Truman Asks Bigger Production, More Taxes

LANDMARK MOVED—Addison Brewington was busy today moving the old J. C. Andrews house from E. Broad St. to a new location on the corner of Edgerton and Magnolia Ave. Brewington, who has moved a lot of houses, says this one fared as well as any large house he has ever seen changed from one location to another. The house is 80 feet wide. It is a familiar landmark in Dunn, having been built about 1896 by Attorney L. J. Best, who began practice here in 1889. J. C. Andrews bought the house from Best about 1905, according to Mrs. L. J. Best. (Daily Record Photo by Lewis Studio.)

Wherry Taunts Truman Over Home Program

Cast Of Security Program Placed At Forty Billions

Washington, Jan. 12.—(U.P.) Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry, Neb., today taunted President Truman to press for congressional action on his "Fair Deal" program. Wherry said Mr. Truman cast doubt on his faith in the Democratic Party platform in his State-Of-The-Union message by not requesting action on his domestic program. "The President was silent on the Brannan (Farm) Plan and civil rights," Wherry said, "and he made no clear reference to his socialized health program." Mr. Truman said yesterday that he has not abandoned his "Fair Deal" program, but added that "in an emergency like the present, first things come first, and our defense programs must have top priority." ELSEWHERE IN CONGRESS Foreign Policy—Senate Republicans demanded an immediate showdown on Mr. Truman's plan to send more U. S. troops to Europe without asking congressional approval. Senator Wherry said he will try to get a vote Monday on his resolution forbidding further troop commitments to the Western European defense army unless Congress approves. Senate Democratic leaders insisted that the resolution first be considered by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. (Continued On Page Three)

Annual Report Is Made To The Congress

President Says He's Giving Priority To Armament Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(U.P.)—President Truman called on Congress today to increase taxes "much more" than the $8,000,000,000 boost voted in 1950. "The new tax increases... must press harder upon every source of available revenue," the President said in his annual economic report to Congress. Mr. Truman estimated that the cost of the "primary national security program" for the fiscal years 1951 and 1952 would be more than $140,000,000,000. The President included in his $140,000,000,000 estimate "new obligations" for the armed forces, for economic and military aid to other countries, for atomic energy and stockpiling and "related purposes." To finance the most expensive program ever undertaken by this country without a formal state of war, the President said that corporations and individuals would have to pay "much higher taxes." HIGHER EXCISE TAX He also said that excise taxes would have to be increased and made more extensive. "We should make it the first principle of economic and fiscal policy in these times to maintain a balanced budget, and to finance the cost of national defense on a 'pay-as-we-go' basis," the President said in a 7000-word message accompanying the annual economic review of his council of economic advisers. Mr. Truman did not deliver the message to Congress in person. It was read by house clerks. The Senate was not in session today. Mr. Truman held up specific details on his tax proposals pending completion of a message to Congress on the subject. He said the message would go to the House and the Senate "in the near future, after further consultations with legislative leaders." Mr. Truman did say, however, that Congress should "increase" (Continued On Page Three)

Two Soldiers Get Prison Terms For Assault On Teen-Age Girl

County Polio Drive Will Open Monday

With the opening date of the 1951 March of Dimes set for Monday, the Rev. Joyce V. Early, county campaign director, today called upon all residents of the county to join in an all-out drive for funds needed to stem the rising tide of polio. "The 1951 March of Dimes begins Monday," Mr. Early said, "and lasts a little over two weeks. But in that short time we can help thousands upon thousands of polio patients for whom recovery is measured in terms of ten or 20 or 50 weeks if not longer. I think we owe them the two weeks of our own efforts. It is little enough—if we can save some child from a lifetime of paralysis."

