BECKWITH'S
ANTI-DYSPEPTIC PILLS.

The subscriber, having been furnished by the inventor with the Recipe for these PILLS, with exclusive authority to prepare and vend them, they are now offered to the public, by THO'S L. JUMP, Chemist.

Raleigh, N. C. May 11, 1834

The ANTI-DYSPEPTIC PILLS have been most successfully employed in almost every variety of functional disorder of the Stomach, Bowels, Liver and Spleen; such as heart burn, acid eructations, nausea, head-ach, pain and distention of the stomach and bowels, incipient Diarrhea, Colic, Jaundice, Flatulence, habitual costiveness, loss of appetite, sick head-ach, &c &c. They are a safe and comfortable aperient for females during pregnancy and subsequent confinement, relieving sickness at the stomach, head ach, heart burn, and many of the incidental nervous affections. Literary men, students and most other persons of sedentary habits, find them very convenient. Those who indulge too freely in the pleasures of the table, find speedy relief from the sense of oppression and distention which follow by taking the Pills. Those who are drinking mineral waters, and particularly those from southern climates and ague and liver districts, will find them a valuable adjunct. Those who are exposed to the vicissitudes of weather, on voyages or journeys, can take them at all times with perfect safety. In full doses, they are a highly effectious and safe anti-bilious medicine. They seldom or never produce sickness at the stomach or griping.

DIRECTIONS

When an aperient effect is required, from one to three Pills may be taken at bed time; when a cathartic, from three to six. The patient soon learns to adapt the dose to his own wants. In Jaundice, take two, morning, noon and night, following them after the first day with Epsom Salts, in the morning—Repeat them several days. In Colic, from two to six, according to the urgency and violence of the case; and repeat them every hour until relief be obtained. In acid stomach, head-ach, heart-burn, &c take one or two, from once to thrice a day, as may be required — In dissention from a too full or injudicious meal or from eating fruit, one or two, half an hour after eating. In Piles, one, two or three, at bed time, as may be necessary to have a laxative effect; and as an alterative in derangement of the Liver and Spleen, one, three times a day. In all chronic diseases of the digestive organs, the use of the Pills should be persevered in for a some length of time; and it should be remarked, that their benefits are often obtained independent of any cathartic effect. Ordinarily, no change in diet is necessary, yet it is a safe rule to choose such articles of food as are found least to oppress the stomach. Children may take one, two or three, according to age. They are particularly useful to them when disordered by eating acid fruits. They may be safely adopted as a common domestic medicine for every member of a family who is old enough to take a Pill. As an ANTI-BILIOUS medicine, from 3 to 6 may be taken at bed time, and followed in the morning (if necessary) by any of the salts or mineral waters.

The following Testimonials of the claims of these Pills to public patronage, have been selected from many of similar import, recently furnished:

Halifax, N. C. Feb. 15, 1834.

I certify that I have used Dr. Beckwith's Anti-dyspeptic Pills extensively in my practice for seven years, and can recommend them with much confidence to the attention of the public. I have prescribed them with much success in all cases of Dyspepsia, arising from disordered function of the stomach or liver, sick head-ach, habitual constipation, liver complaints attended with torpor of that organ and constipated bowels, and believe them to be a sovereign remedy in Colic from indigestion, and in what is usually termed bilious colic. They are, moreover, well adapted to diseases of Pregnancy, Hæmorrhoids, and most chronic affections, where a safe and efficacious alterative is required. I also certify, that I am acquainted with their composition, and that they contain Mercury in no form whatever, and are compounded on strictly scientific principles. ROBERT C. BOND, M. D.

From Thomas P. Devereux Esq United States' Attorney for the District of North Carolina
Raleigh, Nov. 7, 1834.

For several years, Dr. Beckwith's Anti-dyspeptic Pills have been used in my family, where they have in a great measure superseded the ordinary domestic remedies. I have always found them to be efficacious, mild and safe, in cases of indigestion which have come under my notice; particularly so in allaying head-ach caused by derangement of the stomach.
T. P. DEVEREUX.

