale, "Mr. Trimble's Speech," and by Arthur Sullivan Hoffman, who puts his polite and gentlemanly burglar into a new setting—the story is called "Patsy Moran and the Trappings of Chivalry." Annie Warner has a pathetic little child-story, "The Surrenders of Cornwallis," that one cannot read without a heart-throb; and Harrison Rhodes contributes a fascinating society yarn, "The Arrival of Cornelia." There is, too, a dramatic and powerful tale of the North Pole region in Albert White Vorse's story, "There Brother's Keepers." Charles B. Going, Burges Johnson, Thomas S. Jones, Jr., and Sue Fite Ramsey contribute verses; "A Row of Books" is by J. B. Kerfoot, and the "Chestnut Tree" has a wealth of luscious anecdotes.

PROTECTION DOES NOT PROTECT.

The deluded workmen for the Steel Trust are between the devil and the deep blue sea. They are supposed to be protected by the same tariff that protects the trusts, but as Trust high prices and the Republican policy of protection has produced a panic and consequent business depression more than half of the trust workmen have found themselves unemployed so far this year. If in order to induce buyers the trust reduces the price of its products, it is pretty sure to reduce wages also, which would be an acknowledgement that protection does not protect the workman. But idle workmen will surely come to believe that the boasted Republican prosperity is a fraud when they do not participate.—Miller.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Zinc metal made into Oxide of Zinc and then combined with white lead, is used to make L. & M. PAIN. Zinc is imperishable and makes the paint wear as long as pure flint. Oxide of zinc will hold its surface. The L. & M. PAIN costs only about $1.20 per gallon. W. A. Miles & Co., Warrenton, N. C., L. & M. Paint Agents.

TIPPING.

Growing to Be Source of Revenue to Management.

The nuisance of tipping—it used to be called;—menace would be a better word—grows both at home and abroad. The London Times says it has spread to parts of the world where not long ago it was unknown. It avers that the free miner in our Western States will accept a tip for showing one around a placer camp, and evidently expects it. In Egypt and Turkey the word "tip" is displacing "backsheesh," while in England the size of the tip has been steadily increasing for years. At a good restaurant now you are expected to give up 15 to 20 per cent. of your bill for the tip. "Anything less causes the waiter to cast on you that look which the boldest flinch from." The London Spectator thinks that statement explains the increase of the tip—a kind of moral blackmailing which the average man has not the strength to resist.

But the main point is that tipping is not merely an injustice to the customer, but that excessive tipping—and it is almost all excessive now—cannot avoid the law of economics by which it destroys itself. That is, as tips increase in size, wages are put down correspondingly, so that really this continued fleecing of the public benefits at the last only the manager, who in due progress may expect to have all the wages of his establishment paid thus, and more than this, convert tips into a source of revenue. Indeed, it has long been the case where the "pay waiter," the one that collects the money where tipping prevails, pays for his place a premium proportioned to the establishment's grade of custom.

But it is not merely in the question of meat and drink that the tip obtrudes. It follows everywhere. In English country houses, says the Spectator, where a week-end visitor formerly counted on a pound as satisfying all demands, everybody now must have sovereigns, and five times the old amount hardly gets a guest free—the guest of a private house. An anecdote of the situation is that a week-end guest offered a head gamekeeper two sovereigns, when the man, drawing himself up, said:

"This is a paper house, sir," meaning that nothing less than a five-pound note (the lowest English paper denomination) would be accepted. The conclusion or progress of the matter seems to be this: The custom cannot be eradicated. It must be endured. Therefore, those that pay are coming to an unwritten understanding of a scale of prices for different services. And this undoubtedly is the solution.

The gratuity or grat or tip has so long now corrupted good manners and dull the sense independently that it may be accepted as a permanency—so much added to everything that you pay for in certain services and situations. The next and inevitable thing is a well-recognized rate reaching to every contingency. This is the working of the economic law. One might reflect on the pity of it all, the destruction that it is of manliness, independence, good manners, but to what end? It seems to be the way of the world. If those that serve insist on tips the served will inevitably insist on a recognized rate, and so servility will have its mark and stamp in the market. For really those that pay cannot forever live in moral fear and be increasingly more by those that accept their money as a gift.—Indianapolis News.

Was in Poor Health for Years.

Ira W. Kelley, of Mansfield, Pa., writes: "I was in poor health for two years, suffering from kidney and bladder trouble, and spent considerable money consulting physicians without obtaining any marked benefit, but was cured by Foley's Kidney and Bladder Pills. I desire to add my testimony that it may be the cause of restoring the health of others." Refuse substitutes. Hunter Drug Co.

Just Exactly Right.

"I have used Dr. King's New Life Pills for several years, and find them just exactly right," says Mrs. A. A. Felton, of Harrisville, N. Y. New Life Pills relieve without the least discomfort. Best remedy for constipation, biliousness and malaria. 25c. at C. A. Thomas drug store.

National Debts.

The British Premier announces that Great Britain is now paying off her debt at the rate of nearly $100,000,000 a year, and that at the end of this year it will be reduced to the sum of twenty years ago, notwithstanding the cost of the Boer war. It is necessary for a nation to make regular payments on its debts during times of ordinary prosperity, or to accumulate a sinking fund, in order to maintain its credit to the highest point. The sinking fund of the United States, and the payments on the public debt after the Civil War, at once raised the value of our securities, and put our national credit on a firm basis. The fact that a nation is paying its debt gives confidence, even to those who want only the interest. A nation that reduces its debt in times of prosperity, can usually borrow without question in time of war or adversity. Our national debt, however, has been so far reduced that our credit is established beyond question, and the United States will never have any trouble in borrowing money. Nevertheless, it is desirable to reduce the national debt with rapidity in good years. Our national income fluctuates greatly, because of the sudden changes in the volume of imports, and we need not worry if we run behind for two or three years at a time. But we ought to show a substantial reduction of the national debt every ten years. It would be allowable to increase our debt on account of the Panama Canal, or for an extensive improvement of waterways, and forest reserves, and reservoirs to prevent floods.—Herald and Presbyterian.

Bert Barber, of Elton, Wis., says: "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Sold by Hunter Drug Co.

Rural Carriers Must Brush Up.

Rural Carriers are required to give some attention in the future to their personal appearance, and keep themselves and equipment in harmony with "Uncle Sam." Postmaster General Meyers recently issued the following order: Postmasters of rural delivery offices will inform all carriers under their supervision that they are required to present a neat appearance personally, that the vehicles used must be suited to the service, kept in good order and presentable, that the animals used by the carriers in serving their route must be fit to work and such as do not cast discredit on the service. Laxity in these matters by the rural carriers will be immediately reported by postmasters.—Red Springs Citizen.

One of the most hopeful signs

for many years, and one that is making the Republicans set up and take notice, is that the Democratic party is showing a unity that has been lacking for the past few campaigns. This means trouble for the enemy and they know it. It is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Bryan will be nominated and that such a platform will be adopted as will meet the approval of the masses of the great common people. This is giving the Republicans great concern, for in Taft they realize that they have a mere figure-head; one who has pledged himself to carry out Roosevelt's aggressiveness. When thrown on his own responsibilities he will be unequal to the emergency. It is also a well known fact that it would have been impossible for Taft to have secured the nomination but for the wielding of the Roosevelt big stick. All these things have a tendency to cause uneasiness in the camp of the enemy.—South Hill Enterprise.
