Today's Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
(United Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK — It's that time of the year, fellows, and before the man in the white coat shows up I'd like to get 2,153 pounds of beef off my chest — Fearless Fraley's 1941 All-American football team.

In kicking off, I'd like to say that old Fearless is completely qualified. I've seen pictures of every one of them some moving, and these lads were highly photogenic from a block and tackle standpoint.

The rest is hearsay, persuasive talk by publicity men, ear-bending by the office boy, vindictive speeches by beaten coaches, tabulated statistics, guesswork and personal cussedness.

So here they are:

ENDS: Bill McCall, 21, 225 pounds, 6 feet 4 inches, Stanford; Bob Carey, 21, 215 pounds, 6 feet 5 inches, Michigan State.

TACKLES: Don Coleman, 21, 185 pounds, 5 feet 10 inches, Michigan State; Lamar Wheat, 22, 200 pounds, 6 feet, Georgia Tech.

GUARDS: Bob Ward, 23, 185 pounds, 5 feet 10 inches, Maryland; Pat Cannamela, 22, 210 pounds, 5 feet 10 inches, USC.

CENTERS: Dick Hightower, 21, 215 pounds, 6 feet 1 inch, SMU.

BACKS: Vito Farilli, 22, 188 pounds, 6 feet 1 inch, Kentucky; Dick Kazmaier, 20, 175 pounds, 5 feet 11 inches, Princeton; Hank Lauricella, 21, 170 pounds, 5 feet 10 inches, Tennessee; John Karras, 22, 165 pounds, 5 feet 11 inches, Illinois.

Second team: Ends: Barker, Washington State, and McPhee, Princeton; Tackles: Fearman, Tennessee, and Toney, Notre Dame; guards: Daffer, Tennessee and Richter, California; center: Boerio, Illinois; backs: Isbell, Baylor; Kerkorian, Stanford; Agganis, Boston U., and Matson, San Francisco.

The line may be regarded as a bit on the light side, averaging "only" 205 pounds. But it's fast, mobile and every one of them loves the going rough.

You can't kick with ends that go six four and six five, the "light" tackles and guards have cut in way a bigger man down to size this season and Hightower is one of the best centers to come along in years, particularly adept backing up the line.

Maybe you're not some guys you think ought to be in the first team line, but old Fearless is sold on his quartet. Farilli holds three national passing records and his aerials have gained more yardage for Kentucky than the surveyors who laid out the state boundary lines.

Kazmaier is going to wind up as the top total-yardage man in the nation this year and Lauricella, who also does everything but take tickets at the gate, has averaged 9.8 yards per carry. Karras has made the Illinois forget Red Grange and Buddy Young.

Forget Records, Ignore Rumors; UNC-ND Will Be Exciting Battle

Coach Snavelly Changes Lineup For Saturday

CHAPEL HILL — (AP) — Notre Dame, smarting from its worst defeat under Frank Leahy, makes its first invasion of Southern Conference territory tomorrow to meet North Carolina, a six-times loser. The tenure here of Carl Snavelly, formerly one of Dixie's winningest coaches, may depend on the outcome.

Snavelly, who has brushed off unofficial reports that he is "finished" despite the outcome of the Irish encounter, announced that junior Frank Wissman, six-foot, two-inch, hard-running, smooth-passing back, will be his choice to start at tailback in the singlewing formation.

Snavelly has said all season that all his team needs is a capable, uninjured tailback. Wissman, a Philadelphia native who has been a sub all season, completed 60 yards in 10 tries to set-up North Carolina's two touchdowns against Virginia.

POTENT ARRAY

Running with Wissman in the North Carolina backfield will be the veterans Bob Gantt, Dick Weiss and Skeet Hesmer. Snavelly shifted former backfield mainstay Bud Wallace to end and likes the results.

The Irish will be greeted by one of the largest crowds in Echan Stadium history, most of the 45,000 avid for a Tar Heel victory. The stadium holds 44,500 officially, and this game has been a sellout since June.

Notre Dame, a 14-point favorite, will feature the running of sophomore fullback Neil Worden, veteran John Pettibone and Billy Barrett.

"I think we can score on them," Snavelly said. "In fact I wouldn't be surprised to see a lot of scoring."

