

TRUMAN BLASTS SENATE FOREIGN AID CUT

"Scandalous" Actions Hit By Herbert Hoover

DES MOINES, Ia (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said today that "public tolerance of scandalous behavior" in Washington could destroy the nation.

But, he said there are signs that the nation is returning to course where "moral indignation" can assert itself.

The nation's only living ex-president spoke at the Iowa State Fair, where he accepted an award in recognition of his services to the nation and to the state.

"Our greatest danger is not from invasion by foreign armies, for no army on earth can land on our shores," he said.

"Our dangers are that we may commit suicide from within by complacency with evil, or by public tolerance of scandalous behavior, or by cynical acceptance of dishonor. These evils have defeated nations many times in human history."

Hoover said the redemption of mankind by America will depend upon our ability to cope with these evils right here at home.

The United States, he said, is "turning its face away from the mauling left-isms."

"We sense the frauds on men's minds and morals," he said. "Moral indignation is on the march again."

Urging a return to the virtues expounded in the Ten Commandments, Hoover said America currently "has a cancerous growth of intellectual dishonesty in public."

These Little Things

CHASING MONKEY GETS CAD UPCHURCH NEW NAME

They're calling Cad Upchurch "Tarsan" these days, and for a very good reason, too.

He earned the title the other day swinging from one limb to another in T. Brown Williams' pear tree trying to catch a monkey that got out of the cage at his house and ran away.

Cad acquired the monkey recently for his pretty little daughter, Vicki, who named the animal "Chee Chee."

"Chee Chee" was the pet of the whole neighborhood and Vicki was the proudest girl in town—until Cad spoiled things.

Like a dutiful father, Cad accepted the responsibility of feeding and caring for the monkey. One day last week, as he was cleaning out the cage, "Chee Chee" ran up Cad's arm, hopped up on his shoulders and then leaped into the limbs of a tall tree.

For several hours, Cad tried desperately to catch the monkey. He climbed up one tree and then another, but "Chee Chee" managed to keep one tree and a few limbs ahead of him. All his pleading and begging to the monkey to come down and be a good monkey didn't do a bit of good.

"Please," pleaded Cad almost tearfully to the monkey. "Come on down. Not for my sake, but for Vicki." It was a pretty speech, but "Chee Chee" just curled up his tail and grinned in his best monkey manner.

Finally, both Cad and Vicki went to bed tired, disappointed and brokenhearted—with "Chee Chee" enjoying himself up in the trees.

Scramble For Higher Prices, Wages Forseen

WASHINGTON (AP) Mobilization chiefs told Congress today another "scramble" for higher prices and wages is coming unless it enacts a tougher controls law.

"The American consumer, once again, would be caught in the middle," Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle said. He compared the outlook to the inflation that came just after war broke out in Korea.

DiSalle and Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson testified before the Senate Banking Committee in support of President Truman's requests for repeal of two price-boosting amendments and restoration of authority to impose slaughtering quotas to stop black markets in meat.

REVISION CHANCES SLIM

Chances of revision of the recently renewed controls law appeared slim. Chairman Burnet Maybank D-SC already had predicted a turn-down on the slaughter quota provision.

But DiSalle said this and other "weakening" parts of the law make real controls impossible.

"The result . . . would be no price control at all," he said. But Wilson said success of the mobilization program requires "the strongest and most effective law you can give us."

The greatest inflationary pressure, he said, will be felt in the months ahead as defense production moves into high gear, taking more and more materials out of the civilian economy.

INFLATION DANGERS

"The success of our production program is largely dependent upon effective stabilization," he said. "Failure to maintain a stable economy would deaden the initiative and ingenuity upon which production depends."

Superior Court Clerk H. V. Rose of Smithfield will be the speaker. He will deliver the address Sunday morning at 1 o'clock.

A picnic lunch on the grounds will follow the address by Rose.

The afternoon program will consist of singing, special musical numbers and fellowship. The Melody Masters Quartet of Four Oaks, winner of this year's first place at the Benson Sing, will be on the program.

Former State Senator P. A. Lee of Dunn is vice president, and Miss Della Gray Wilson of Dunn is secretary-treasurer of the reunion association.

RALEIGH (AP)—Prisons Director Walter Anderson said today he has discharged the superintendent of the state prison camp at Siler City.

Anderson said he personally investigated reports that Superintendent J. A. Hunter was seen at the camp under the influence of liquor, and pointed out that state law requires removal of an official under such circumstances.

TENTS GO UP — Workmen completed the task of erecting tents Wednesday for the annual Four-County American Legion Fair, to be staged here all next week at the old fairground near Memorial Cemetery. Attractions will include rides, midway show, agricultural and livestock exhibits and—for the first time—a tent of commercial exhibits. Sponsored by the American Legion post of Dunn, the fair is a revival of the old four-county festival which yearly used to draw thousands of visitors from throughout this section of North Carolina. Many thousands are expected to attend this year from areas outside the Harnett-Johnston-Cumberland-Sampson section. (Daily Record photo by T. M. Stewart.)

Tents Raised Here For Annual 4-County Fair

Three tents which will house the annual Four-County American Legion Agricultural Fair, to be held here all next week, have been erected and exhibits are expected to be in place by the end of this week.

Yesterday C. M. Rumley of the fair, for the past five years, presiding of the four-county festival, had a crew of 12 men at work putting up the 40 by 100 foot tents on the old fairground near Memorial Cemetery.

