General Ike Returns To Paris Today

WASHINGTON. — (UP)— Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today that when he feels "my duty compels me" he will express his political views (positively and definitely).

He told reporters that as long as he is commander of the joint defense forces in Western Europe he will not express any partisan views.

The five-star general said that he did not have "the slightest idea" now of how long he would hold the European military post.

"I am trying to do a job," he said simply.

Eisenhower made the statements at a news conference just before his plane left National Airport to return to Paris after conferences with President Truman and other government officials.

"NOT YET DECIDED" He said that he has not yet "decided the time or set of circumstances" which would lead him to leave his present military job. He said he took it with the understanding that he would not keep it "too long."

Eisenhower said he had come over only to discuss military affairs, including equipment for the Western European defense forces.

But Eisenhower disclosed that he had talked by telephone with Sen. James H. Huff, R., Pa., one of the leaders among the Republicans who want to run Eisenhower for President.

Eisenhower said he considered some subjects of their conversation "privileged." But he emphasized again that he had given no one authority to speak for him politically.

"No one can act for anyone else in this world," Eisenhower said. "No one after all would need to speak for me when I should speak for myself."

DETAILS SCARCE The details of Eisenhower's talks with Mr. Truman and for Defense and State Department officials yesterday was as scarce as information on his political plans—if any. The White House said merely that the round-conferences dealt with "allocation, production, NATO (Continued On Page Three)

STATE NEWS Briefs

GREENSBORO (UP)—A local gas price war ended abruptly today and most stations went back to their old prices, plus a half-cent tax hike. A few scattered service stations were still featuring low prices of 26 and 28 cents for regular and high test, but indicated they too would increase to 30.4 and 32.4 soon.

ASHEVILLE (UP)—Nearly 1,000 persons, including 300 delegates and members of their families, were registered here today for the 58th annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy which will begin business sessions tomorrow.

KINSTON (UP)—Dr. Perry Greenham, Detroit pastor of the Episcopal Church, spoke today at the 107th annual state convention of the North Carolina Brotherhood moved into its second day here. Dr. George Cuthrell of Dunn is presiding.

City Board, Chamber Endorse Info Clinic

The Dunn Information Clinic last night got a boost from Dunn's City Council and another today from the Chamber of Commerce as Moderator Jim McMillan went ahead with plans for the season's events.

Mayor Ralph E. Hanna said today that members of the city council were enthusiastically behind the project "because we recognize the need for our citizens to be better informed on events of the day."

A similar expression came from President Eugene W. Smith and members of the board of directors of the Dunn Chamber of Commerce.

FULL COOPERATION Mr. Smith said that members of the board of directors, as well as other members, had pledged their

Fluoridation OK'd By Board

Judge Taylor Late First Time In 21 Years; Blames Cheap Watch

Judge Floyd H. Taylor of Harnett Recorder's Court was late for court the first time in 21 years yesterday. He blamed it on "a cheap watch."

He explained to the court that he missed the bus which he customarily uses to travel the three miles from his home in Bule's Creek to Lillington.

"I've given up driving myself," Judge Taylor said. "I hear too much about people killing themselves on the highways."

Meantime, Vice Recorder M. O. Lee mounted the bench and D. C. Wilson was pinch-hitting for Solicitor Neill Mck. Ross, who was absent because of the illness of his father.

Later, when Judge Taylor came in Lee took over prosecution of the docket for Ross, who arrived before court was finished.

WIMBERLY BOUND OVER Howard Wimberly, Angier man booked for stealing a fine $3,500 mare from E. E. Johnson, Lillington Cattleman, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to Superior Court. Bond, which was $800 was renewed.

Dunn Building Firm Awarded Contracts

The East Carolina Construction Company of Dunn has been awarded school contracts totaling $84,000 in Pitt County, it was disclosed today by Ben Hartsfield, head of the rapidly-growing Dunn construction firm.

The contract includes an addition to the white school at Chiood, a project at the Winterville Negro school and another at Grifton.

OTHER PROJECTS UNDERWAY Mr. Hartsfield said today that work is progressing satisfactorily on the new primary school his company is building at Benson,

A majority of cases heard grew out of traffic violations and automobile accidents. Wesley Bule of Broadway, Route 1 and Person Bule of Olivia, Negro brothers traveling in different cars, collided on Highway 41. Wesley pleaded guilty to driving a car with no license and driving under the influence of whiskey. He was fined $100 and costs and surrendered his driving license.

Person Bule, who had claimed he was innocent of careless and reckless driving, was found guilty and given 90 days on the roads, suspended for two years on payment of $100 to R. J. Thomas and $25 fine and costs.

Charles Jerdon, first indicted on two counts of driving drunk and careless and reckless driving, pleaded guilty to the latter and his plea was accepted. He was taxed with costs.

