Their Cause For Thanks.

By Charlotte Carruthers.
Copyrighted, 1908, by the Associated Literary Press.

When Dick Waring suddenly married pretty Linda Mills, to whom he had just become engaged, Uncle Henry Waring danced wrathfully on the hearth rug and uttered direful predictions.
"I don't blame you for wanting to marry Linda," he said angrily, "but you should have waited another year before taking a wife and setting up housekeeping. To my certain knowledge, Dick, you haven't got $500 outside of your salary, and—" "I have my two hands," interrupted Dick, with a dramatic gesture, "and I assure you, Uncle Henry, my wife shall not suffer."
"Follerer!" snorted Uncle Henry. "Your wife has two hands also, and I'll warrant she finds a use for them in a thousand ways you never thought of. Why, if you were to meet with an accident or have a long illness what would you do?"
"I would go to work then, Mr. Waring," said Linda, with spirit.
"We will manage very nicely, Uncle Henry," said Dick haughtily. "I am sorry you feel angry about it; but, as I have explained to you, after Linda's aunt died he was practically homeless, and I persuaded her to marry me at once. It's my fault."
"That doesn't better the matter, you young idiot!" retorted the choleric old gentleman. "Linda could support herself by her music for a year or two till you could earn enough to support a wife. As it is, you will suffer poverty and deprivation and be sick of each other before a year rolls round!"
Having delivered himself of this sentiment, Mr. Waring glared angrily at his adopted son, and Dick, inheriting the same family characteristic to a degree, glared back at him.
Then, tucking his little white hand in his arm, he left the commodious

"SO HERE YOU ARE," SAID UNCLE HENRY, and comfortable abode of his boyhood and sought a home of his own.
Uncle Henry, left alone, polished his spectacles vigorously, and looked up at the picture Dick's father which hung above the chimney-piece.
"I've done the best I could for him, Jimmy," he murmured huskily. "He'll have to paddle his own canoe now."
The next day he wrote to Dick and offered the two young people a home with him. Linda could assume charge of the household, and Dick might take his old place as the favored son.
Dick made no reply for a week, and then he merely scribbled a few lines to say that they had furnished a little house at 5 Clement street, where they hoped Uncle Henry would come and see them.
But Uncle Henry did not go.
A year later Linda Waring was putting the final touches to her dinner table. It was Thanksgiving day, and Dick was home for the holiday. She could see his dark head bent over a book in the next room.
Presently Linda crept in and sat down on the floor beside his chair. "What is the matter, Dicky?" she asked softly. "Something is bothering you."
"It's Uncle Henry," confessed Dick frankly. "I have felt beastly mean for the last twelve months since we have been estranged. He has been like a father to me, and—well, I'm ashamed of myself." He reddened under her loving gaze.
"Why didn't you say something before, dear?" asked Linda after a little pause. "You know I spoke to you about asking Uncle Henry to spend last Christmas with us, but you said he would not come, so I gave it up."
"I was a fool, Linda," said Dick forcibly. "Time and again I've felt that I must be friends with him once more, and after the bank closed I would take a walk, intending to stop in and see him, but the minute I got within sight of the house all this cursed Waring obstinacy would rise up and send me past the house like a shot."
"If that is the case," said Linda,

CUBA'S SECOND TRIAL.

The people of the United States entertain toward the people of Cuba nothing but good will. The permanent independence of Cuba, and the happiness and prosperity of her people under their own flag, is desired by all Americans. This desire has been made manifest in deeds which speak for themselves. It will be no fault of anything that the United States has done, or failed to do, if the new lease of independence on the island does not run in perpetuity.
Good luck to Cuba and happiness to her people! May January 28 be remembered hereafter as the day when, for the last time in history, any authority other than that of the Cuban republic was dominant in Cuba! May the Cuban flag float over the Cuban people, self-governing, free and independent!—Washington Post.

No Display for Joe Brown.

