The Old North State SALISBURY, N. C., DEC. 1, 1868

OUR JUDICIAL SYSTEM.

Some time since we published a com munication from "One of the Profession" proposing a meeting of the members of the legal profession-the bench as well as the bar, on the 16th of December for the purpose of interchanging views as to what changes should be made in our laws .-This suggestion has met with a favorable response from the press generally, as well as from many members of the legal profession, and we suppose the meeting will be held.

The new Code of Civil Procedure does not seem to meet with the approbation of the legal profession generally nor of the people. We will not undertake an examination and discussion of its merits and to all who may wish to do so. We think a discussion of the question, by the members of the profession, would prove both useful and interesting.

Wasseliche and arout or the par or this city, proclaiming himself to be the champion of the Code, and inviting the views of those members of the profession who oppose it. In our next we shall publish a more elaborate communition from another highly respectable member of the profession over the signature of "Davie" giving his views at some length as to how far the innovations now being made should be carried, and favoring the proposed meeting at Raleigh on the 16th of Decem ber. We know that the proposed meeting has the sanction of the most eminent of our Judges, and of some of the ablest and most experienced of our practicing attorneys.

FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, Nov. 28, M .- The Metropolitan Police Board has reported unfavorably on over one hundred applications to retail liquor. The organization of the Sons of Temperance, by resolution, urges the Board to stand firm, while those disappointed in securing licenses threaten to join the opposition in securing a prohibitory law by Congress.

It is stated that the debt statement will show a heavy increase, probably eleven millions, while the currency in the Treasury continues low. Hon. Favette McMullen presented a petition from the citizens of Virginia to in the interest of the Government of the the bill to amend the charter of the United States, and who use the cloak of Green Swamp Co., recommending its loyalty as a cover for their misdeeds. I have found that men of this description, though willing to see the blood of others shed at a distance, conceal themselves with marvelous alacrity and skill at the approach of any real or fancied danger .-Southworth who wanted the negroes slaughtered at the polls is a shining example of this kind, and was actually in hiding at my headquarters at the time he made the remark I have quoted."

Grant, to-day, against the extension of Stay-laws beyond January, 1869. Grant expressed himself favorably, but desired to consult Schofield before acting.

Stoneman, it is understood, opposes further extension, and advises those, who can't pay their debts, to take the bankrupt law and start afresh. Grant's petitioners represent that further extension of the State and will prevent the payment by special order, was adopted. of the interest of the State debt.

The State Department urges travelers, in view of the disturbed condition in foreign countries, to carry passports. They cost five dollars, and are only given tocit-Z ms.

General Grant will attend the wedding of Major Benjamin to the daughter of Governor Fish, on the 8th, and on the same evening, a reception by Mrs. Marshall O'Roberts will be given in honor of the President elect. It is stated that at these two re-unions, the President elect will see the creme de la creme of Gotham's society.

The Herald publishes the following special :

"In conversation, a few days ago, Gen. Grant expressed his impression that the result of the late election had quieted down the state of feeling throughout the country, had produced a condition of sober and contented acquiescence in the declared will of the majority, and that an improved tone in the political, as well as in other, relations of life will soon be made manifist. When he made use of the expression, 'Let us have peace,' he sincerely meant it, and he apprehended no trouble in any section of the country under his administration while at the same time, the rights of all classes and of all, communitics shall be protected and preserved. Re-ferring to the fourteenth Amendment, he said Kentucky and Maryland would suffer a loss of representation, after the next census if they refuse to allow negro suffrage, in accordance with the provisions of that amendment. 'It will be a bitter pill to them,' observed the General, laugh-ing, 'but they will have to stand it."

The following paragraph is in the Her-ald's version of Gen. Rousseans' report, which does not appear in the copy at Grant's Headquarters :

"Of this stripe were some of the mem bers of the Republican Campaign Com-mittee, in a consultation at my Headquarters, at which one Southworth, a controling member of that Committee, took a not present, but one of my Staff officers. Buildings. It was contended by some of the Republicans present, that the negroes should be advised not to go to the polls. The idea being that, if they did so, they would be slaughtered. Southword replied, that this Committee would advise the negroes to vote,

Adding : "Let them be slaughtered,the more there are killed, the better it will be for our party."