HITS ANGIER DRIVING John Robert McLeod, 18, of Fuquay, Route 2, charged with careless and reckless driving in Angier, pleaded guilty.

"It looks like you people around Angier are going along with us," Rev. C. D. Smith appeared and asked for a deed to property he had purchased for taxes on East Broad and East Cumberland streets. He explained that the county had given him a deed for its interest but the town had not.

City Clerk Charles Storey was instructed to issue the deed if it was found that Smith's taxes were in order.

Markets

DUNN TOBACCO MARKET Tobacco was selling high again today at Buck Currin's Big-4 Warehouse. There were plenty of $71 and $77 piles sold during the morning.

Offerings were light today, however. Sales today totaled 30,974 pounds for $15,578, an average of 54¢.

Yesterday, the Big-4 sold 43,148 pounds for $23,500.77, an average of 55.97¢.

The Big-4 will remain open through Thursday.

The Town Board went on record last night as approving the fluoridation of the communal water supply and asked the State Board of Health to make a survey to see whether the equipment was suitable.

Speaking for the project, Dr. G. L. Hooper told the board that he felt that they were well informed on the subject and that it would not be necessary to go into details and take a lot of time.

"It has the approval of the dental profession and all of the civic organizations," he pointed out, "and newspaper articles have familiarized the public with the details."

What was proposed, he said was the addition of fluorine in some form, one part to a million parts of water. The result will be less tooth decay in 2, 3, 4 or 5 year olds, and will be particularly valuable where the child drinks this water from infancy.

It will be inexpensive, he explained and will cost $1.50 to $1.65 per day plus the cost of the equipment for putting it into the water, which will be approximately $3,000.

However, it will save thousands of dollars yearly in improved child dental health.

It was decided to add five cents to each customer's bill monthly in order to defray the expense if the program goes through. "Sixty cents per year is cheap dental insurance," Mayor Ralph Hanna said, "and I am sure that when it is explained the customers will go along with us."

Mrs. R. E. Scroggs has been employed to operate the hotel and it is understood Cameron plans extensive repairs. Mrs. Scroggs, former Mrs. W. M. Wadsworth, has had long experience in hotel management in Lillington and Weldon and operated the Hotel Lillington under lease during the summer months.

Mrs. Andriessen will retain possession of her apartment at the hotel until December 1. Her husband, a state highway engineer, is now a patient at Veterans Hospital in Fayetteville where he underwent an operation on Friday. Mrs. Andriessen gave his health as the reason for the putting the hotel, long a landmark in Lillington, on the auction block.

McCullers Says Record Roto Issue Will Be A Great Aide

Manager Joe McCullers of the Dunn Chamber of Commerce this morning commended The Daily Record for undertaking the publication of a rotogravure edition which will depict the development and accomplishments of Harnett and the surrounding areas.

"No better time than the present could be selected to publish such an edition, since our industry, with the exception of the Erwin Mills, is practically in its infancy and our civic and cultural development faces a broad field of progress," wrote Mr. McCullers.

This will be the first rotogravure edition to be published by a Dunn newspaper since that issued by Sonny Tighman's Daily Bulletin here more than a decade ago. No other Dunn newspaper has ever attempted such an outstanding project.

OF GREAT IMPORTANCE Mr. McCullers said the edition would be of great importance to the chamber since it could be used as a brochure to attract prospective industries to the area.

Following is the complete text of the letter from Mr. McCullers:

UN MEET OPENS IN PARIS

Reds Boggle Over U. N.'s Proposed Line

(UP) — The Communists demanded immediate settlement of a cease-fire line today in a move which the United Nations charged would enable the Reds to delay a Korean truce indefinitely.

A U. N. communique said the Reds refused to accept Mondays U. N. proposal that the armistice delegations postpone a final decision on the cease-fire line and pass on instead to the remaining three items on their agenda.

However, U. N. representative Maj. Gen. Henry H. Hodges said the Communist rejection in an armistice subcommittee meeting Tuesday was "not unequivocal."

"They have given us nothing like a final answer to our proposal," he said. "They want more time to study additional details which we gave them this morning, Tuesday morning."

By mutual consent, the usual afternoon session of the subcommittee was cancelled. The group will meet again at 11 a. m. Wednesday, 9 p. m. Tuesday, EST.

The U. N. proposal at which the Reds are balking calls for a cease-fire line based on the fighting front at the time of an armistice agreement is ready for signing rather than on the present battlefield.

The U. N. contended that postponement of the truce line issue until the final stages of the armistice talks would provide an incentive to complete the negotiations.

Hotel Is Sold At Lillington

Carl Cameron, Sanford lumberman, late last week at a private sale bought Hotel Lillington and two adjoining lots at an undisclosed price.

Mr. Cameron is the son of H. C. Cameron of Olivia.

