Perjury Counts May Be Brought Against O'Dwyer

NEW YORK, March 22—(P)—Former Mayor William O'Dwyer, the city commissioner of water supply and the president of the city Firemen's Association faced possible perjury charges today about the $85,000 in missing "political contributions."

"Obviously, somebody is lying," said District Attorney Frank S. Hogan. He was checking into possible perjury charges in the city's biggest political scandal since the Seabury investigation drove Mayor Jimmy Walker out of office in the 1930's.

O'Dwyer, now President Truman's ambassador to Mexico, and his long-time friend Commissioner James J. Moran hotly denied under oath testimony by John P. Crane, president of the New York Uniformed Firemen's Association (UFA).

Crane told senate crime investigators yesterday he gave O'Dwyer $10,000 of the UFA's funds in 1949 to use in his campaign for reelection as mayor. He also said he gave Moran $5,000 in 1946, $30,000 in 1947 and $20,000 in 1949 for "good will" with the O'Dwyer administration.

Mayor Vincent F. Impellitteri, who himself had declined to testify before the senate committee yesterday, immediately demanded that Moran resign from his $15,000-a-year lifetime post as commissioner by noon today or be fired.

"Your resignation as commissioner of the board of water supply is demanded forthwith," Impellitteri wired Moran. "Unless you have resigned by noon March 22, I shall suspend you and prefer charges to remove you from office."

Crane's testimony yesterday climaxed an eight-day public hearing conducted by the Senate Special Crime Investigating Committee.

Sen. STES Kefauver, D, chairman of the Senate committee, said in Washington last night that he had talked the matter of perjury over with Hogan and that "it will be brought to a very quick conclusion."

Before either O'Dwyer and Moran or Crane could be cited for perjury.

RALEIGH, March 22—(P)—Henry L. Kamphoefner, dean of the North Carolina State College School of Design, announced today that Charles H. Boney of Wilmington has been selected as one of 12 finalists for the 38th Paris Prize in Architecture. Kamphoefner said the award is valued in excess of $5,000 and is regarded as the leading academic scholarship in the field of architecture.

Stores To Close
James Snipes, chairman of the Retail Merchants Committee of the Dunn Chamber of Commerce, reminded citizens today that Dunn stores will be closed on Easter Monday. He joined other merchants in urging that all citizens arrange their shopping accordingly.

Judge Orders Reports From Delinquent Administrators

A painful tail-twisting for estate administrators who have failed to make reports was ordered yesterday by Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn after the Harnett grand jury reported the names of 300 such administrators.

The grand jury made the report as it wound up its three-day session at the March term of Superior Court. Judge Leo Carr had ordered that the names be drawn up when he presided over the November term in Lillington.

Judge Burgwyn instructed Court Clerk Robert Morgan to read out the list of administrators who had not filed reports on the estates for

A. P. LOVE - - - Adman Extraordinary

Colonial Ad Chief Pays Visit To Dunn

In this modern merchandising age, it takes promotion—and plenty of it—to move goods from the store shelf to the customer's pantry.

And to A. P. Love, the smooth, energetic advertising manager for Colonial Stores, promotion means one word—advertising!

Advertising, reminds Mr. Love, is the thing that sells.

Mr. Love heads the Columbia, S. C. division of Colonial Stores, which recently opened a new super market in Dunn, and he was interviewed by The Record while on a visit here.

It should be pointed out in the beginning that Mr. Love is the man who produces those very fine Colonial Store advertisements which appear in The Daily Record and in 93 other newspapers in his division.

ADVERTISING IS MUST
He's also the man who directs the public relations program of the company, who handles the "ballyhoo" for all the various trade events, store additions, grand openings, etc. In other words, he's the front man for the rapidly-growing chain of food stores scattered from the District of Columbia throughout the Southern States.

"In the old days," observed Mr. Love, "the store owner would do the thing that sells."

Thus ended the famous case of the "Pumpkin Papers" and "who is lying: Hiss or Chambers?"

