

POETRY.

"Add while his harp responsive rung—Twas thus the latest Minstrel song."

From Blackwood's Magazine.
A VENETIAN LOVE-SCENE.

Sweet, solemn Venice! o'er thee fade Eve's latest hues of glory, While, by yon shadowy colonnade, Near Balbi's palace hoary, A youth, with passion-kindled lip,
And Tasso's harmonious hand, Must still devoted vigil keep,
Invoking beauty bland.

"Appear, my lady-love, appear!
Look from thy latticed bow,
And bless his sight who watches here
The living twilight hour.
The stars are out, and why shouldst thou, My peerless one, delay
To frown upon me from thy brow A far diviner ray!

But others gaze upon thee now,
And drink thy glorious smile,
And make thy spirit mindless how,
Mine madness here the while.
Ah, truant, why shouldst thou praise My secret hour consume!
Look forth, and with one gracious gaze Make gladness of my gloom!

"Lo, jealous eye and ear are far,
And fast the evening flies, Then loiter not, thou lovely star!
Young noon of beauty, rise!
Or is thy faith, like flower-spray, broke,
And—"
God! that leaping start!
Keen, sudden, home—the poniard stroke Has split his very heart!

While on the air his song yet gushes, Life's stifled fountain stops, Dead on the rebeck that he crushes,
The young Battista drops;
And ere his murderer's skulking shade Has left the moonbeam bare, Damp in the cooling dews are laid Those curls of chestnut hair.

Forth from her bow the maiden wended At Love's victorious call, Where broad the marble steps descended Upon the blue canal;
A sudden brightness with her bringing,
As though from out the main Its light the vanished day was flinging Through sunset's gate again.

"By yonder shaft he leans to hide, The proud, impatient boy!
I'll steal upon his song," she cried, In girlhood's rosy joy,
And glancing on, like cushat fleet, She gazed the sed moonshine;
By Heaven! she stumbles, and her feet Are plashing—not in wine.

One look—but come—we'll leave her there,
To madness and the moon;
With every string in tone;
A glorious but from vernal earth Snapp'd as its bloom was blown—A grass in beauty's bounding mirth Struck instantly to stone.

Prodigy.—A few days since the Bee contained a most marvellous story, to which it gave full credit, going to show that "the hand of nature had stamped Gen. Jackson's image in the solid and dismembered rock of the land." It seems that in dressing a stone column at Columbus, Ohio, "a very striking full length likeness of General Jackson was developed, composed of impressions made by the oxide of iron. It is not a mere fancied likeness, to perceive which, it is necessary to call up the imagination; but one remarkably striking and perfect, particularly in the general cast of the countenance, and the position of the hair, the latter so peculiar in the likeness of the General and never mistaken."—Well this does beat the goddess of credulity herself—i. e., if there be such a divinity. It reminds us of a certain rock that we once saw on the banks of the Potomac. A pedagogue in the neighborhood wrote essay upon essay for the village news paper, proving that one side of the rock presented a perfect full-dressed portrait of Gen. Washington. Hundreds and thousands of pious pilgrims visited the spot to view the wonder—but, to this day, no one except the pedagogue has ever discovered any resemblance.

In the same way, we fear those who are disappointed who may be induced by the above humbug story to visit Columbus.—Piquette.

Our Rail-Road.—We always recur to this subject with pleasure, no less than with a sense of duty, because we believe its progress is regarded with interest elsewhere, and certainly it is closely identified with the well being of the State, and the prosperity of this town and the adjacent parts. The work goes on with vigor, and rapidly.
The utmost activity prevails along the entire line from this point to Halifax.
A most dreaded part of the road, Bargaw Swamp, thirty miles from Wilmington, is finished, and the cars will traverse it, probably to-morrow. Next week passengers will be brought into town to lodge, instead of stopping a night at South Washington, so that then, they will be landed here in forty eight hours from Washington City or anywhere about New York. Another about is nearly completed, to run in conjunction with the North Carolina, between Wilmington and Charleston.
(Some may feel interested to know that this new boat will be called the "Governor Dudley," in compliment to the Chief Magistrate of the State, who was the early, and has at all times been the generous and zealous friend of the road.) A good deal of produce has already been brought to this market by the way of the railroad, such as Turpentine, Tar, Bacon, Corn, &c. and by a another business season, the receipts through that channel will no doubt be immense. We would say much more, and present other important facts, in relation to this great work, did time allow for their preparation—but we must defer to another occasion.—Wilmington Advertiser.

Artificial Rubies and Emeralds.

