Joe Tally

In Washington must be firmly met.
"America has grown great," said his announcement, "because—in the main—it has feared God, worked hard and stood courageously against all tyrannies. Those principles—those principles—can keep us great and keep the world free and at peace."
"It takes a Congressman, able, willing and working tirelessly, to do his part and his district's part to win this goal," asserted Tally adding, "I would try to give the people of the Seventh North Carolina District that kind of representation."

CARLYLE RUNNING

Congressman Carlyle, now rounding out his second term, has made no formal announcement for renomination and is expected to make none.
In Washington recently, a reporter asked him when he planned to announce for renomination and the Lumberton lawmaker replied: "I have never withdrawn the announcement I made before my first race; I'm still running."
"In this day and time," added Carlyle, "if you wait until election year to begin running, it's generally too late. As for myself, I've been running all along, just like I told you."

WANTS PORT DEVELOPED

"At this time I would like to say that one of my chief concerns would be the full development of the port of Wilmington and the main body of the Cape Fear River," said his announcement today.
He pointed out that the Cape Fear River is the only major river in the United States that has not begun to receive adequate attention in Congress and that the port of Wilmington is the only natural potential major port that has not received adequate attention from Congress.
"I believe it can be demonstrated that more return in national defense and resources, per dollar of investment, can be gained in the development of the Cape Fear and the port of Wilmington than anywhere else," he added.
The Seventh District is comprised of the counties of Harnett, Staden, Brunswick, Columbus, Cumberland, New Hanover and Robeson with a total population of approximately a half million citizens.
—HAS FINE RECORD
Candidate Tally is now serving his second term as mayor of Fayetteville, one of the youngest—and possibly the youngest—chief executive in the city's history.
He was born in 1921 in Fayetteville, attended grammar and high school in Seventy-First Township in Cumberland and later graduated from Campbell College, Duke University and the law schools of Duke and Harvard.
He was an officer in the U. S. Navy in World War II, serving overseas for two and a half years in the amphibious forces of the Navy, participating, among other actions, in the initial landings in Sicily and Salerno.
Now a member of the law firm of Tally, Tally and Brewer in Fayetteville, before returning to his law practice after the war, he served for a year as a law professor at Wake Forest.
He is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce of Fayetteville, a past vice president of the North Carolina Bar Association and is now president of the Harvard Club in North Carolina, the Duke Law School Alumni Association, is Governor of the Kiwanis clubs of North and South Carolina and is first vice president of the North Carolina of Municipalities.
He is a Methodist. His wife is the former Laura Self of Raleigh. They have two sons.
Following is the complete text of Mr. Tally's announcement:
I plan to run for nomination to Congress from the Seventh North Carolina District in the Democratic Primary this spring.
The kind of leadership the next Congress gives us may decide our destiny. This may be the most critical time in the life of our nation.
The Communist threat to our life and liberty must be destroyed by a bold and inspired use of the spiritual and physical strength of America.
Peace cannot be won by timid negotiations with Kremlin stooges, criminal plans of aid to foreign countries.
Peace can be won by keeping our superiority of top weapons, by the limited extension of aid to those free countries that will work and arm with us, and by the unlimited extension around the world of America's leadership for freedom and justice.
But a do-nothing representation in Congress cannot accomplish this.
—FAYORS FREE ENTERPRISE
The threat to our free enterprise from the growing centralization of power in Washington must be firmly met.
Federal government controls must be cut, not increased. Federal government spending must be cut, not increased.
At this time I would like to say that one of my chief concerns, if elected to Congress, would be the

Harnett NCEA Plans Session

Miss Rachel Clifford, of Dunn, president of the Harnett County unit of the North Carolina Education Association, today announced that county teachers will meet on Monday, January 28, at 7:30 p. m. in the Lillington High School auditorium.
Malcolm Fowler of Lillington, former president of the N. C. Society of Local Historians, will speak on the history of Harnett County. Fowler will use as the basis of his talk research compiled personally over a period of at least ten years.
At the business session Mrs. D. T. Stuits of Erwin, chairman of the nominating committee, will present a slate of officers to the group.