The handsome convicted perjurer, still protesting his innocence, surrendered to U. S. Marshall William Carroll and was taken to the Federal House of Detention.

HAS FAREWELL PARTY
The 46-year-old Hiss spent his final night of freedom at a gloomy farewell party in a friend's Manhattan apartment. One of the guests there said the conversation avoided mention of Hiss' two perjury trials and the U. S. Supreme Court refusal last week to review his conviction.

"Most of us feel we have exhausted all talk about that line," the friend said. "We just talked about simple things."

With time off for good behavior, Hiss could be freed on parole in one year and eight months—one third of his term. Even then, he will be stripped of his civil rights—including the right to vote—because of his criminal conviction.

Hiss' rise to eminence was matched in speed only by his downfall. It began on a muggy day in Washington, Aug. 3, 1948, when Chambers, then a $30,000-a-year Time Magazine editor, said just four words about him before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Chambers named three members of a communist underground-ring that stole secrets for Russia. Almost as an afterthought, he added "as was Alger Hiss."

The first trial began May 31, 1949 and ended July 8 in a hung jury 8-4 for conviction. In the second trial starting Nov. 17, Hiss was found guilty and sentenced Jan. 25, 1950 to five years imprisonment.

Reds Expected To Make Stand In Mountains Below Parallel

UN Forces Push Within 4 Miles Of Border Line

TOKYO, March 22—(P)—United Nations forces struck north within sight of Korea's 38th Parallel today.

Tank-led U. S. patrols above captured Chungchon on the central front at last reports had stabbed within four miles of the Parallel against little or no opposition.

But ahead of them—in mountains virtually on the Parallel itself—were reported to be 6,000 well dug-in Chinese communist rear guards.

Farther east, U. S. infantrymen finally captured bloody "Tombs Hill" on the Hongchon-pyong road without firing a shot. Deeply-entrenched North Korean troops who had held the 1,200-foot hill for two days against fierce American attacks apparently pulled out under cover of darkness last night.

EXPECT NEW STAND
The Reds were expected to make a new stand on another hill two miles closer to the 38th Parallel—controversial border between South and Communist North Korea.

Communist rear guards also were fighting back on the western front north of Seoul along the classic invasion route to Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

Reconnaissance reports said many camouflaged vehicles, foxholes and artillery positions have been spotted in an area two miles wide and 15 miles deep along the highway running north from Seoul through Uijongbu toward Pyongyang.

The fortified zone was said to begin 18 miles above Seoul.

Nowhere else along the 140-mile front across Korea did the advancing 8th Army run into more than scattered light rear guard resistance. Some columns reported no contact with the retreating enemy.

South Korean units spearheading the east coast virtually unopposed were believed within a few miles of the 38th Parallel.

A double-barreled American tank patrol on the central front made the closest announced approach to the 38th Parallel.

Verdict Is Awaited In Trial Of Hillman

A Harnett County jury was expected to return a verdict early this afternoon in the case of Sam Hillman, 25-year-old Harnett County farmer on trial in Superior Court for the slaying of John Clifford McLean, 25-year-old Negro.

Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn completed his charge to the jury today about noon, instructing the jurors that they could turn in one of three verdicts, murder in the second degree, manslaughter, or not guilty.

Trial of the case began yesterday and evidence was completed during the afternoon. Attorney Neill Salmon, Duncan Wilson and W. A. Johnson argued the case for the defendant.

Court was scheduled to adjourn later today, but District Solicitor Jack Hooks said he would try the case of Troy Felton Ivey, charged with fornication and adultery and other offenses, before adjournment. This would be the last case, he said.

HOOKS ADDRESSES JURY
Solicitor Hooks closed the arguments for the State this morning about 11:30 with a fiery speech in which he described Hillman as a man guilty of murder. He demanded that a verdict of guilty be returned in order for justice to be rendered in the case.