Governor-elect Brown of Georgia, is going to return to the Jeffersonian simplicity in his inauguration. He is going to have no "fuss and feathers" performances over his going into office. The Georgia militia colonels and other staff officers with their gold lace and brass puttons will be conspicuous by their absence. He says he is going to Atlanta on inauguration day in the way he has always gone when business called him there; that if the weather is good he will walk to the capitol; otherwise he will ride in a street car. Reaching the executive offices he will subscribe to the oath of office and "start being the governor of Georgia." We like that kind of talk, and we hope Governor Brown will stick to his present resolution. We like the man who has the independence to pursue such a course in these days when so much foolish display is deemed necessary in inaugurations both national and State.—Wilmington Star.

The Secret of Long Life.

A French scientist has discovered one secret of long life. His method deals with blood. But long millions of Americans had proved Electric Bitters prolong life and makes it worth living. It purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, rebuilds wasted nerve cells, imparts life and tone to the entire system. Its a godsend to weak, sick and debilitated people. "Kidney trouble had blighted my life for months," writes W. M. Sherman of Cushing, Me., "but Electric Bitters cured me entirely." Only 50c. at C. A. Thomas.

Makes Brave Men Cowards.

It has been proved that the comparatively harmless bombardment, so far as wounds are concerned, of a besieged town is terribly demoralizing to the bravest men. When a shell bursts near a group of twenty men it may kill one and wound two, while the remaining seventeen escape without a scratch. It will be found, however, that many of these are never the same men again. No matter how few men were before they are now irresolute and timid, and all their faculties are weakened. Very often they are jeered at by their comrades because of this change, but this is utterly unjust. In fact, their brain and spinal cord have been injured by being violently shaken against the walls of their boy cavities. The same thing occurs in railway collisions. People who were robust become quite feeble and nervous, though they may not have received a scratch. This curious state in the case of soldiers is well recognized by doctors under the name of the manual injuries of explosives. The injuries are really quite as physical as a shattered leg, for they consist of a kind of bruising of the very delicate tissue of the spinal cord and brain.

A Roman Fortune Teller.

A fortune teller of a lowly order who lives in a dirty and obscure house is constantly applied to by jealous lovers. A girl who has a hated rival sends the latter under the veil of friendship to consult the fortune teller, who is prepared beforehand to frighten her from her pursuit of the man she loves. While the hag mixes three knocks are heard at the door.
"That is a bad sign," says the witch. "It means that you are not beloved."
The fortune teller continues to lay the cards several times, but always with a bad result. The girl is told that the man she loves has no intention of marrying her and is advised to have recourse to all sorts of magic, for which she pays a considerable sum. The rival who has sent her also pays the witch, who thus earns a double fee. The objects sold by the witch as charms are many and various. One is a bit of rag, another is a purse containing salt, a bit of hay, some barley and some nails. These charms are said to lose their power after a month or two, when they must be replaced.—Chambers' Journal.

OUR TRADE WITH JAPAN.

The California Legislature has reconsidered its intention of confronting Japan. The postponement of action on the anti-Japanese measures in the Assembly is regarded as foreshadowing the defeat of such legislation except the Alien Land bill, which as now amended is unobjectionable.
What the nation has at stake in the maintenance of cordial relations with Japan is indicated by the Japanese trade returns for the last fiscal year. They show that the United States is still ahead of all other countries in the volume of Japanese trade. In 1907 our combined exports to Japan and imports from that country exceeded $107,000,000, an amount $30,000,000 in excess of Great Britain's trade with Japan. Last year our exports to Japan reached $41,432,327, an increase of approximately $3,000,000 over 1907.

Flattering Stars.

When Grover Cleveland's son Richard was born his good friend Joseph Jefferson drove over to Gray Gables to congratulate the father.
"How many pounds does the child weigh?" asked the noted actor.
"Fifteen," was the reply.
"Nine," said the attending physician, who had just come in.
Mr. Cleveland assured the doctor that he must be mistaken.
"The child weighs fifteen pounds," said he. "I weighed him myself with the scales Joe and I use when we go fishing."—Success.

Revolts At Cold Steel.

"Your only hope," said three doctors to Mrs. M. Fisher, Detroit, Mich., suffering from a severe renal trouble, lies in an operation." "Then I used Dr. King's New Life Film," she writes, "and I'm wholly cured." They prevent Appendicitis, cure Constipation, Headache, etc., at C. A. Thomas.
