one ideal for school children. The injuries during the past school year coverage goes into force one hour before school takes in. The bus riding students are protected while riding the school bus and also if run down, struck or run over by any moving vehicle while crossing the highway to or from the school bus. The walking student is insured for any injury sustained as the result of being run down, struck or run over while walking between home and school. The coverage remains in force throughout the regular school day and allows one hour, from the time the student is dismissed, for the trip from school to home. It gives complete protection for any type of accident occurring on the school grounds or within the school building.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS

Even though the general coverage of the policy terminates one hour after the student is dismissed, special provisions are made for those those participating in the school athletic program. Any injury sustained while practicing for or playing in a school sponsored athletic contest is fully covered. Also file athletic is protected while traveling as a member of an athletic team if the vehicle in which he is riding is under school supervision.

While none of the school child accident insurance program will cover social events such as school parties, dances and picnics, this particular one does have special provisions to take care of the older students who occasionally make school sponsored bus trips to and from points of educational interest.

These students are protected while actually riding within such a bus. The bus can be chartered bus or a school bus.

PAYS UP TO $5,000

The new policy has a $500 medical expense allowance. Profit explained that when a student is injured under the coverage of the policy all medical expense up to $500 are paid. This takes care of such things as bills from the doctor, dentist, hospital, registered nurse, etc. Also such fees as those charged for X-rays, operating room, anesthetics, laboratory supplies, etc.

na told The Record this morning. BRACEY FOR JACKSON

Only one member of the council, Commissioner B. A. Bracey, is known to be friendly to Chief Jackson and in favor of retaining him in office.

Chief Jackson has served the town for about a quarter of a century and for 18 years as chief. "I'm going to vote for Chief Jackson right up to the end just as long as I'm able to vote," declared Commissioner Bracey today.

It has been reported that councilmen who favor a change in the police department were growing impatient and were at the point of forcing Acting City Manager Charles R. Storey to act when they agreed on a new city manager.

City Manager Manning has declared that he will make no changes immediately in city personnel.

Whether or not Mr. Manning has discussed the police chief's office with the board was not known today.

Throughout the entire squabble, Chief Jackson has made no statement of any kind and has declined to be quoted in connection with the matter.

HEAR LOOTING CASE

The grand jury tomorrow is scheduled to hear the case of William Owens, 16-year-old Florida Negro who is charged with breaking, entering and looting five places of business in Dunn.

He was bound over to Superior Court at a preliminary hearing held here yesterday before City Judge H. Paul Strickland on bonds totalling $2,500.

Sergeant Alton Cobb and Policeman Hargus Davidson arrested Owens during the weekend and he admitted the burglaries.

He is charged in separate warrants with breaking into the Norris Fuel Company office on W. Vance St., Paul Jackson's tin shop, the Sash, Door and Millwork Company, the town garage, and Ben C. Denning's office.

Only a small amount was taken at each place.

At each place, Owens made his entrance by breaking the glass out of a window.

The officers picked up Owens' trail when they found blood on the window at the Norris office. Later, they found the Negro in a local cafe with a bandaged hand. They took him into custody and he admitted the crimes.

Seeking the divorces on grounds of two years' separation were Mrs. Terra Hall, the mother, versus Alexander Hall, and Mrs. Naomi Hall Cottle versus James K. Cottle.

PRAYER FORGOTTEN

He said that, since prayer has been forgotten by a great number of people, the home has ceased to be the stable institution it once was.

The crusade has been going on for three-and-a-half years in the United States, Alaska, Canada, and England, said Father Woods. Crusaders have ventured as far as Little Diomed, an American held island within sight of Russian Siberia, and have dropped a scroll bearing a message of hope at the North Pole.

Father Peyton, originator of the crusade, also presents a radio broadcast entitled the Family Theatre and a series of Family Theatre Films.

The radio program, running 30 minutes, features three leading stage screen or radio stars each week and is carried by more than 700 Mutual Broadcasting System stations and the Armed Forces Radio Service. The program is non-sectarian.

The council had predicted 390 holiday traffic deaths.

The previous Labor Day record was 383 traffic deaths, set in 1949. Last year's highway toll was 360. "This is a high price to pay for a little holiday fun," Dearborn said, "even in these times."

"The irony of this thing is that the vast majority of the 40,000,000 motorists on the road drove carefully, and the high toll was due in a large part to the behavior of a relatively few people who drove like crazy fools."

Several of the highway crashes cost the lives of whole families. A total of 26 persons were killed in four crashes alone.

SEVEN ARE KILLED

Seven members of an Aitken, Minn., family died when their auto skidded off a highway and crashed into a water-filled ditch. A teenage boy was the sole survivor.

Eight members of the John L. Price family were killed in a crash at Forth Worth, Tex., leaving only two sisters alive.

The worst single tragedy was the capsizing of the pleasure fishing boat Pelican which cost 37 lives. The vessel turned over during a gale Saturday off Montauk, N. Y.

The greatest number of accidental deaths in any holiday was set during the long July 4th weekend of 1950 when 885 persons died, 501 of them in traffic accidents.

Turlington Heads Freedom Crusade

Woodrow Turlington of Dunn, assistant manager of Bell's Department Store, has been named as Harnett County chairman of the 1951 Crusade for Freedom campaign and said today that he will announce a city-wide organization within the next few days.

The prominent local business and civic leader was appointed to the post by John Harden of Greensboro, vice president and public relations director for Burlington Mills, and State chairman of the drive.

Mr. Turlington said this morning that he had just received materials and the necessary information to study the plan in detail.

Mr. Turlington is expected to appoint local chairmen in each community.

Tobacco companies need approximately 25 or 30 laborers at the Dunn Tobacco Market to assist with the handling of tobacco, Sales Supervisor Joe McCullers announced this morning.

He said companies had a difficult time moving tobacco after the big sale Friday on account of the shortage of help.

The companies pay a minimum of 75 cents an hour and those employed will be assured of employment until about the middle of October and possibly until the first of November.

Those desiring work are requested to report to the office of the Chamber of Commerce immediately.

Code Being Planned To Conserve Steel

Collector Reports August Tax Take

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government was reported today to be preparing a national uniform building code which would follow up its steel-saving order.

The code would be designed to conserve the nation's critical supplies of building materials. In one step yesterday the government drastically cut back requests of industrial firms for structural steel for new construction in the final quarter of the year.

Defense Production Administrator Manly Fleischmann said the "crucial shortage of steel is so great" that all other demands except the military "had to be scaled down."

STANDARDIZATION SOUGHT

The proposed building code, which would apply principally to home construction, would be aimed at standardizing widely varying building codes set up by local communities.

The local codes, which very often prescribe extremely rigid building specifications, have resulted in "wasteful" use of building materials in a time of national emergency, one official said.

He said that many of the building specifications laid down in local codes could not be justified in terms of necessary safety in home construction.

A uniform building code has long been recommended by various architectural and construction groups. The official said the federal government could impose such a code now as an emergency measure to control the amount of such critically short materials as copper and steel which are going into home construction.