From Wm. S. Mhoon, Esq. Public Treasurer.
Raleigh, Nov. 8, 1834.

There are few persons, I suppose, who have not felt the want of some article which may be employed as a common domestic medicine, possessed of the properties uniformly attributed to Beckwith's Anti-dyspeptic Pills—safety, mildness and efficiency. That they can justly claim these in an eminent degree, I know from experience in my own family and person, and am persuaded that those who give them a fair trial, will, with me, soon reduce their family medicine chest within a very small compass.
W. S. MHOON.

From the Rt. Rev. Levi S. Ives, D. D. Bishop of North Carolina.
Raleigh, March 2, 1835.

Having, for the last three years, been intimately acquainted with Dr. John Beckwith, of this city, and enjoyed his professional services, I take pleasure in stating that his character as a Christian, gentleman and experienced Physician, entitles his testimony, in regard to the use of his Anti-dyspeptic Pills, to the entire confidence of the public. My experience of the good effects of these Pills, for two years past, satisfies me of their eminent value, particularly in aiding in imparied digestion and warding off bilious attacks. Having been for a long time subject to the annual recurrence of such attacks, I was in the habit of resorting, for security against them, and with very partial success, to a liberal use of Calomel or Blue Pill. But since my acquaintance with the Anti-dyspeptic Pill of Dr. Beckwith, which he prescribed in the first instance himself, I have not been under the necessity of using Mercury in any form, besides being wholly exempt from bilious attacks. Several members of my family are experiencing the same beneficial effects.
L. S. IVES.

From Governor Iredell.
August 21st, 1834.

Dr. Beckwith's Anti-dyspeptic Pills have been used in my family, which is a large one, with the most beneficial effects. A number of my friends who have been afflicted with Dyspepsia and other disorders of the Stomach, have spoken to me in strong terms of the relief they experienced from this remedy. Without the evidence I have received from others, my intimate knowledge of the professional and private character of Dr. Beckwith, for the last 20 years, justifies me in declaring, that he would give no assurances of facts of his own experience, or of professional deductions, of which he was not perfectly confident, and on which the public might not safely rely
JAS. IREDELL.

From his Honor, Henry Potter, Judge of the United States Court, for the District of North Carolina.
Fayetteville, Aug. 16, 1834.

For some ten or twelve years past, I have been in the habit of using Dr. Beckwith's Anti-dyspeptic Pills in my family, and consider them so valuable a domestic medicine, that I never suffer my stock to be exhausted. I have used them with good effect in dyspeptic cases, under various modifications, and have found them efficacious in relieving from sick head-ach, and from all the usual symptoms of a functional derangement of the viscera. As an aperient, they are excellent. I have long had the pleasure of an intimate acquaintance with the inventor of these Pills. He is a gentleman of talents, integrity and worth, and he ranks high in the science of Medicine, and the healing art. His certificate therefore as to the properties and effects of the Pills may be confided in.
H. POTTER.

From the Rev. Wm. McPheeters, D. D. late Pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Raleigh.
August 20, 1834.

The Pills now offered to the American Public, styled "Beckwith's Anti-Dyspeptic Pills," I have long used as a family medicine, and have no hesitation in bearing testimony to their value as a safe, convenient, and efficient remedy. In Dyspepsia, and its usual attendants, Heartburn, Costiveness, Head-ach, loss of appetite, &c. &c. these Pills seldom fail of affording the desired relief. Dr. Beckwith, long known to the community in which he resides, as a scientific and successful Practitioner of Medicine, having by numerous experiments and long continued attention to the subject, brought his Pills to their present state of perfection, I am free to say, as far as my experience and observation extend, no medicine heretofore offered to the public of a similar nature, and for similar purposes, has higher or equal claims.
WM. McPHEETERS.