We learn from a recent letter from Dr. Cooper, published in the Columbia Telescope, that, at his suggestion, Dr.
Ellett, Professor of Chemistry in the South Carolina College, has repeated, with promise of success, the experiment of a French Chemist, for the production of artificial rubies and emeralds, by means of a pure alumine acted on by the compound blow-pipe, with chrome as the coloring matter. Perfect rubies were produced by Professor Ellett, which easily scratched an agate seal. The basis was pure alumine, and the coloring matter bichromat of potash. If the specimen be taken as soon as fused, it is a ruby; if the heat be continued, the chromic acid is converted into oxide of chrome, & an emerald is the result. The specimens were of fine color, transparent, and the experiment unobjectionable and satisfactory.

Charleston Courier.

The Professor of Chemistry in the South Carolina College at Columbia—Dr. Ellett—is manufacturing precious stones, with a very astonishing success, and if he goes on at his present rate, nobody must wonder if he should convert good old South Carolina into a "Granite State," all sand as she is, except upon her rivers, where she is all mud. The Professor, being prompted thereto by Dr. Cooper, who is all that, and by the example of the French chemist, who first gave the hint to Dr.
Cooper himself, has gone extensively into the manufacture of rubies, and em-eralds, &c. Prof. Ellett, we are told, produces matters of this sort almost extemporaneously. We take it there will be very little sense hereafter in digging. A man may stand upon the surface and make you any quality of brilliant to order, ready polished to your hands. Diamonds, we doubt not as large, or larger than that belonging to the Crown of Portugal, will very soon be hawked about the streets at the price of a plaster bust of Napoleon, or a basket of damaged apples. Ebony and topaz will, we dare say, become a drug in market, and sapphires be sold at all orange stands at a very moderate price per peck. Artificial gold and silver will probably be "afforded cheap to regular customers," and we expect to see Benton brass selling lower than old warming pans. Modern mineralogy is likely to become altogether aboveboard. Nobody need seek for specimens in the "bowels of the earth," since their fabrication is reduced to a system adapted to the understanding of the "people in general."—New York Gazette.

An interesting work entitled "Evenings at Home," contains the following beautiful apologue: A gentleman and his son were walking in a village one Sunday, as the church bells were ringing. The various societies of worshippers were going to their respective houses of worship.
"Father," said the little boy, "why do not all these people worship God in the same manner?" "And why should they agree?—They were not made to agree in this, I suppose," said his father.
Just then a poor man fell down in the street in a fit. Numbers instantly hastened to aid him. A Presbyterian sat down and made his lap a pillow for the sick man's head; a Baptist chafed his temples; a Roman Catholic lady held her smelling bottle to his nose, a Unitarian untied his neck-cloth, and unbuttoned his collar, to let him breathe more freely; a Methodist ran for a doctor; an Episcopalian soothed the poor man's crying children; and a Quaker held his wide umbrella over him to keep off the burning sun. "Arthur," said the gentleman, pointing to the scene, "this is what men were made to agree in."

Relief.—The administration will not allow any relief measure to pass. Mr.
Clay made a recent effort, but referring his resolution to Mr. Wright and the Finance Committee, was indicative at once of their settled determination not to yield an inch in their hostility to Banks, whether paying specie or not, and to keep the specie circular and all the obstructions to the credit system in full force. This is the iron determination of General Jackson, and his nominee is pledged to carry out his will.
The Government is actually bankrupt —the national finances are in a wretched condition—the public creditors remain unpaid—more Treasury Notes are demanded, and yet every movement of relief to the people is resisted.

RICHMOND & PETERSBURG RAIL ROAD.

RAIL ROAD.

The completion of this Rail Road (from Petersburg to Richmond, opposite to Richmond) makes the chain of Rail Roads through the State of Virginia continuous, with the exception of 9 miles, and adds important advantages to the Inland Route for Northern and Southern traveling.

There are established on it two daily trains, one of which is in connection with the North and South mail line; and a tri-weekly train connecting with the "Hibernia," Wilmington and Charlotte, and the "Hibernia" and Steam Boat line.
Passengers from the South by the daily "Metropolitan Mail line" will arrive in Richmond on the evening after that on which they leave Leitch; and having the night for rest, are yet comfortable, by existing arrangements, to proceed to Baltimore on the succeeding day, and thence to Philadelphia the same night time for the morning boat to New York; time, less than 3 days from Raleigh to New York.

The route through Petersburg and Richmond will be found also to be one of the best routes from the South to the Virginia Springs. The passengers can arrive in Charlottesville, having only 44 miles Stage travelling after reaching the Rail Road in Virginia, in 3 days from Charleston, and 2 days from Raleigh.

All possible arrangements are made on this Rail Road for the comfortable and safe transportation of passengers.
