You Have a Right to Know.

People who entrust their money to a bank want to know (and have a right to know) something of its financial strength. We recognize that right in full and gladly furnish depositors with this information. We publish reports, from time to time, showing the condition of the Bank, and furnish copies for our depositors inspection. We solicit your Bank account, and call your attention to our past record of nineteen years.

Achievement.

I cannot see the veiled face of success, My weary efforts in the shadow lurk; I cannot guess reward beyond the stress But I can work.

I cannot find the life where I belong, The heart with need of me all else above;

I cannot be the burden of Love's song— But I can love.

I cannot always hopeful be, and brave; The long hard struggle will not seem worth while.

I cannot quench the slow tears crave— But I can smile.

DEMAND FOR SPEAKERS.

There is an unprecedented demand for Democratic speakers in every section of the country in this campaign, according to J. W. Atwood, member of the National Committee, who is in charge of the speakers' bureau at the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee. Mr. Atwood only reached Chicago yesterday. It did not require any great length of time for the breezy Kansan to get things going. His is the last of the bureaus of Democratic Headquarters to begin operation, but he has perfected a thorough organization, and has scheduled dates for many of the star orators of the party in those states which the Democratic leaders consider fighting ground.

No section of the country will be neglected. Mr. Atwood emphasized the fact that the speakers' bureau will be just as busy in the Republican State of Pennsylvania as it will in other states throughout the country.

The speakers' bureau will be conducted from this city, though it is possible that branch quarters may be established in New York later on in the campaign. The volunteer speakers include most of the men prominent in the party, among whom is Judge Alton B. Parker, the nominee four years ago.

"I have been connected with a number of political campaigns," observed Mr. Atwood, "but the demand for speakers this year is something truly remarkable. Here I am confronted with hundreds of letters asking for speakers, and the campaign is hardly begun. This demand for Democratic argument and oratory is a revelation to me, and I think it carries its own significance.

"Another thing which has impressed me since I reached Chicago and tackled the mass of correspondence you see before me, is the willingness of leading Democratic speakers to do voluntary work in the campaign. Nearly a score of Democrats in the United States Senate have tendered their services and volunteered to defray their own expenses. The same is true of members of the House. A large number of them have agreed to take the "stump," going wherever needed, and without cost to the committee. Party workers are prompted by a degree of patriotism this year that is refreshing and speaks well for our cause.

"You ask me about Mr. Bryan's chances in Kansas? Certainly, I think he will get the electoral vote. I have just returned from a trip across the state, part of which was covered in an auto, and I made it a point to talk to all kinds and conditions of people. Everywhere I stopped I encountered Republicans who will support Bryan and Kern. Many of them said they would cast their first Democratic vote this year. I fail to hear of a Democrat who will not vote the national ticket. The spirit of harmony prevailed in the organization as it has not for years. This is true of all sections."—Thomas J. Pence.

LEPER FROM THIS STATE.

In Lonely Tent on Banks of Potomac—Awaits His Fate.

Washington, D. C.—With his religious faith his only solace, Jno. Early, a leper, is isolated in a lonely tent on the Potomac river where, guarded day and night, he awaits his fate. At Lynn, N. C., his wife and child face the horror of becoming victims of the disease. The health authorities are taking steps to get him out of the country. They have appealed to the North Carolina health authority to have him removed to his home. He may possibly be sent to the leper colony in Louisiana. It is supposed that Early caught the disease in the Philippines. He is an ex-captain in the Salvation Army, and conducted services at Oswego, N. Y. He recently worked at Lynn, N. C., where his family now resides.

The discovery of the case was made Friday, but the facts were not made public by the health department until yesterday. Early has been placed in a tent especially erected for his isolation in the rear of the smallpox quarantine station near the district jail on the bank of eastern branch of the Potomac. He will be kept there under guard until cold weather comes when if necessary a house will be built to make him more comfortable. He has been supplied with bed clothes and clothing and utensils necessary for living. His food is carried to him and poured into the vessels supplied for his personal use.

Early asked the health department to keep from his wife information as to the character of his illness. This being impossible he expressed a desire to return to his wife and child and to be permitted to die near them.

"If this is not possible then I am perfectly willing to remain right here or anywhere else the authorities may say until the end comes" said he.

Your Mind in Order

Minds that are filled scientifically, like well-packed trunks, with everything in order, hold much more than those into which all manner of things are thrown man fashion, higgledy-piggledy. Woman's Home Companion for September.

Cherry Jelly From Apples.

To make cherry jelly out of apples, throw a handful of cherry leaves into the jelly while boiling. After the leaves have boiled some time they can easily be lifted out. Jelly made this way tastes exactly like cherry jelly.—Woman's Home Companion for September.

If you have visitors, and are not ashamed of your company, let us know so we can put it in the paper. You owe it to your company as well as to your friends that there may be an interchange of visits and neighborly courtesies shown, but if the presence of visitors is not known you can hardly expect for the attentions to be paid them that they might receive.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

A Dreadful Thought.

One day Mary, the charwoman, reported for service with a black eye.

"Why Mary" said her sympathetic mistress, "what a bad eye you have!"

"Yes'm."

"Well there's one consolation. It might have been worse."

"Yes'm."

"You might have had both of them hurt."

"Yes'm. Or worse'n that: I might not ha' been married at all!"—Everybody's Magazine.

A Large Woodworking Plant for Portland.

