Dunn Hospital Plans Addition

Tyler, Other Officials Are Renamed

Officials of Dunn Hospital, incorporated, at their annual board meeting held Wednesday night, voted to go ahead with plans for enlargement of the institution, provided the addition can be erected at an economical cost at this time. Chairman Henry M. Tyler, in disclosing the project this morning, said plans call for the addition of a wing which would provide 25 new beds in the hospital and increase the size of the institution by one third. The hospital now has 37 beds, although the number of patients cared for averages more than 50 a day and the addition would make a total of 62 beds. At the present time, beds are placed in halls, in the examining room, on the sun porch and in every other available spot. An addition has been planned for several years, but has been delayed because of scarcity of materials and prohibitive costs, but Chairman Tyler said members of the board felt the work could not be delayed too much longer.

BADLY NEEDED

"The community needs enlargement of the hospital very badly," he said, pointing to the increase in number of patients and the services rendered by the institution. Chairman Tyler said the staff of Oliver W. Godwin, local contractor, had been secured to draw up proposed plans and to submit a bid on the cost of the project. Discussion of enlargement plans highlighted the annual board meeting, which also included a report by another successful year's operation by Administrator M. E. Winnick and re-election of Chairman Tyler and the other board members. Other officers renamed were: W. E. Nichols of Coats, vice chairman; Raymond L. Cromartie, Jr., secretary; and Myres W. Tishman, treasurer. Mr. Winnick was re-elected administrator, and Tommy P. Harrall was renamed as assistant administrator. Members of the board of directors are the officers and L. A. Lodge Appeals To GOPers To Support Ike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge R-Mass., appealed to the Republican National Committee today to help nominate and elect Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower president because he is the "people's choice." Only a few hours earlier, David S. Inalls, campaign manager for Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, told the committee the GOP is dead, if it risked its political future on "hero worship, glamour or sex appeal." Lodge, who has been conducting a whirlwind campaign in the national committee meeting in an effort to line up party support for Eisenhower, was the third of four men to speak out for their candidates. Gov. Earl Warren of California and Ingalls took their turns and tonight Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, will follow Lodge's luncheon appearance. "We must give the American people the man they want for the job," Lodge said. "Popular sentiment favors one man above all others an that man is Eisenhower."

POINTS TO POLLS

Lodge argued that every public opinion poll favored the general and even in the solid South the score was Eisenhower 59 per cent, Truman 35 per cent. Ingalls spent part of his speech attacking public opinion surveys which he called "the Trojan horses of the Republican Party." "A blind reliance on these polls has led the Republican Party to defeat repeatedly in the past and can lead us to defeat again," Ingalls said. "They create the grand illusion... without reference directly to Mr. Republican Taft, said the GOP could not hope to turn out the Democratic administration in November unless it gets the independent vote. NOT ENOUGH REPUBLICANS "There are just not enough Republicans in the United States to elect a president without additional support." "Therefore we must have a candidate who not only will carry our banner, but will also appeal to the great strength of the independent voters and also to the Democrats who are sick and tired of the present national administration," Lodge said.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman soon will ask Congress for funds to carry out a "major" expansion of the U. S. Atomic program, the third of its kind since Russia exploded her first A-bomb in 1949. Officials said the administration blueprint for keeping this country in front in the atomic arms race will be outlined to the Joint Atomic Energy Committee "within a few days." Committee Chairman Brien McMahon D-Conn. announced yesterday that Mr. Truman had approved an expansion program, but would not disclose its scope.

Some Stores To Begin Closing Wed. PMs

By a vote of 16 to 8 yesterday, Dunn merchants decided to start closing their businesses on Wednesday afternoons starting with next Wednesday, January 23. Actually, yesterday's action means but little change since barber shops and some food stores are already closing on Wednesday afternoons. Some merchants indicated today that they will not close at all on Wednesday this year, but will remain open all day. There has been much dispute over the issue. The vote was taken on a motion by Larry Baird, owner of the Pure Food Store, seconded by John Lewis, photo studio owner. However, some of the stores, principally dry goods dealers, dissented and will remain open until after Easter. Some merchants pointed out that food stores have nothing to lose by closing since most people don't go (Continued on Page Three)

Other authoritative quarters

Other authoritative quarters said today that it will definitely rank as a "major" step-up in this country's A-bomb producing facilities, which are even now in the process of being doubled. Informants indicated, however, that the expansion will not be as sweeping as McMahon would like. The Senator has urged that atomic spending be stepped up to about $6,000,000 a year, a six-fold increase over the present rate. But the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department have decided after lengthy study that the nation cannot spare that large a quantity of critical materials, such as steel, from other high priority rearmament tasks. McMahon predicted there will be little difficulty in getting Congress to vote money for the program.

PONDERING A KNOTTY PROBLEM - Dunn High School students this week have been engaged in that ordeal—that terrible ordeal—of midterm examinations. When The Daily Record photographer caught this picture, pretty Miss Shirley McLamb, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. McLamb, was hard at work preparing for an exam and another lovely little lady, Miss Katherine Stevenson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Stevenson, was looking over her shoulder trying to help solve the problem. But, exams ended today so all the students should be happy—that is, until they get their grades! These pretty girls won't have to worry, they are excellent students. (Daily Record photo by J. W. Temple, Jr.)

Negro Swears Wife Killed Boyd

WASHINGTON, N. C. (AP) - Negro Lafayette Miller testified today that Mrs. Opal Moore Boyd shot her husband, a young white farmer Miller is accused of killing. Miller took the stand in his own defense today and told a jury of whites and Negroes that Mrs. Boyd first asked him to kill her husband, and when he refused, took the 16-gauge shotgun from his hand and shot her. Miller testified that he saw her shoot her husband through the window of their bedroom. A group came from the crowded courtroom when Miller made his statement. Highway patrolmen and sheriff's officers had testified earlier that Miller admitted the shooting on the night of the crime. Miller said the pretty brunette wife of the slain man first asked him to "do something for me" several weeks before the Thanksgiving Eve murder when the young Negro paroled was at the Boyd farmhouse. Samia Weaves And Wiggles, Wows Audience In Miami

MIAMI BEACH (AP) - Samia Gamal weaved and wiggled through her Egyptian harem dance here last night before a packed house of 400 Gold Coast nightclubbers and her swimming husband, who showed his approval with a kiss and a squeeze. "You were absolutely wonderful, darling," said Sheppard Abdullah King III, who refers to himself as a "Texas Arab." "They like me, you think?" asked his suburban-habitat wife. Samia's hip-tossing reminded one bistro frequenter of "the old hoochy-coochy, almost but not quite." SNAKE DANCE-NEW TWIST "I saw a couple of grinds, but no bumps," he said. "It was a snake dance with a high-brow twist." Samia blizzarded her way across the multi-colored glass floor, her bare arms weaving in time to the Egyptian music provided by the Latin Quarter's band. Her trailing gossamer pink skirt was split down the middle and cut mightily low. Gold tassels draped from the bottom of the skirt and the bottom of a sequined bra. Miss Gamal became so entranced with her dancing and the music, she said, that she wasn't aware that she had cut her toe on the glass of the stage floor. "It is just a little cut," she said as her lanky husband hugged her while a chorus girl tapped up the toe. MINIMUM OF $16 Miamians who attended the show faced a minimum of $16, not hard to reach considering that bottle of Scotch brought $32. But most seemed quite satisfied with Samia's performance. She said she would draw many customers from Lill St. City playing a few blocks away. (Continued on Page Two)
