

Mason-Greenwood Vows Spoken Thursday Night

In a candlelight ceremony Thursday afternoon at 5:30 in Pleasant Unity Christian Church, Miss Anne Bridges Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hugh Green, was married to Mr. Billy East Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion T. Mason of Wilmington. The Rev. Franklin Pearce, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Billie Long, cousin of the bride, played "Venetian Love Song" by Nevin, "Berceuse" by Godard, "O Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star" by Wagner and "To A Wild Rose" during the ceremony. Mrs. Wilber Pearce, soloist of Kipling, sang "Because," "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer" as a benediction. Traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was an original model of white satin, made with long pointed sleeves, yoke of illusion outlined by scalloped bertha, tiny buttons to the waist and bouffant skirt ending with a train. Her finger-tip length veil was of French illusion falling from a coronet trimmed with pearls. She carried a bouquet composed of bride's roses, stephanotis, lily-of-the-valley and centered with a purple throated orchid.

Mrs. Mason was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Green, student at the Woman's College in Greensboro, as maid of honor. Her bridesmaids were Mrs. William Dodson of Durham, formerly Miss Ren-thea Woodworth of Erwin, and Miss Betty Causey of the Woman's College and Randleman.

All attendants wore identical dresses of jade green taffeta with net sleeves and bouffant skirts. They carried arm bouquets of American Beauty roses tied with long ribbons of American Beauty satin and wore roses in their hair.

Mr. Mason had as his best man his brother, Carl Mason of Wilmington. Ushers were Dan Hugh Green, Jr., brother of the bride and Alvin Black of Lillington; Paul Maulsby of Ft. Bragg and William Dodson of Durham.

Mrs. Green wore her daughter's wedding an aqua bead-trimmed gown and an orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a beige gown with orchid accessories and orchid corsage.

After the ceremony the bridal couple greeted the guests in the church vestibule and later left for a wedding trip after which they will be at home in Wilmington. For her going away dress the bride changed into a suit of navy blue, with white and wine accessories and the orchid from her bouquet as a corsage.

Mr. Mason attended school at Campbell College and is a 1951 graduate of the Woman's College in Greensboro, holding a Bachelor of Arts degree in social science. Mr. Mason also attended school at Campbell College and graduated from Wake Forest College in June. He is teaching and coaching in the Lake Forest Junior High School in Wilmington.

Out of town guests for the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Woodleaf, Miss Evelyn Woodleaf, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Dement, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hudson, Mr. W. H. Hudson all of Youngsville; Mr. and

Thurs. Afternoon Club Has Yule Party At Mrs. W. S. Tart's

A gay Christmas party was held at the home of Mrs. William Tart when the Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club met there yesterday for an afternoon of bridge and entertainment.

The Tart home was beautifully decorated for the party carrying out the Christmas note in the decorations. The living room mantle was centered with greenery, silver berries and Christmas balls flanked with red candles. A Christmas tree made a colorful scene in the corner of the living room.

The auxiliary tables for the dessert bridge were centered with lighted red candles circled with greenery. A delicious dessert of lime sherbet topped with whipped cream and cherries was served with cookies, salted nuts and coffee. During play hard candies were passed. Mrs. Glenn Riddle, a guest for the party was remembered with earrings. Mrs. Ed Galloway compiled the highest score for the afternoon and received a set of ash trays from the hostess.

Members playing were Mrs. Vaughn Hutaff, Mrs. Jack Hemingway, Mrs. Thomas McPhail, Mrs. Bobby Strickland, Mrs. Harold Jernigan, Mrs. Ed Galloway and Mrs. William Tart.

Entre Alia Club Meets At Home Of Mrs. Bass

Mrs. Nathan Bass was hostess to members of the Entre Alia Bridge Club and guests of the club at a gay Christmas party last night at the Bass home on N. Ellis Ave.

The holiday motif was carried out in the gay decorations for the party, in the living room the mantle was banked with candles and a sovely Christmas scene entwined with running cedar. On the piano a scene was used with lights reflecting on the scene making a colorful display. A side table held an attractive arrangement of holly.

Red candles nestled in greenery were centered on the card tables for the party plates which were served. The plates consisted of open oiled sandwiches in the shape of holly wreaths and tiny Christmas trees, cookies and tiny lighted candles in miniature holders. The hostess passed out gifts to the members and guests after play was completed.

Winner of club high after the scores were tallied was Mrs. Edwin Stewart who was presented a crystal fruit and flower bowl. Mrs. James Yates received a tulip vase and a novelty cutter from the hostess for guest high and traveling score.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. James Yates, Mrs. Locke Muse, Mrs. Paul L. Strickland, Jr. and Mrs. Johnny Ciccone. Members present were Mrs. Paul Walker and Mrs. Edwin Stewart.