Mrs. Karl Andriessen, former owner, refused the bid of $11,700 offered by M. O. Lee at the public auction conducted on October 26 by the Capital City Auction Company. Cameron's offer apparently topped Lee's bid.

J. J. Morris, president of the auction company in first announcement of sale said that Mrs. Andriessen reserved the right to accept or reject the sale. Possession was guaranteed to the new owners on November 1, and Cameron took possession on that date.

Mrs. R. E. Scroggs has been employed to operate the hotel and it is understood Cameron plans extensive repairs. Mrs. Scroggs, former Mrs. W. M. Wadsworth, has had long experience in hotel management in Lillington and Weldon and operated the Hotel Lillington under lease during the summer months.

WEATHER MAKES AN IMPRESSION

A BRIEF COMMENT on the weather in Albany, N. Y., is recorded by Miss Marion Phinney on the windshield of her snow-covered auto. According to the weather bureau, the four-inch snowfall was the heaviest for the date in history of the capital city. (International Soundphoto)

Heavy Snow Closes School In Midwest

A blanket of now up to 15 inches deep forced schools to close, marooned travelers and halted business throughout much of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma today.

The storm broke all records for an early-season snowfall in the area as it swept up from the Southwest.

By UNITED PRESS

Freezing In Hell HELL, Mich. — (UP) — Hell froze over today.

The thermometer registered 20 yesterday at this village near Ann Arbor with the same expected today.

The snowfall was one phase of the giant cold wave which has gripped the eastern two-thirds of the nation since late last week.

The frigid weather continued its unrelenting hold on the country east of the Rocky Mountains and weathermen said there was little hope for an early letup.

Forecasters said it would be "several days" before any relief from the cold, rain and snow over the country could be expected.

Slightly warmer weather moved into the Gulf states and Florida, but north of Atlanta, frigid conditions prevailed. Snow was predicted for New York tonight.

AT LEAST 201 DEAD At least 201 deaths were caused by the weather. Snow-choked and ice-covered highways caused traffic accidents in which 155 persons died; 19 deaths were reported in fires started by overheated stoves and the other deaths were caused by exposure, freezing and miscellaneous mishaps.

The deepest snow was recorded at Nevada, Mo., about 90 miles south of Kansas City where an official measurement placed the depth at 15 1-2 inches. Joplin, Mo., had 10 inches and it was still snowing there early today.

Five adults and a child were snowed in at the Greenwood School, five miles southwest of Joplin.

Auriol Calls For Meeting Of Big Four

PARIS. — (UP) — French President Vincent Auriol formally opened the sixth United Nations General Assembly today with a call for a Big Four Meeting of President Truman, Premier Josef Stalin, Britain's Winston Churchill and French Premier Rene Pleven.

Auriol's unexpected pronouncement came in the opening minutes of probably the world organization's most critical session. Delegates have already been stimulated by promises of a global U. S. peace plan based on reduction of atomic and other weapons.

DELEGATES TENSE Speaking slowly even softly to the tense delegates, among them most of the world's foreign ministers, Auriol said:

"If the distinguished men towards whom all anxious eyes are now turned were to come here to attend this session . . . and to try jointly to reduce the disagreements which paralyze the world—if this should happen we would welcome them with a joy which I am convinced, would become world wide."

Although Auriol did not mention the Big Four leaders by name, he emphasized that he wanted them to attend the U. N. not to participate in the sessions but "to establish human contact with each other, to exchange ideas personally, to consider their differences without any agenda or public debate."

Mr. Truman conferred with Stalin for the first and last time at Potsdam in 1945. He has said since he would be glad to see the Russian chief in Washington. Stalin has said his health does not permit him to leave Russia.

Meantime, Western delegates talked unabashedly in the corridors about out-progandizing the Russians this time.

A preview of a momentous U. S. plan for world peace came last night in a proposal, co-sponsored by Britain and France, for an international U. N. commission to investigate the chances of holding free elections throughout Germany.

Mr. Truman may reveal other aspects of a promised global peace plan on the radio Wednesday night at 10:30 p. m. EST.

Five Injured In Accident

Five persons were injured and a trailer load of tobacco virtually ruined in an accident at the Pee Ridge Ball Park on Angier Route 1 last night at 7 o'clock.

Rexwell Adams of Angier Route 1 had a load of tobacco on a Chevrolet pickup and trailer partly parked in the highway. The warehouse, into which he was unloading the leaf was so close to the highway that it was impossible for him to get clear off the road.

Adams was on the trailer unloading when the vehicle was hit by a 1941 Ford coach, driven by Tommy Coats of Angier Route 1. With Coats were his wife and the sisters, Laura, Tensie and Belle Tucker.

All except Coats received severe laceration due to the accident and Coats are cut superficially. The impact turned the pickup and trailer over on their sides and (Continued On Page Three)