The Grand Rapids Show Case Company, of Grand Rapids, Mich., through their representatives, Messrs. H. and W. K. Williams, vice-presidents and S. D. Young, treasurer, have closed negotiations whereby they consolidate their interests with the Lutke Manufacturing Company, of Portland.

When interviewed at the Portland Hotel, Messrs. Young and Williams expressed themselves in enthusiastic terms over Portland and the entire Pacific Coast. We wished to know what special inducements our city offered and they promptly outlined their reasons for coming here:

"Geographically," they said, "the location of your city is ideal; your freight rates for our business are the best on the coast; your supply of raw materials is inexhaustible; the prices are low and all that is needed is skilled mechanics to convert it into merchantable shape. We have been surprised and gratified to note the undeveloped possibilities for furniture purposes that lie in some of your many woods. Of course it will take time to bring their merits, prominently before the public, but it is going to be done and very soon.

"No, we will not make our homes in Portland; while it is a magnificent city we feel this move would be unnecessary. We were surprised at the capable organization of the Lutke Manufacturing Company, some of its members having been steadily connected with the company for more than 25 years. Our reasons for consolidation are many. Large savings will be effected in advertising, buying and selling our product.

"Yes, we will make many improvements, among them an addition which will practically double the size of the present factory and will add many thousand dollars worth of machinery. We will ship the new machinery immediately upon our return East and the improvements on the factory will be commenced at once."

This new impetus to the furniture manufacturing life of Portland means more than one appreciates at the first thought. Portland manufactures more lumber than any city in the world, her shipping facilities are the best; her large population gives abundant labor; yet but few manufacturers in the furniture line thus far are alive to the situation.

The Grand Rapids Show Case Company are the largest manufacturers in the world and are considered most successful and progressive and we congratulate them most heartily upon their far-sightedness in casting their lot with a combined capital of almost $1,000,000 will give them facilities that can't be offered by any other similar manufacturer in the world and with the splendid shipping facilities our city offers to South America and the Orient will enable them to increase enormously their volume of trade coming from this source.

This company will do all of their Coast, South American and Oriental manufacturing at this point, which means a large demand will be created for lumber and similar products and that they will give employment to several hundred men. The Lutke Manufacturing Company, with Mr. Robert Lutke as manager, has been identified with the manufacturing life of Portland for more than 25 years. Their store fixtures and showcases have gone into almost every city, town and hamlet west of the Rocky Mountains and with their splendid reputation, together with the increased facilities afforded by the Rapids Show Case Company will give them advantages not to be found anywhere in this country.

Mr. Robert Lutke becomes a director in the Grand Rapids Show Case Company and remains as heretofore, the manager of the Lutke Manufacturing Company—Portland, Oregon Telegram, Aug. 10th.

THE VALUE OF A SMILE.

What it Did for a Scotchman in Calcutta During Plague.

On the door leading into a private office of the treasurer of one of the Hartford banking institutions may be seen by all comers a plain white card, on which are these two words: "Keep Smiling."

Ask the treasurer the significance of the placard, and he will say simply! Just "keep smiling." That makes everything easy. That's what smiles are for. A good unfeigned, sincere smile is a veritable battering-ram to knock hard things out of the way. Sometimes I smile out loud, all to myself, when I run against anything hard; and the invitation is out to whoever enters my door. I take it that people will smile as they read the card, and I want them to continue the act while in here!

He tells of a visitor who came to see him last winter, a Scotchman, who had served in India in the army. "My dear sir," said the visitor, "I am greeting that legend heartily. Many years ago, when the plague was raging, I was in Calcutta and sick. The hospitals were full, and with other patients I was lying in a shed, a very sick man. On each side of me a poor chap had died, when a man came around with one of the doctors to measure the bodies. As they finished the second fellow's measurement they looked at me, and the man said: "Three of 'em heigh?" and whipped out his tape measure at my side. In spite of all effort, I could only stare. To save my life I couldn't speak or move. All I could do was to smile, and I just smiled. Instead of the measuring line I was given better attention, and recovered. The smile did it! That's right! 'Keep smiling.'"—Hartford Times.

"Saving the Waste."

The people of Texas are being urged, because of an abundance of fruit greater than the market will readily take, to establish canneries in order "to save the waste." The South loses through not saving the waste many millions of dollars annually. It leaves vast quantities of fruit to rot on the ground and then in the winter buys canned goods from other sections. When the whole South will learn to do its utmost in raising fruits and its utmost in canning and drying fruits, not only for its own consumption, but for shipment to other less-favored regions, it will have added to the prosperity of its farmers and the prosperity of all others.—Manufacturers' Record.

To Keep Salt Dry

"To prevent salt in saltcellars from becoming damp and lumpy, when filling them put in ten to twelve pieces of rice," says Woman's Home Companion for September. "This will not come through the holes in the cover of the saltcellars, but will break the lumps of salt and gather the moisture; thus the salt is always dry and fine."

The great Redwood Forest in California has been bought by a wealthy man and presented to the United States as the only way to prevent the destruction of the giant trees. The redwood is peculiar to California, and grows nowhere else. The woods are in a primitive state, only a few foot paths leading through them until recently, when a wagon road was constructed. None of the big trees have been cut down and they remain as they have been for a thousand years. Scientist have estimated that it has taken two to four thousand years for the redwood trees to grow to their present size. They certainly are giants in comparison with other forest trees. Some of them reach 300 feet in height, and it is more than 100 feet on many of them to the first limb.—West Baden Journal.