A half dozen or more witnesses testified for the State and evidence was that Hillman went to the home of Hattie Hooks, near Mammers, allegedly a bootleg establishment, and that Hillman shot McLean after a row between the two.

In his questioning and in his argument, Solicitor Hooks contended that Hillman and the others went to the house to buy whiskey. One witness, Claude Cummings, admitted he had gone there two months before the crime to buy whiskey, but said he got none.

Hillman, a heavy-set man about 5 feet, eight inches tall with dark bushy hair, took the stand in his own defense yesterday afternoon.

He said that he, Clyde Cummings, Claude Patterson and Nello Patterson, Herbert Taylor and Dick Taylor were enroute to Cape Fear River to go fishing, but stopped at the Hicks' home to get a dozen eggs on the afternoon of the slaying, March 11, about 4 p.m.

The accused man related that he and Nello Patterson went into the kitchen and that Hillman said, "Hello, Snake" to one of the men. He said McLean cursed him and ordered, "Get what you want and get out, you white-faced sons of—"

He related that McLean jumped up and dropped his knife on the floor. Hillman's two companions fled back to the car and then McLean and Clyde Matthews, another Negro, started chasing them with knives.

Hillman said they chased him around the car three times before he could get in and that Dick Taylor, owner of the car, drove off.

Gregory Will Support Vets Bonus Bill

RALEIGH, March 22—Harnett Representative Carson Gregory said today he will vote for a State bonus for veterans of World War I and II if a bill providing for such a bonus ever reaches the floor of the House of Representatives.

A bill providing a State bonus for the two wars was introduced in the House last week by Representative George Long, who represents Alamance, the home county of Governor Scott.

Long would have the bonus paid in installments from increased taxes on liquor, beer and wine sold legally in North Carolina.

PROVIDES UP TO $700
His measure provides for payments of $500 to veterans who served 90 days or more and who did not see overseas service. For veterans with overseas service and who served 90 days or more, he would give $700 each.

As there are an estimated 485,000 living North Carolina veterans.

Strike Closes Dunn Hog Mart

RALEIGH, March 22—The State Department of Agriculture reported today 15 North Carolina hog buying points have closed because of meat packing strike called for March 26.

John A. Winfield, director of the division of markets, advised farmers to call local markets or slaughter plants before moving swine from the farm.

He said the closed markets included Wilmington, Washington, Wilson, Smithfield, Lenoir, Greenville, Goldsboro, Wm. Clark, Clarkton, Pembroke, Warrenton, Scotland Neck, Jacksonville and Weldon.

"This is the heavy hog marketing season for North Carolina producers. Winfield said—and approximately two-thirds of the hogs being moved at this time are large eastern-bred hogs. It is expected to be affected by the strike.

MARSHALL WILLIAMS

M. G. M. Signs Contract For Williams Movie

The story of Marshall Williams, the famous Godwin gun inventor, will be filmed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. The movie will depict the life of the man who rose from a convict to become one of the world's greatest gun inventors.

Announcement of the purchase of film rights by M-G-M was disclosed this morning in a telephone call from Fay Ridenbor, manager and press agent from Williams. Both are in Hollywood.

Production of the movie will get underway as soon as the script is prepared.

The negotiations were completed at a conference held with Louis B. Mayor, vice president of the studios, Dare Sehary, vice president in charge of production and other film executives.

WILLIAMS TO ASSIST
The Godwin man will assist in making the movie by serving as advisor as to the authenticity of scenes, etc.

One or more script writers will make a visit with Williams to Godwin at an early date to get "the proper atmosphere" for the film. Many of the scenes will be filmed at Williams' nearby birthplace and home.

Ridenbor said that both Scary and Mayor were very enthusiastic about the story and considered it excellent film material. A leading Hollywood actor, not yet selected, is expected to portray the role of Williams.

The story of "Carbine" Williams—nicknamed because he invented the carbine used in World War II—appeared recently in Collier's, Reader's Digest, True magazine and other nationally-circulated publications.