From Rev. G. W. Freeman, Rector of Christ Church, Raleigh.
August 18, 1834.

Dr. Beckwith's Anti-Dyspeptic Pills have never, until lately, I believe, been offered to the public, beyond the sphere of his own practice; yet they have within my own knowledge, been for a number of years, habitually used by a wide circle of my acquaintance, among whom they continue to receive a high degree of approbation. In my own family, they have been in occasional use, and I deem it but justice to say, that they fully sustain the character given them by the Doctor. I have known Dr. Beckwith intimately, for many years, and I hesitate not to add, that his professional character and personal integrity, are such as to place him above the suspicion of offering to the public, a medicine in which he himself, has not the fullest confidence.
G. W. FREEMAN.

From Capt. Guion, Guion's Hotel, Raleigh.
August 21st, 1834.

It affords me great pleasure to add my testimony in favor of Dr. Beckwith's Anti-Dyspeptic Pills, which I have used during the present year with much benefit. I have suffered in an almost unparalled degree, with a disease of the Liver, from which I was partially relieved, by the use of Mercury. Such a visit to the Sulphur Springs in Virginia, some years since, but have not been able to eat vegetables of any kind, until I commenced using Dr. Beckwith's Pills, since which, I am able to eat all kinds of vegetables without the least inconvenience, and have in more than one instance, thoroughly tested their power by eating cucumbers in large quantities; one or two Pills taken half an hour after each meal have completely protected me from all ill consequences. My son, aged 10 years, had from infancy, been in the habit of vomiting his food about an hour after eating. Many prescriptions had been taken without any marked benefit. The relief from the Pills in my own case, induced me to give them to him. He took one every night, and in one week, the disease was removed; the cure seems permanent. I have likewise had multiplied opportunities to observe their efficacy in the persons of others, and to hear a uniform confirmation from them, of my own opinion. I think I can safely recommend them as a most valuable medicine.
E. P. GUION.

From the Rev. B. T. Blake, of the Methodist Episcopal Church,
Oaky Grove, Aug. 18, 1834.

I cheerfully add my testimony to the many satisfactory proofs I have heard of the value of Beckwith's Anti-Dyspeptic Pills, which for the last six years I have used in my own case (Dyspepsia, and sick headach) with the best effects. I regard them, also as a most valuable family medicine, which I have administered with the most perfect safety and convenience in cases of disordered stomach and bowels, and am persuaded, it is only necessary to give them a fair trial, to insure the patronage, they so highly deserve.
B. T. BLAKE.

From Weston R. Gales, Esq.
Aug. 28, 1834.

I have had occasion to use Beckwith's Anti-Dyspeptic Pills, in my family, only as an Anti-Bilious Medicine, and have found them mild and gentle; yet efficacious. They are without any of the nauseating or irritating effects usually attendant upon articles designed for similar purposes. My own observation enables me to recommend them with confidence as a safe, complete and effectual Anti-bilious Pill, particularly when assisted by a Rochelle Powder, or a teaspoon full of salts.
W. R. GALES.

From William Hill, Esq. Secretary of State.
Raleigh, Sept. 8 1834

I have used Dr. Beckwith's "Anti Dyspeptic Pills" myself, for months past, and they have been used by others of my family for a long time with much success. I think highly of them, and would not willingly be without them.
WM. HILL.

From the Hon. George E. Badger,
Raleigh, Nov. 7, 1834.

For several years past, Dr. Beckwith's Anti-dyspeptic Pills have been used as a domestic medicine in my family. I have myself frequently used them for the relief of headach, acid and otherwise disordered stomach, resulting from imprudence or excess in diet, and I have had many opportunities of learning from others their effects, when used by them for like purposes. My experience and observation justify me in saying that the relief afforded by the Pills is generally speedy, and almost always certain—that they may be taken at any time without danger or inconvenience, and that their operation is attended by no hurtful or other disagreeable effects whatever—and though I have known many persons use them, I have known none who did not approve them—none who sustained any injury, and none who failed to derive benefit from their use. And upon the whole, I do not hesitate to recommend them as an agreeable, safe and efficacious remedy in Dyspeptic affections, and believe them myself to be the best Anti-dyspeptic medicine ever offered to the public.
G. E. BADGER.