Four Chamber Posts Filled

Chairmen of four key committees were appointed today by President C. E. McLamb. They will select their committees to work with them on these important functions as soon as possible.
Three co-chairmen, Al Wullenwaber, Paul Walker and Locke Muse, have been appointed to the important membership committee.
Waite Howard has been selected to head the budget committee. The committee for industrial development will have Earl McD. Westbrook and Guyton Smith as co-chairmen.
On the agricultural committee, important in a community which depends on farmers to a large extent, Eugene Smith and Al Wullenwaber will act as co-chairmen. Other committee appointments will be made later.

Petty Thieves Reported Here

Owners of parked cars have found themselves the victims of petty theft, in Dunn recently according to the records of the Dunn Police Department.
Raymond Stephenson of Erwin, reported the theft of four Cadillac type hub caps and two fender skirts from the 1948 Ford which he had left parked on East Edgerton Street.
Another theft was reported by Horace Wilborn of Erwin, who told police that someone had stolen the horn ring from his 1941 Ford while the vehicle was parked on East Cumberland Street. Both thefts are under investigation.

Mobil Oil Dealer Plans Dunn Event

Plans are complete for the "Flying Red Horse Farm and Dealer Party" to be held in the Dunn Armory on Wednesday, January 30 at 6:30 p. m. It was announced today by Carl E. Fitchett, Jr., Mr. Rhinehart and Mr. Blackman, "Flying Red Horse" experts on the care and protection of farm machinery, tractors, trucks and cars will be present, and will tell how to get the best service from all these.
The program promises to be an interesting and profitable one and to add to the enjoyment of the evening there will be barbecue by Griffin's of Goldsboro.

State Briefs

CHARLOTTE (P) — More than 2,500 Mecklenburg County war veterans showed approval of a plan for state-paid bonuses at a meeting here last night. The meeting was conducted by Del Vesovo of Burlington and State Sen. Thomas Sawyer of Durham, who tried unsuccessfully to hold a bonus rally here last week.
WINSTON-SALEM (P) — The State Board of Medical Examiners revoked licenses of two doctors convicted on narcotics charges yesterday.
Dr. J. P. Rousseau of Winston-Salem, board president, said the board revoked the licenses of Dr. M. A. Bowers of Winston-Salem and Dr. Frederick A. Quick, Negro physician of Rockingham.
CARTHAGE, N. C. (P) — Selection of a jury to try three white soldiers charged with raping a young Negro mother begins here today.
In Congress cannot accomplish this.
America has grown great because—in the main—it has feared God, worked hard, and stood courageously against all tyrannies.
Those principles—and those alone—can keep us great and keep the world free and at peace.
It takes a Congressman—able, willing, and working tirelessly—to do his part and his district's part to win this goal.
I would try to give the people of the Seventh North Carolina District that kind of representation.
I plan to announce a full program of action at an appropriate time.
At this time I would like to say that one of my chief concerns, if elected to Congress, would be the

