Lying Charged At Probe; Prosecution Is Demanded

Fake Santa Runs Afoul Of The Law

A faker who posed as Santa Claus here yesterday ran afoul of the law, was stripped of his beard and Santa suit, and reverted to the status of an ordinary civilian.

The fake Santa turned out to be a man who had been an inmate at Lenoir's county home, and a man very much under the influence of whiskey.

Police Chief George Arthur Jackson said police received a call that somebody dressed up like Santa Claus was "panhandling" among local citizens. Realizing that Old Santa is a man who gives instead of receives, the chief dispatched one of his patrolmen out to investigate.

Deal explained that he had been doing the same thing in Lillington, Angier and other towns and thought it was alright.

Chief Jackson quickly pointed out that the real Santa Claus is scheduled to appear in Dunn from now until Christmas and the town wanted no substitutes.

The veteran police chief said some children became excited when they saw the police leading Santa Claus by the arm to the town square. (Continued on page two)

WASHINGTON - Somebody has lied before the House Committee investigating scandals in the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and should be prosecuted, the head investigator declared today.

Conflicting testimony about a purported $500,000 tax shakedown attempt will be presented before the House committee, said Rep. C. R. Young, D. Cal., as the committee prepared to ask T. Lamar Canale, former assistant attorney general, to describe his friendship with one of the men involved.

STORIES CONFLICT Different stories were given by Alvin Teitelbaum, Chicago attorney, and Mrs. Sheryl Menkin on the one side and Frank Nathan on the other. Nathan was described as a friend of Canale.

"It is quite obvious that in the past 24 hours one or more persons have perjured themselves before the committee," Young said. (Continued on Page Seven)

Lili Wants To Strip Before Judge' Jury

HOLLYWOOD - Lili St. Cyr mourned today she'll "probably never get a chance" to prove her bubble bath is real art by taking off her clothes in front of a judge and jury.

She wants to undress in front of 10 women and two men who are hearing her trial on charges of lewd and indecent exposure in the swank Ciro's nightclub on Oct. 19. Lili, with the legal help of criminal attorney Jerry Giesler, says she's going to try to prove her undressing is "real art."

DOES NAUGHTY ACT Prosecuting attorney Bernard Cross contends it's just plain naughty, too naughty for the movie stars and society celebrities who were there on the notorious night four cops raided the Tancy joint. Giesler said he will have Lili testify today to describe the near-naughty performance. He played it coy, however, on whether he'll have her undress in "real art." (Continued on Page Two)

UN Officials Reject Two Red Demands

PANMUNJOM, Korea. - The United Nations refused categorically today to abandon the American troop rotation program in Korea for the sake of an armistice.

The U. N. also rejected a Communist demand that it withdraw from "coastal islands and waters" north of the cease-fire line. The Reds sought to prevent U. N. warships as well as troops going north of the line during a truce.

A U. N. briefing spokesman at the same time accused the Reds of attempting to blackmail the Allies into accepting an unsatisfactory truce by refusing to discuss now an exchange of war prisoners.

U. S. Maj. Gen. Howard Turner, chief U. N. representative on a joint subcommittee, told the Reds flatly that the U. N. command "without qualification rejects" the Communist demand for a ban on rotating troops during a truce.

The Communists have sought to end the American system of sending troops home after a year in combat by insisting on a total arms and troops freeze which would bar any replacements, even for injured or wounded soldiers.

The U. N. on the other hand, has forces of each side be kept at their present strength during an armistice. Fresh troops would be permitted to enter the country as replacements as long as they did not increase the over-all size of either side.

The Communist rejected a mobilized eight-point U. N. program for supervising an armistice. The program ignored a Communist proposal for "neutral observer teams" to enforce the truce and reiterated the original Allied demand for teams made up equally of officers from each side.

Hoey And Smith Have Birthdays During Month

WASHINGTON - Both North Carolina Senators will celebrate birthdays during the next two weeks.

Senator Clyde R. Hoey will reach his 74th milestone, and Senator Willis Smith attains his 64th.

Hoey was born in Shelby, which is still his home, on December 11, 1877, and unlike most of his congressional colleagues who have lived out the Bill Clinton span of three score and ten years, makes no secret of his age.

Smith was born in Norfolk a few days more than 19 years after Hoey saw the light of day. Like Hoey, he regards his age as a proper part of the information listed in his Congressional Directory biography, which shows he was born December 15, 1887.

As far as could be learned here today, both Senators will celebrate their birthdays at their homes, Hoey in Shelby and Smith in Raleigh.

Dunn Officials Get Approval At State Office

BY LOUIS DEARBORN. Another hurdle in the path of a new Health Center for Dunn was surmounted yesterday when Dr. John Ferrell of the Medical Care Commission told a group from Dunn, that he would recommend the project to the executive committee when it meets on December 21.

The group consisting of City Manager Oliver O. Manning, L. L. Coats and Dr. W. B. Hunter, went to Raleigh by appointment to confer with Dr. Ferrell. They took with them, a resolution from the County Commissioners, offering $50,000 in bonds for the project, and pertinent information on the activities of the Health Center here.

Dr. Ferrell pointed out that North Carolina is in a favorable position with regard to securing federal funds for such a building. The percentage contributed by the government is based on per-capita income.

In some states, he said, the proportion is one third federal, one third state and one third county, and one state is required to contribute 50 percent.

Asked by Dr. Ferrell, what provisions had been made for land, City Manager Manning told him that the Town of Dunn had several lots available. "However," he added, "if none of these are suitable, I feel sure that we can get one that will be."

DEED TO COUNTY Dr. Ferrell pointed out that the land must be deeded over to the county and that the government would require a 20 year lien on the building. "This is done," he pointed out, "in order to assure the building being completed. As a health center for the county."

This provision is made, he stated, in order that it would not be possible to take advantage of the government contribution with a large mortgage. In order to build a building that could be converted to another purpose or sold in a short time.

Dr. Ferrell, a former resident of Dunn, mentioned in nearby Sampson county, told the group that he was familiar with the situation, and that he believed that this to the benefit of Dunn. The Health Center had outgrown its present facilities.

With this in mind he said, the government had designed the building so that they may be added to in the future. He also mentioned that the government would contribute $100,000 for the building. The county's share of the cost on such a building, exclusive of needed equipment, would be $10,000, based on the costs of a similar building which (Continued on Page Seven)
