The Suppressed "Letter."

Our readers, who have travelled with us to the end of our late remarks upon the French question, are doubtless satisfied of the correctness of our conclusion as to the fact of an amicable overture having been made to our Government, here, at Washington, during the recess of Congress, and of that overture having been repelled. They know, without any notice of ours, that, in the detail of "circumstances" which had occured during the recess of Congress in reference to the French question, a studied silence was observed, in the President's Message to Congress, upon the subject of that overture. We are indebted to the New York Commercial Advertiser for the additional light thrown upon the subject, in an extract of a Letter from an American in Paris, who (says the Commercial Advertiser) understands perfectly well what he is writing about, and possesses peculiar facilities for obtaining facts, and forming sound opinions. We hope our readers will mark and "inwardly digest" the very important information contained in the extract, which is as follows:—Nat. Int.

PARIS, Nov. 29, 1835.

"MESSRS. EDITORS: You will learn from the journals of this city, that our Charge d' Affairs, Mr. HARVEY, has demanded and received his passports, and returns home by the next packet, or the succeeding. You will also learn that the French Government has recalled their Charge d' Affaires at Washington. So the two nations are now without diplomatic agents as it regards each other.

"I cannot but look back upon the past of this affair with great sorrow. The King of France, sincerely desirous of having this matter amicably adjusted, and the claims of our Government paid, after the failure of the first bill in the Chamber, recalled to the ministry the Duke DE BROGLIE, who had always shown his friendship for our country, and who was heartily in favor of the payment of the money. A ministry was formed upon that principle. The measure was again brought forward. So Powerful was the opposition from the Carlists and Republicans, that the Duke DE BROGLIE became alarmed for the fate of the bill. He too hastily accepted of Gen. VALEE'S amendment, requiring explanations from the President respecting his message, believing that this would readily be done in order to settle the matter. He expected no apology, nor any thing like it. And he, without doubt, expected to receive the sincere thanks of Mr. LIVINGSTON for what he had done. Instead of this, Mr L. went to him much excited. An unpleasant interview took place. And although a more pleasant one succeeded just before Mr L.'s departure, still the Duke's feelings were deeply wounded. Mr. LIVINGSTON returned to the United States—meetings were held for him at Philadelphia and New York; exasperating toasts were drank and published to the world.

"The French Government, in the meanwhile, sends a communication to their Charge at Washington, stating what would be satisfactory to them, and requesting him to show it to the Secretary of State, and give him a copy, if he desired it. The Secretary of State, however, REFUSES TO RECEIVE IT, OR EVEN TO HEAR IT, saying that no negotiation can be had on the subject of giving explanations of the President's message. Notice is at length given here, through the American Charge, that the American Government refuses to give any explanations, and payment of the money is demanded; this, after some negotiation and one or two interviews, is refused. Mr. HARVEY, according to his instructions, demands his passports and obtains them, and the French withdraw their Charge from the United States. This is a brief history of this unfortunate affair. The unnecessarily harsh language of the last message, and the rough and severe language of Mr. LIVINGSTON'S correspondence with the French Government, and the unpardonable and stupid publishing of the correspondence with his own, have brought us to the very verge of a war.

"I am not disposed to blame our Government for being decided with France. It was time that it should be so. But this business might have been better conducted. Nor do I blame the President for not making an apology to the French Government, or even explanations directly, for it had no right to make such a demand. But I think something was due to the position of the King and his ministry, and some way could have been devised for getting over this difficulty, without further trouble, and without compromising the dignity of the Government."

Wilmington & Raleigh Rail Road. We noticed in our last the prompt zeal of our citizens in reference to the contemplated Rail Road, connecting this place with the Rail Roads of Virginia. We are much gratified in being able to state, that the same spirited and praiseworthy feeling on this subject, continues to produce its proper effect in our community. Wilmington alone and unaided from abroad, has already taken Stock to the amount of nearly 250,000 dollars in this road; and as but $50,000 in addition is required for the incorporation of the subscribers, the construction of the Road, is no longer to be regarded as a matter of doubt or speculation.—Wilmington Adv.

North Carolina Wine.—We have been favoured with a few bottles of wine from the Scuppernong Grape. It is white, and of the flavour of sweet Malaga—much sweeter and stronger than Muscat: We see no reason why in the sandy soil of that state the grape cannot be cultivated extensively, and persons would find their account in taking up the matter seriously, when foreign wines may soon be at a higher price.—N. Y. E. Star

The losses by the late conflagration at New York are ascertained to have exceeded the rough estimates heretofore made of them. A committee of citizens appointed for that purpose, have accurately examined the amount of the losses thus sustained, and reported that the whole number of buildings destroyed was 527, exclusive of the Merchants' Exchange and South Dutch Church; and that the estimated amount of loss is 17,115,692 dollars.