Club Is Told About Early Days Of Dunn

Herbert Taylor, who served the town of Dunn for four two-year terms as mayor and four years as treasurer, gave the members of the Dunn Rotary Club a mind's-eye view of the early days of Dunn at the meeting Friday night.
The original name of the town, he said, was Pope's Station. Later it became Lucknow, from which we get the name of the present Lucknow Square, and finally Dunn.
Tear Shirt, he declared, was never the name of the town itself, but rather the nickname of a particular section, and not the better section, by any means.
Harking back to 1869, he said that the old Hotel Divine, from which Divine Street gets its name stood where the Coca-Cola plant now stands, and was the favorite stopping place for travelers.
The oldest native of Dunn, he said, was Mr. L. Busbee Pope, Sr., whose family were original settlers. J. Lloyd Wade, he said was the second oldest. He reminded his listeners, that although there are older residents, they came from another section and were not Dunn natives.
Pope's pond, he said, was once the site of pleasant fishing and, although the pond is gone, the dam is still there where the Boy Scout hut now stands.
DUNN'S FIRST CHURCH
Dunn's first church was erected at about the spot on which the center of the Baptist Church now stands, he said. It grew from a Union Sunday School, in existence before the church, and was a Baptist institution. This Sunday School occupied an old buggy shop across from the present John A. McKay home.
Dunn's first school, called the Progressive Institute, Taylor related, stood at a spot about where the Catholic Church now stands.
He paid high tribute to the early settlers, who, returning after the carnage of the war between the states, rebuilt the community and started it on the road to the progress it has enjoyed.
Enlivened by anecdotes, many of them familiar to his listeners, Taylor's address, something off the beaten track, provided one of the most interesting of recent programs for the club.

TELLS OF ZURICH
From France he went to Zurich, in Switzerland, a country that has been without a war in 150 years. He ascribed this to the fact that the Swiss have universal military training, whereas each man from 25 to 55 is a soldier, and every bridge and pass is mined against a possible invasion.
The Swiss have no slum areas, no unemployment and enjoy an extremely high standard of living, he declared. This was a decided contrast to the next country he visited, Austria, where the conditions are wretched.
The visit to Vienna was timed to coincide with the recognition of the Methodist Church. Passing through the Russian zone, he was warned not to take any photos and to remain unsmiling while papers were checked. "If the Russian soldiers think you are laughing at them there will be trouble," his guide warned him.
In Vienna he met a Pole who had been in the hands of the Russians. After describing the unpeakable tortures to which he was subjected and remarked, "Don't be too hard on Mr. Vogeler, you'll sign any confession after spending some time

Leads 'Em To Whiskey, Gets Head Smashed

Playing good Samaritan to four thirsty strangers brought E. E. Pope to the Dunn Hospital with sundry cuts on the head and face, and made him the target of uncomfortable questioning at the Dunn Police Station.
The story he told the officers was that he had met the four strangers at the Blue Moon, just outside the city limits. Over a sociable drink, the quartette asked him if he knew where they could buy some whiskey, and he volunteered to guide them.
He climbed into a car parked in front of the place with the strangers and they drove off in search of the illegal intoxicant. The car stopped in an alley back of the Sash Door and Millwork Company and one of the occupants started belaboring Pope over the head with a ooke bottle.
When he recovered consciousness he found that his wrist watch was missing. Police took him back to the Blue Moon, where the proprietor, J. M. Warren, told the officers that he had seen Pope leave with four, two of whom he identified as Fort Bragg soldiers.

Mrs. Sivertsen's Father Injured

McKoy Kennedy, 69, of Kenansville, father of Mrs. Sue Neil Sivertsen of The Record staff, was badly injured Sunday in an automobile accident in Lenoir County. He suffered a broken arm and other injuries.
He was a passenger in the car in which Early Carr, Newton died after colliding with another vehicle. Mrs. Sivertsen was at in the hospital for the past two days with her father.

PARKER-EZZELL WEDDING VOWS ARE SPOKEN AT NEWTON GROVE

Miss Iris Marie Ezzell, daughter of Addison Ezzell of Clinton and the late Mrs. Ezzell became the bride of Julius O. Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Parker of Newton Grove Sunday afternoon, January 13 at the Rowan Baptist Church.
A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. McCray Woodard of Clinton, organist, and Miss Alta Hudson of Fort Mills, S. C., soloist. Dr. Roy McCulloch officiated at the ceremony.
The bride's dress of white satin had a high neckline and an ankle-length skirt which was accented with pleated and covered with nylon net. Her shoulder-length veil was attached by seed pearls to a white satin half bonnet. The bridal dress was fashioned by the bride. She carried a prayer book topped with a yellow-throated orchid.
Mrs. Roy Yancey, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a dress of rose moire taffeta and net and carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds and white pom-pom chrysanthemums.
Roland Parker was best man for his brother, and the bride's father gave her in marriage. Ushers were Roy Yancey and Leonard, Yancey, brothers-in-law of the bride.
For a wedding trip to Florida, the bride wore a blue wool dress with brown accessories and an orchid corsage.
The couple will make their home in Newton Grove, where the bride-groom is engaged in business.