From the Hon. Richard Hines, late Member of Congress from the Tarboro' District.
Hermitage, near Sparta, Edgecomb county, November 10, 1834.

I was severely afflicted for several years with Dyspepsia, Jaundice and general ill health. I called in the aid of eminent Physicians, and visited most of the Mineral Springs of celebrity, in the United States, without any material benefit, until my case was thot to be hopeless. Being compelled in the winter of 1824 to spend some weeks in Raleigh, I consulted Dr. Beckwith, when he prescribed what is now known as "Beckwith's Anti-dyspeptic Pills," by the use of which I soon became much better. I continued to take them for some months until my health was entirely restored, to which they mainly contributed. Another member of my family subsequently used them with like benefit and success.

Having been many years well acquainted with Doctor Beckwith, I take pleasure in mentioning him as a gentleman of great worth and intelligence, and of known and admitted success and skill in his profession, and in recommending his Anti-Dyspeptic Pills as a most valuable medicine, to those afflicted with the diseases I have mentioned.
RICHARD HINES.

From James Grant, Esq. Comptroller of Public Accounts, in North Carolina.
Raleigh, September 8, 1834.

I have been in the habit of using Dr. Beckwith's Anti-Dyspeptic Pills in my family for several years. Many instances have occurred during that time, of their singular efficacy and marked success in arresting disease, by restoring a healthy action to the stomach, and thus indirectly imparting vigor to the whole system. As a family medicine, I consider them invaluable, and my own experience and observation warrant me in saying, that no family should be without them. I have been long and intimately acquainted with Dr. Beckwith. His scientific attainments, long tried practice and distinguished success as a Physician, entitle him to the confidence of the Public.
J. GRANT.

From Professor Anderson.
University of North Carolina, March 5, 1835.

I have used Dr. Beckwith's Anti-dyspeptic Pills in my family with such results as induce me to hold them in high estimation. In one case, particularly, which was long protracted and obstinate Dyspepsia, the use of them was followed by feelings of lightness and comfort, unknown before for years. I cordially and unreservedly recommend them to general use.

ROWAND'S TONIC MIXTURE;
Or, Vegetable Febrifuge,
A specific and lasting Cure for the Fever and Ague.

This worthy remedy earnestly repels the slur of being a quack medicine, it having been the result of many years' study, experience, and labour, in the medical practice and observation of Fever and Ague. It is composed of such medicinal principles as were considered most fit to restore the harmony of action between the Stomach, Liver, and the other important functions of the system, the loss of which harmony is evidently the immediate cause of the disease. It speedily promotes a regular and healthy appetite, which is generally entirely destroyed or rendered very precarious; by which effect, vigour and strength is soon afforded to the whole system. It must be apparent to all, that a medicine possessing these peculiar virtues, is useful in a great variety of complaints. By renewing the healthy action of the digestive organs, it has proved itself of remarkable benefit in Dyspepsia, Depraved Appetite, Heart-burn, Water Brash, Flatulency, Jaundice, Night Sweats, Dysentery, Bowel Complaints, and many other affections of similar origin. But it is in the treatment of Fevers, and especially in Fever and Ague, or Intermittent Fever, that its powers have been principally tested, and with those who have seen its usefulness, it is pronounced sovereign to all remedies heretofore discovered for those diseases. It has also been used as a preventive, by many who were subject to a periodical recurrence of the Chills and Fever, and it has always warded off the apprehended attack.

The above medicine can be had, wholesale or retail, at the Drug Store of
