

Highlights In The World Of Sports

"BATTING THE BREEZE"—Joe DiMaggio (left) and Bob Cerv, Yankee newcomer, regarded as possible successor to DiMag as New York batting star, discuss hitting in New York City.

DOVE HUNTRESS—Her name should be Diana but it's really Peggy—Miss Manning, that is, of Tarboro, N. C. She's all togged out to join others in the annual dove hunting season.

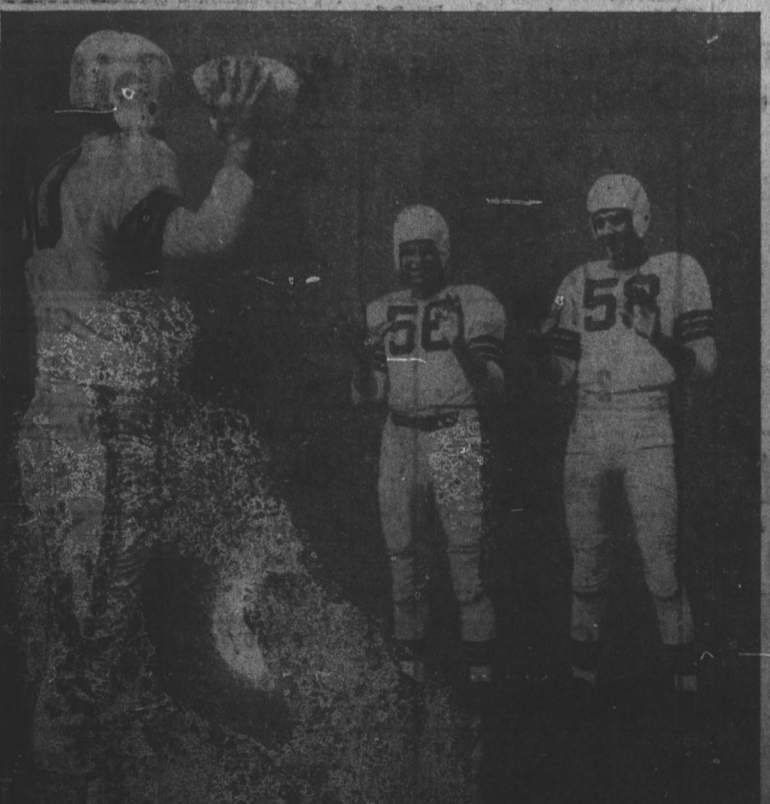

HIS INSPIRATION—Gil Hodges, Brooklyn's young fence buster, poses beside a picture of his home run hitting idol, Babe Ruth, whose mark of 60 homers a season he may some day top.

ALL-AMERICA TENNIS—Herb Flam, U. S. (foreground) and Marie Llamas of Mexico engage in a hot and fast exchange during playing of Davis Cup zone semi-final matches at Rye, N. Y.

SUCH POPULARITY!—A battery of cameras greets Britain's R. Hardy as he completes five-mile walk in record time, besting France's toe-and-heelers in a contest at London's White City.

RENE'S RETURN—The leading tennis player in the world is none other than René Lacoste, one-time famous French tennis star, who played so brilliantly against U. S. Davis Cuppers in the Wimbledon event. Here is shown arriving in New York for a visit, accompanied by his two sons.