Attorneys Threaten To Fight During Heated Exchanges

A midnight jury session brought an end early this morning to a wild trial which saw two Fort Bragg paratroopers convicted of attempting to rape an Erwin girl and found the lawyers threatening physical violence on each other. Sgt. Harold D. Roy, 26, sentenced by Presiding Judge G. K. Nimocks to 5 to 7 years, appealed immediately through his attorney, A.A.F. Seawell, Jr. The other defendant, 19-year-old Pfc. James D. Slate, who was given 12 to 18 months, has not yet served notice of appeal. Judge Nimocks, sitting on the final case of the January term, commented that he had never before seen such conduct among lawyers in court. LAWYERS CLASH During the afternoon session, while Defense Attorney Nell McK Salmon was addressing the jury, Prosecuting Attorney Everette Doffermire of Dunn, enraged by a personal remark made by Salmon, hopped up and stormed: "I don't want to engage in physical combat with Mr. Salmon." Salmon whirled around and said, "Give me some boxing gloves and adjourn court, and I'll take him on." Judge Nimocks quieted the two (Continued On Page Three)

100,000 STRICKEN Mr. Early revealed that more than 100,000 people were stricken by polio in the years 1948-1950, with four out of five of them receiving help in whole or in part from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the organization which benefits from the March of Dimes. "Last fall," Mr. Early said, "the National Foundation ran out of epidemic aid funds and had to call upon whatever chapters were still solvent to bolster its central epidemic emergency account, on behalf of chapters whose resources had been wiped out. From May through August of last year, chapters were drawing $1,000,000 a month from the epidemic aid fund." Patient care, the county chairman said, "is but one phase of the" (Continued On Page Three)

Cotton Ginners Map Plans For Campaign

Ginners of Harnett, Sampson and Cumberland counties met here last night and formed an organization for the purpose of bringing their best efforts to the campaign to increase cotton production this year. The ginners elected Myers Tilghman of Dunn as, chairman of the group by acclamation. He appointed Everett L. Patterson, Clinton, secretary. The group pledged cooperation to representatives of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, who attended the gathering. Another meeting is scheduled between Feb. 7 and 14. Exact date, and place of the next meet, are to be announced. COUNTY AGENTS SPEAKS At the meeting last night, County Agents C. R. Ammons of Harnett and E. J. Morgan of Sampson reviewed the record of last year's cotton production and revealed their goals for this year. On the national level, Ammons said, the county needs ten million bales of cotton for internal use, and another six million for export. In Harnett County, he said, the 1949 crop of 17,000 to 18,000 bales dropped to between 3,000 and 7,000 in 1950. Goal for the county this year is an acreage of 30,000. E. J. Morgan, Sampson county agent, said the goal for that county is 45,000 acres. Lester Lawes, of the Cumberland County agent's office, said the goal for his county has (Continued On Page Three)

B-29s Raining Death On Reds In Wonju

TOYKO, Jan. 12.—(U.P.)—B-29 Superfortresses rained 80 tons of high explosive death and destruction on Communist held Wonju today in direct support of U. S. 2nd Division forces fighting only a few miles to the south. The fleet of 10 Japan-based B-29s struck just as 30,000 North Korean and Chinese Reds in and around Wonju seemed about to launch an all-out assault against outnumbered 2nd Division units holding a line within two miles south of the city. U. S., French and Dutch units pulled back temporarily during the 19-minute ground shaking raid, then rushed back to their old positions while smoke and dust rose from the stricken city. They hoped the raid had knocked the Communists off balance. Other Red troops, however, cut off one of the 8th Army's main lifelines to the old Pusan beach. (Continued on Page Eight)

Blalock Resumes Command Of Guard

Capt. George F. Blalock has returned to Dunn and resumed command of the local National Guard unit after completing the officers advanced artillery course at Fort Sill, Okla. The captain came back to Dunn in spite of an offer to remain at the artillery school on active duty as an instructor in the gunnery department. Now back on duty here, the battery commander will train his unit for possible federal service. During the absence of Captain Blalock, Lt. Keith G. Finch acted as commander of the Dunn unit. The captain organized the local field artillery battery, receiving federal recognition on Nov. 10, 1947. At all federal inspections since that time, the battery has received top excellent ratings. Since no unit is better than its leaders, this record speaks well for the commanding officer, however. (Continued on Page Eight)