The veteran promoter said that the first tent, nearest the entrance, will contain commercial exhibits, an innovation which was lacking in previous years. The other two tents will shelter agricultural exhibits and livestock.

NEW FEATURE ADDED

More than 20 business firms have contracted to place commercial displays in and around the main tent, Rumley pointed out. This year, he pointed out, an effort is being made to give stress to business and industrial growth in the Harnett-Johnston-Sampson-Cumberland area.

Rumley has booked Page's Greater Shows for the midway, and a number of free acts will be included for spectators. Fireworks displays will be staged Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, and Saturday will be Kiddies' Day from 1 until 5 p. m.

Another attraction will be a giant spotlight, the beam of which can be seen for 10 miles, Rumley asserted.

There will be more than a dozen rides and an equal number of tent shows, he added.

Earlier this week General Fair Chairman J. O. West stated that about $1,500 in prizes will be offered to exhibitors as premiums at the 1951 showing.

Speaker Cites Risk Of Great Temptation

The Rev. James C. Cammack, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Smithfield, delivered the commencement address to 34 summer-school graduates at Campbell College yesterday afternoon. His topic was "Life's Largest Temptation."

After the invocation by Dr. J. William Angell, pastor of First Baptist Church and chaplain of Campbell College, Cammack, He H. Campbell introduced Cammack.

He stated that the speaker was a native of Texas, where he received his A. B. degree from Baylor University. His bachelor of divinity degree was earned in 1945 from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky. For two years he has been a trustee of Campbell College.

After promising his audience that he was using a serviceable watch and would not speak too long (a promise which he kept), Cammack read the passage from the Bible which describes the temptations of Jesus by Satan. Then he stated that "life's most tremendous demand is the temptation to take a short cut. . . . Why is it," he asked, "that the temptation to slide by is so great?"

The answer he gave is that many people begin life on a false assumption. They never learn the difference between reputation and character. "When God wanted to make an oak, he took 100 years; when he wanted to make a squash, he took only a few weeks. Many people are like squashes instead of sturdy oaks. They have a warped sense of values. They do not know that 'although there may be a short cut to an A on a paper, there is no short cut to a real education.'"

Just as there is no short cut to an education, Cammack pointed out, so there is no short cut to Christian character. "The biggest need in the world today," he asserted, "is the need for Christian men and women. Instead of hoping that the atom bomb will scare our neighbors into keeping the peace, the nation must realize that until the atom bomb is used, it is still a threat to life."

When the Western powers prepared their resolution, Russia reportedly had indicated it would maintain its traditional "abstention" policy.

No one took at face value Tsarapkin's claim that his government was seeking the postponement merely to give it more time to prepare some views it has on the Suez issue. As Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb pointed out, Tsarapkin had sat silent through six weeks of debate and it was "extraneous" that his government should suddenly discover it needs time to think.

THEORIES SET FORTH

Speculation on the meaning of Russia's maneuver centered on these theories:

With the Iranian Abadan refinery shut down and the Iraq pipeline to Haifa closed, potential oil shipments to the West are being cut off.

President Says Senate Economy Is "Misplaced"

WASHINGTON (AP) President Truman branded a heavy Senate cut in the foreign aid program today as a bad example of misplaced economy which might hurt European rearmament against Communist aggression.

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees have cut $964,250,000 from the administration's $8,500,000,000 program.

The president told his news conference that the battle against the reduction seems rather hopeless now, but that he regards it as a very serious situation.

UPSET APPLE CART

He said proponents of the cut are prepared to upset the whole apple cart in the interest of misplaced economy. This is particularly regrettable, he said, because success of the European recovery program is definitely in sight.

Asked what, if anything, he planned to do about it, the president said gravely that he has done everything he possibly can but will keep fighting for the full authorization. He added, however, that the situation looks rather hopeless now.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said he expects an amendment to slash another $1,000,000,000 from the foreign aid request will be introduced before the Senate vote on the big program. He added that he will support any proposed cuts.

Senate leaders hoped to complete action this week. President Truman has asked for $8,500,000,000. Senate Democratic leader W. McFarland (D-Ark.) said sessions will be held tonight and tomorrow night and Saturday if necessary to complete action on the measure.

OPPOSE RESTORATION

The Senate's Republican Policy Committee agreed yesterday to oppose any move to restore the foreign aid bill to the $8,500,000,000 proposed by Truman. Four Democratic members of the Senate committees which considered the measure.

Middle Belt Markets Open

Five Middle Belt tobacco markets opened sales today with full floors expected at all points.

Fuquay-Varina, Carthage, Aberdeen, Sanford and Elbera, comprising the Sandhills Association of the Middle Belt, reported quality ranging from fair to good as sales began.

The opening date is two days later than last year for the Sandhills group. The Middle Belt sold a total of 170,500,000 pounds last year for an average of 45¢ per hundred.

DEMAND DROPS

Demand dropped off for most grades of Border Belt tobacco yesterday and dipped on lower quality grades on the Eastern Belt.

Border declines ranged from $1 to $6 per hundred, but most were only $1. Eastern bids and primings lost up to $3 per hundred and leaf grades dropped about $1. Prices for better grades held about steady.

The proportion of leaf grades increased to nearly 50 per cent of sales at Eastern points, with the bulk of offerings consisting of common to good leaf, low and high primings, fair and good bids and non-descript. Border markets also reported a slight improvement.