Jackson City.—Some Capitalists of New York have purchased a tract of land opposite George Town, on which they intend to build a manufacturing town, to be called "Jackson City"—A correspondence has taken place between a Committee of Stockholders and the President, stuffed ad nauseam with flattery of the latter, the result of which is, that the City is to bear his name and that he is to lay the corner stone on the 8th January (this day). The President is styled the second man of the nation, and, therefore, it is argued another city should be reared to his fame along side of that bearing the honored name of Washington, and prophesies are indulged, that these Siamese cities are to flourish in rival splendor. For our own part we are gratified to find Northern capital about to avail itself of the water power presented by the Potomac and the Canal, and hope the enterprise may be well rewarded; but are inclined to think it will bear about the same relation to the Metropolis, in future size and wealth, that the name and character of the living hero do to those of the dead. We cannot, in stronger terms, express our convictions that the existing city has nothing to fear from the city that is to be.

We are somewhat surprised that speculation has not directed its Argus eyes towards Alexandria, which, on the completion of the Canal, must be, not only the port whence the vast produce which will decend it will be transhipped, but also the seat of an indefinite manufacturing power. We do not know the exact state or prospects of the Alexandria canal, but we see nothing, in the event of its being finished, to prevent that town from ranking high among the great commercial and manufacturing marts of the South.—Arena.

Afflicting Steam Boat Disaster.—The Savannah Georgian of Thursday last says:

"We have the painful task of announcing an awful occurrence, which has cast a gloom over our city. Yesterday morning it was reported that the steam boat Oglethorpe, Capt. Lewis, owned by Mr. Wm. Duncan, and Messrs. Harpers, of this city and Augusta, had burst her boilers, on Tuesday evening last, while at the wharf at Purysburg, where she had been stopped to receive a supply of wood—and distressing to relate, was not only rendered thereby a wreck, but the explosion caused the deaths of the Captain, Mate, the two Engineers, all four white men and two of the colored hands. The rest, five or six in number, were more or less injured by the explosion. As this melancholy accident occurred about twenty miles above our City, we are unable at this time to state the particulars more fully, but the report is too painfully true. The bodies of the Engineers, who were first rate men, it is said in their profession, were discovered after the explosion on the wreck. The other bodies are missing. The Cotton on the tow boats moored to the Oglethorpe, it is stated, took fire and was partially consumed, before the flames could be arrested. We hav stated the worse, the distressing loss of humain life, but cannot refrain from adding our sympathy for the loss sustain by the enterprising owners, which we trust is not very great, as insurance was, we are informed, effected in New-York on the boat.

[A gentleman who arrived yesterday, in the stage, from Savannah, informs, that when passing Purysburg, fragments of the clothing of the crew, bedding, &c. were to be seen on the tops of the trees near where the boat lay. Such was the force of the explosion, that the boilers, four in number, which were upon deck, were thrown on shore, two of them over the tops of very high trees on the bank of the river, which, in falling, sunk some feet into the earth, and rebounding, finally rested upon the ground, at a considerable distance from the spot where they first struck.]

Charleston Gazette Dec. 21

An opinion has been given by the Circuit Court of the United States for the southern district of New York, in answer to an inquiry by the Grand Jury, that it is not a violation of the sixth section of the act of Congress of the 20th April, 1818, to hold meetings in the city of New York, and appoint committees "to provide means and make collections for the purpose of enabling the inhabitants of Texas to engage in a civil war with the sovereignty of Mexico, now at peace with the United States." This section, the Court says, applies only to military expeditions and enterprises to be carried on from the United States against any foreign power with which we are at peace. Donations in money, or any thing else, to the inhabitants of Texas, to enable them to engage in a civil war with the sovereignty of Mexico (says the Court) is in no sense beginning or setting on foot, or providing the means for a military expedition from the United States or their territory.—*Nat. A Delaware editor seems to think that the Gold Humbug, which was attempted by Senator Benton and the Globe & Co., is at least equal to the act of Don Carlos of Spain, in proclaiming the Virgin Mary commander-in-chief of his forces. Every nation is subject to dupery in one form or other.
