UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAYER
United Press Editor
NEW YORK — People talk these days about television moving from New York to Hollywood. And some entertainers already have made the shift with the opening of coast-to-coast facilities.

Bill Goodwin isn't one of them. Bill has come thisway instead of staying thabaway. The big, good-natured actor is a west coast product and he has been in the Hollywood colony for a long time. First as a fledgling in a growing radio industry, then as a personality in his own right in both radio and movies. "However, my television program brought me to New York," Goodwin said, "and we're moving here, lock, stock and four kids. Also a dog."

largest corporations. Bill is seen for a half hour at 3:30 p.m., EST on Tuesdays and Thursday. "Of course there'll be more television done in Hollywood now," the actor said, "but that doesn't mean New York is going to shrivel up. We've got the production know-how and talent here that we need for a 'live' show and I think New York will always be very important. I wouldn't particularly like to put my type of show on film. I think it's better as a 'live' show."

show. Actually, I suppose you'd call it a sort of variety show. My character is an unchanging thing and that's mighty important to a performer in radio and television. "We try to have a little comical situation on each program that builds into a running gag which we break up now and then for some vocalizing by Eileen Barton and Roger Dann and the piano playing of Joe Bushkin. I also sing occasionally, if you'll pardon a loose word."

A REMARKABLE RECORD
CLEVELAND, O., November 28 — Several of the first sewers installed in ancient Babylonia, Rome and Greece were still being used as late as 1946, the Sanitary Engineering Committee reports. The committee says that these sewers and drainage systems are the same as the materials used for a majority of modern installations. Clay pipe, the committee reports, can point to a commendable record of service.

TROUBLE FREE SERVICE
CLEVELAND, O., November 28 — Vitrified clay pipe is the only house sewer pipe that can't rust or decompose. The Sanitary Engineering Committee reports. Clay pipe can't be roughened by rust or other solids, can't be softened by heat or moisture, can't be cut by cleaning tools and can't decompose.
