"Holy War" Demanded By Moslems

By UNITED PRESS
British troops moved to seize the city of Suez itself today as demands from Moslems for Egypt to proclaim a "holy war" against Britain swelled throughout the country. Tank supported British troops seized four railway stations outside Suez and moved on to the city gateway to the Suez Canal. Late reports said British infantry tanks and armored cars had reached the outskirts of Suez. The British said constant jet fighter patrols had been ordered to keep a 24-hour watch on Egyptian troop movements. An Egyptian armored column was turned back from the zone last Thursday.

SUEZ CUT OFF
The British already have cut off the Suez Canal zone from the rest of Egypt and reduced traffic in and out of the zone to a mere trickle. Troops man trenches around the perimeter. Suez is at the southern tip of the zone. Egyptian university professors joined Moslem religious leaders in urging the Egyptian government to urge the Egyptian government to proclaim the "holy war".

the Vatican in its fight against communism. The Vatican is known to have sources of information inside and outside the Iron Curtain not available to the U. S. The only question in Mr. Truman's mind now, White House informants said, is whether the lanky four-star general can be named to the Vatican post at once under a recess appointment or whether the appointment must be delayed until Congress returns in January. The decision on this possibly rested with Clark. Under the 1950 law, Army officers cannot hold civil posts while on active duty. Congress quit Saturday without acting on a last-minute Pentagon request for legislation to exempt Clark from the restriction. Congress frequently has waived the law. The lawmakers allowed Gen. Omar N. Bradley to serve as veterans administrator after World War II and permitted Gen. Walter B. Smith and Vice Adm. Alan G. Kirk to serve as ambassadors to Russia.

Man Held Up On Dirt Road

James McLamb, an elderly farmer, was the victim of a highway robbery as he drove along a dirt road between Erwin and Bunnlevel Saturday.

As McLamb proceeded along the road, a car drove past him and cut in ahead blocking him off. The driver of the car came back and started an argument, accusing McLamb of taking too much of the road. McLamb told the man that it was he who was blocking the road.

The stranger fell upon the old man and beat him badly. However, during the encounter, McLamb bit off the stranger's finger. The man took McLamb's wallet, which contained only one dollar, extracted the bill and tossed the wallet back, remarking, "I just wanted your money anyway."

He threatened to go back to his car and get a blackjack and finish killing the victim, but McLamb talked him out of this intention and he re-entered his car and drove away.

McLamb drove to Good Hope Hospital in Erwin, where his wounds were dressed and then told his story to Chief of Police Claude Avery. The officer communicated with Sheriff Salmon in Lillington.

A man answering the description of the assailant, and with a finger mangled was learned to have come in to a Lillington drug store to have the finger treated. He was known in the drug store and his name was given to the officers who were investigating the occurrence.

RESULTS NOT REVEALED
The AEC said it will not announce whether today's test was a success. This led to speculation that it might have been a fiasco.

Some 5,000 troops have been stationed at Camp Duster Rock on the edge of the Frenchman Fla. test site.

The AEC said the soldiers will not touch off an explosion. They will establish military positions within the test site, placing military equipment where the effect of the blast on the equipment can be checked. The soldiers themselves will retire to positions of safety returning later to determine how soon and in what manner ground forces can move into an area after an atomic explosion.

Atom Exploded

feet was not considered by the AEC to be dangerous as a carrier of atomic dust, even though it was blowing south-southwest in the direction of the Los Angeles area.

The few blasts during January and February of this year all were visible for hundreds of miles, lighting up the skies northwest of Los Angeles, nearly 200 miles away like a giant flashlight.

The short statement released by the AEC said: "One of the nuclear detonations announced by the AEC on Aug. 29 was held this morning at the Nevada test site."

Reporters asked an AEC spokesman why the bomb blast was not visible.

"Williams' car was knocked along the highway for some distance and ended straddling the ditch at the side of the road. The right side was badly damaged.