Tied-For-Top Maryland, VMI Battle Conference Opponents

W. Forest-Baylor, Duke- W & M Top Southern Bill

By ED JOYNER
(United Press Sports Writer)

RICHMOND, Va. — (AP) — Top spot in the Southern Conference football scramble and a top coach's job may be at stake in games around the Dixie league tomorrow.

The current leaders, Maryland and VMI, both with unblemished conference records, put them on the line against North Carolina State and The Citadel. Both the bowl-hungry Terrapins and the thrice-beaten keydets are favored by good margins.

North Carolina State Coach Beattie Feathers, usually good for one major upset a year with his Tennessee-style single-wing attack, thinks his Wolfpack is capable of beating Maryland — but it would be one of the year's biggest upsets.

North Carolina's Carl Snavelly may be finished as Tar Heel coach if Notre Dame swamps the UNC eleven as expected at Chapel Hill.

A quirk of the record books surrounds the William and Mary-Duke game at Williamsburg. William and Mary defeated winless Virginia Tech last week, but it's a fact that every team that has beaten the Gobblers this year has lost its next game.

SCRAMBLE IN THE CELLAR

Virginia Tech has probably its best chance to pull out of a losing streak when the Gobblers entertain luckless Richmond at Blacksburg.

Wake Forest pulls a tough assignment. The North Carolina Big Four champions go outside the conference to play highly-ranked Baylor in Waco, Tex.

George Washington plays favored Kentucky at Lexington and Washington and Lee, last year's conference winner, plays Louisville in the Blue Grass state.

West Virginia plays its traditional game with Pittsburgh and South Carolina goes against once-beaten Virginia at Charlottesville. Clemson play Furman at Greenville, S. C., and is almost a cinch to win.

Campbell Cagers Lick Sanford Spins 57-55; Langdon, Frazier Lead Again

The Campbell College Camels had to come from behind last night to hand the Sanford Spinners their second licking this week. The Spins had a halftime lead of 33-27, but the Camels came roaring back to win their second game of the week: score, 57-55.

Smith Langdon and Sam Frazier were the leaders for Coach Earl Smith for the second time as Langdon kept up his outstanding defensive work and scored 14 points too, and Frazier topped the scoring again, this time with 15 points.

STEADY PERFORMER
Center Bill Clark led the Spinners for the second time against the Camels. Clark dropped in 20 points in the first meeting, and he sank 17 points in last night's contest.

There were 32 fouls in the battle as three Sanford players fouled out of the game, but both teams made nine free throws that left no edge there.

In the preliminary game, the Campbell J.V.s worked on the much shorter Benhaven High team by a 65 to 28 score.

Gil McDougald, Willie Mays Win "Most Valuable" Award

Both Players Saw World Series Duty

BY FRED DOWNS
(UP Sports Writer)

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Mays of the New York Giants and Gil McDougald of the New York Yankees, neither of whom were listed on their team's official rosters last spring, today were named National and American League "Rookies of the Year."

Mays, a 20-year-old centerfielder from Fairfield, Ala., easily won the National League award. He received 18 of the 24 votes cast in the annual poll conducted by the Most Valuable Player Committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

McDougald was much closer in the American League. McDougald, the Yankees' 23-year-old infielder, polled 13 votes to edge out Orestes "Minnie" Minoso of the Chicago White Sox. Minoso received 11 votes.

Pitcher Chet Nichols of the Boston Braves, who was named on four ballots, and pitcher Clem Labine of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who received two votes, were the other players who figured in the National League voting.

SLOW BEGINNING

Mays got only one hit in his first 26 times at bat when he came up to the Giants in May from their Minneapolis farm club in the American Association. He also had his troubles in the World Series against Yankee pitching, getting four hits in 22 times at bat, but he was one of the main factors in the Giants' late season drive to the pennant. He finished the season with a .275 batting average and with 68 runs batted in.

jumping from farm hand to regular during the spring training grind. He played both second and third base during the Yankees' drive to their third-straight pennant and was the only Yankee regular to hit over .300 for the campaign. He finished with a .306 average. McDougald didn't let down in the World Series either. He became the first rookie ever to hit a bases-loaded series homer and that drive, which came in the fifth game, was one of the most important hits in the Yankee triumph over the Giants. Both Mays and McDougald were named "Rookies of the Year" in the United Press poll of baseball writers last month.
