From the Rural New Yorker. Curiosities of Marriage.

Marriage is the first and most ancient of all institutions. As the foundation of society and the family, it is universally observed throughout the globe.

The condition of women in all countries has afforded a fruitful theme for the observation of the traveler.

In the countries of the East, where polygamy is almost universal, marriage is not the sacred tie which it is held to be in Christian countries.

Such is the slavery in which the Muscovites are kept by their parents and guardians, that they are not allowed to dispute any union agreed upon by their elders.

is customary for the brothers of a family to have a wife in common, and they generally live in harmony and comfort with her.

The Arabs divide their affections between their horses and their wives, and regard the purity of blood in the former quite as much as in their offspring.

Polynomy is practiced only by the rich, and divorcees are rare. In Ceylon the marriage proposal is brought about by the man first sending to her whom he wishes to become his wife.

They are permitted to separate whenever they please, and so frequently avail themselves of this privilege that they sometimes change a dozen times before their inclinations are wholly suited.

In Hindostan the women have a peculiar veneration for marriage, as it is a popular creed that those females who die virgins are excluded from the joys of paradise.

The distinguishing mark of the Hindoo wife is the most profound fidelity, submission and attachment to her husband.

On the banks of the Senegal, and among many African tribes, the matrimonial prize most sought after is abundance of flesh.

To obtain corpulence is regarded as the only real comeliness. A female who can move with the aid of two men is but a moderate beauty.

In Italy, matches are made with proverbial levity, and marriage vows, if report speaks truly, are easily broken.

consent of the sovereign, and wives whom they do not want are even sometimes forced upon them.

Whether it be the result of this system of oppression, or their savage climate, or of the unnatural hot air of the stove-heated apartments, it is certain that a more unlovely race of women than the Russian would be difficult to find.

That charming firmness and elasticity of flesh, so indispensably requisite to constitute beauty, and so delicious to the touch, exists not among the Russian females, or in very few of them.

We are told of the Aleutian Islanders who form a part of our new Russian American acquisition, that they marry one, two or three wives, as they have the means of supporting them.

No man is allowed to sell his wife without her consent; but he may (and often does) assign her over to another. This custom, it is said, is availed of by the Russian hunters, who take Aleutian women or girls to wife for a time, for a trifling compensation.

Various Original Recipes, &c.—While visiting at the hospitable mansion of Judge Blackner of Salisbury, N. C., some months ago, we partook of several dishes which were far more palatable than the "fare" at first-class hotels in Washington, Richmond, &c.

Southern Pudding and "Boiled Custard" were decidedly extra, and Mrs. B. having kindly complied with our request to furnish recipes, we take pleasure in offering them to housewives of the Rural Circle.

Southern Pudding.—Two eggs, two teacups sugar, 2 cups sweet milk, 4 cups flour, butter the size of a large hen's egg, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons cream tartar.

Boiled Custard.—One quart fresh milk, 6 eggs, 2 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons arrow root or starch, a pinch of salt, one teaspoon butter.

It was announced on Tuesday last that Mrs. Francis E. W. Harpre, a colored woman, would deliver a lecture that night, at the Colored Church, on the "Nation's Great Opportunity," and duty calling us in that direction, we listened attentively to her remarks, delivered to a crowded and interested audience.

While detecting many errors in the facts and theories advanced, we must still confess that we were most agreeably surprised at the elegance and beauty attending many portions of the Lecture.

She utterly disclaimed any allegiance or duty to any political organization or party, but through her discourse clearly disclosed her Radical proclivities, and while lauding to the skies Northern philanthropy, mercilessly abused and ridiculed Southern inhumanity and cruelty.

Much good advice was given, which, followed out, must greatly advance the future happiness and success of her race.

Among other things we were glad to see the vile attempts of Southern agitators and demagogues were fully understood and despised.

W. W. Holden was particularly noticed among this class, and the colored people were warned against this man, who now with brazen face and servile dependence gives the lie to his life long avowed principles.

Altogether it was a most respectable lecture, and we trust will have the good effect evidently desired by the lecturer.

Saw a Ghost.—Last night the citizens in the lower part of the city were startled by loud shrieks of terror coming from some person apparently in the last agony of fright.

A rush to the spot, revealed a negro boy about fourteen years of age who declared amid tears and broken ejaculations that he had "seed a spirit."

A short bark from a white dog near by revealed the probable cause of his alarm to those not superstitious, but he went on his way firmly impressed with the belief that he had seen a spirit "doomed for a time to walk the night."
