

Fort Raleigh Scene Will Be Authentic

MANTEO. — After 14 years, the Lost Colony setting is to have a new version of an old look. A $2,500 grant from the North Carolina Society for the Preservation of Antiquities will enable Albert Bell, architect and builder of the unique Lost Colony stage, to make authentic the chapel and houses in the play's second act. Mrs. Charles A. Cannon, president of the society, announced the grant this week.

The Roanoke Island Historical Association directors authorized changes in the setting upon recommendations of Mrs. Inglis Fletcher, historical novelist of Edenton, and a director of the Association, Mrs. Fletcher, who has done extensive research in Elizabethan themes, both in England and in the Albemarle region, said the log cabin construction, used until now in depicting Fort Raleigh's buildings, was foreign to Raleigh's settlers.

DESCRIBES CONSTRUCTION
Cheap buildings of England of the 16th century were of the "wattle and daub" type, said Mrs. Fletcher. Essentially, this consisted of framework of heavy beams, with a side filling of saplings. Upon the saplings was applied a wall of plaster and the beams were exposed in criss-cross patterns. Reeds were used for thatching.

She quoted Haklyut as saying the colonists found abundance of "fabric for houses", meaning the usual materials employed in buildings in England. A pioneer of Elizabethan England, continued Mrs. Fletcher, naturally would employ the inexpensive and convenient materials and methods already so familiar to him.

The log cabin, so conspicuous on the late American frontier, came from the Germanic and Scandinavian countries. "I doubt," said Mrs. Fletcher, "that there is today an Englishman who could build a log cabin."

This year, walls of the chapel and of the two cabins flanking it will be of plaster with characteristic exposed beams. The log palisades of the fort will be left intact. The work will be done under the supervision of Bell and Producer Sam Selden. Bell, an Englishman, is thoroughly familiar with the wattle and daub technique. Mrs. Fletcher says she is hopeful that eventually the other buildings in the fort area, but not connected with the play, including the chapel, will be torn down and rebuilt to simulate what must have been appearance of the colony in 1585.

Joe Louis Licks Agramonte, Signs To Meet Savold In The Polo Grounds In June

UP Sports Writer

DETROIT, May 4—Joe Louis was signed today to meet Lee Savold in a 12-round (cq) Heavyweight Elimination Bout at New York June 13 as follow-up to his victory over Omelia Agramonte here last night.

International Boxing Club President James Norris announced the June Bout, which will be held at the Polo grounds. He said the winner probably will meet Ezzard Charles for the Heavyweight Championship in Britain, but Charles is the U. S.-approved titleholder.

Louis didn't show the murder-out punch of yore when he took a 10-round decision from Agramonte last night at Olympia Stadium. But the decision still was unanimous.

The 12-round distance for the Savold fight is probably the result of a compromise between Louis' desire for a 10-rounder and Savold's wish for a 15-rounder.

The Louis victory over Agramonte was the second in recent months, and his fifth on the comeback trail.

Faust Is Endorsed For Legion Office

At a recent meeting of the 24th District of the American Legion, action was taken in endorsing unanimously the Reverend Milton B. Faust, a veteran of World War II, as a candidate for Department Chaplain.

Faust is a veteran of five years of service. He has been most active in the work of the American Legion since he resigned his commission in the U. S. Navy in November, 1946. He is an outstanding civic, as well as religious, leader in Rowan County and Salisbury, and is married to the former Anna Mary Brannock of Spencer. They have three children, Eric, 9, Mary, 5, and Frances, 2.

After being discharged from service, Comrade Faust became a member of the Curtis E. Smith Post No. 60 at Rockwood, Tennessee, where he was active in the affairs of the community while serving as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of that city. Since coming to the Franklin Presbyterian Church, Route 1, Salisbury, North Carolina, three years ago, he has been a member of the Jack A. Hutchins Post No. 241. He has served continuously as Post Chaplain during this time, and is a member of the "Go-Getters" Club for 1951.

HELD CHAIRMANSHIPS
He was chairman of the 4th Division Oratorical Contest, which contest had a representative from each of the eight districts in the division. Comrade Faust also served as chairman of the 24th District Oratorical Contest, as well as chairman of the Rowan County Contest.

Comrade Faust's ability and personality as a leader is evidenced by the fact that he has increased the average attendance of his church to more than double the number since he assumed his pastoral duties at the Franklin Presbyterian Church. The membership, too, has been doubled, and Comrade Faust's Christian leadership in the Community has been an inspiration and example to other veterans. His weekly radio program of religious news is heard by many people throughout the County and central part of the State.

The endorsement of Comrade Faust by the 24th District is indicative of the esteem in which he is held by the legionnaires of this district.
