CHICAGO — A new policy was in force today for the alcoholic derelicts of Chicago's Skid Row. From now on, habitual drunkenness offenders will be fined $200 or 100 days on a work farm.

Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor said "this not only will clean up Skid Row—it will benefit the drunks as well."

SEATTLE — Three-year-old Esther Sorenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Sorenson, was helping out with the household duties as usual yesterday. She emptied the ash trays into the toilet bowl.

Later in the day her mother noticed the young helper had mistaken some "green colored stuff" on the dresser for refuse, and flushed out a $70 roll of bills.

BELLINGHAM, Wash. — Policeman Earl Dunkle got his man yesterday, but he won't recommend the method used.

While cruising about the city, he received a radio report of a drunken driver. He started to acknowledge the call when—Whambo!

A large truck, of the same description just reported to him, it smashed his car head-on. The driver was charged with drunken driving.

DENVER — Detective Wilbert Metaler testified that when he took his three-year-old son to the shop for a haircut, the barber, Virgil Heeron, sold him a football parlay card and explained how to bet it.

The barber was fined $25 yesterday and given a 30-day sentence. For gambling.

DENVER — Donald H. Stone was caught speeding by police, who testified he was traveling 80 miles an hour and ran a red light. Stone was fined $84 and sentenced to 60 days in jail by the municipal court.

Not satisfied with the verdict, Stone appealed to the county court.

An all-woman jury yesterday fined him $300 and sent him to jail for 30 days.

What did you do when these stories broke?

Record Snow Buries City. You asked: How deep is it? Traffic stopped? How will I get to work? Other places snowed in too? How bad are the phones hit? Anybody get frozen?

Basketball Players Admit Bribes. You asked: What players? What teams? What games did they throw? Who bribed them? For how much money? What action will the colleges take?

MAYBE YOU HEARD a flash report on TV or radio. But the minute you got a chance, you grabbed for your newspaper.

You knew it was the only place to get the whole story—fast. There in the paper was everything . . . facts you couldn't get in a hurried broadcast . . . facts you couldn't wait for till they appeared in magazines.

It happens day after day. Each day there are many stories that are only half-told for you—or not told at all—until you read your newspaper.

You feel like a hermit if you miss a single issue. For it always turns out that something has happened that apparently everybody knows about but you.

And everybody else feels the same way. Everybody reads the newspaper every day . . . though the big news for one may be an interview with Tito, and for another Hopalong Cassidy shirts for small boys.

That's why, when you have something to sell, the newspaper is the place to reach all the people all the time.

In advertising, why deal in fractions?

Magazines reach only fractions of your market. Each one appeals to some people—not to others. No magazine is read by everyone in town who can possibly buy.

Radio and TV programs reach only fractions, too. Each one appeals to a limited audience—sport fans, homemakers, kids, etc. And how many of these can listen at the time you broadcast?

The newspaper talks to everybody in town. It's created fresh every day for everybody. All your customers read the paper—at the time they choose, for as long as they choose.

Only the newspaper is first with the most news . . . first with the most people, first with the most advertising.

The daily newspaper is always "first with the most"

Leopard Escapes. You asked: What zoo? How did he get out? Anybody hurt? How will they try to catch him? What are folks in the neighborhood doing?