Home Laundry Class Slated

The first class in a series using the theme "Work Simplification" will be given in the Boone Trail Home Economics Department, Thursday night, January 24 at 7. The topic, "New and Easy Methods in Home Laundry" will be used.
Miss Frances Maness, Frigidaire home economist, will give the demonstration which is sponsored by the Brown Auto Supply Company in Sanford. The automatic washer in the Home Economics Department will be used.
The program is designed as adult education and both men and women are invited to attend.

Polio Kefauver

one of the victims although he was not involved in the crime investigation.
It was understood that some Democrats had prodded Lucas to enter the Illinois primary because of his strength downstate. He was reported unwilling because of commitments in his private law practice. It was known, however, that his influence will be thrown to McMahon.
Some Illinois Democrats here, including one still neutral in the Kefauver-McMahon contest, believed that McMahon would at least start as the favorite in the Illinois campaign.
These Democrats noted that party organizations are usually dominant in Illinois primaries, particularly in Cook County Chicago where about two-thirds of the Democratic vote is cast.
IST UNDER PRESSURE
There are reports in Congress that President Truman is under some pressure to declare soon whether he will be a candidate for re-election. This pressure is reported coming from Democrats who believe their own party campaign plans require an early public decision by Mr. Truman.
Among Republicans, backers of Gen. Douglas MacArthur insisted his name will be entered in Minnesota and Pennsylvania primaries as a presidential candidate although the general took steps yesterday to withdraw his name from the Illinois primary. MacArthur is generally counted a support of Sen. Robert A. Taft for the GOP nomination.

views of many prominent folk that the cocktail party is the capital's biggest menace. He went to one.
"I went for a few minutes," Graham said. "That was all I could stand. When I left about five congressmen left with me."
His complaint, he said, was against not only the drinks but "the swearing, and the telling of off-color stories."
Graham said that churchmen here who "should be leading the clean-up" have become discouraged and show "an appalling lack of fight." He hopes his campaign will change that. The crusade has the backing of at least a third of the city's 400 Protestant churches.
Two Unitarian ministers denounced Graham from their pulpits—one calling him a "religious disaster."

Anti-Gambling Vote Prayers Are Answered

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (P) — Voters here rejected a proposed $2,000,000 horse race track after opponents of the oval staged a marathon prayer session in Memphis, Tenn., just across the Mississippi River.
Unofficial but complete returns from yesterday's referendum on issue showed 1,533 votes against the track and 1,369 in favor of it.
A Baptist minister, the Rev. T. O. Douglas, led some 75 persons in a "victory prayer" immediately after the result was announced last night.
Ed Waller, secretary of the Crittenden County Election Commission and an official of the track corporation, Dixie Downs, Inc., conceded defeat.
Memphis clergymen joined forces to stage an all-night prayer session on the eve of the referendum. Although the track would have been located here, it had been expected to draw heavily on Memphis for its patronage.
Arkansas Gov. Sid McMath, who said establishment of the track "would be like putting a honky-tonk in your neighbor's (Memphis) backyard," was "gratified" by the outcome.

Parked Car Is Hit By Another

Even a parked car is in danger of being damaged according to the report of an accident which occurred on Cumberland Street about a half block from the Dunn Police Station.
Mrs. Mary, Lowean Barnes, of Dunn Route 1, driving a 1947 Studebaker owned by Woodrow Smith of Livingston, E. C., pulled into the alley behind the Polje Station to turn around. When she started forward, her car struck a parked 1949 Chevrolet owned by C. A. McLean.
The impact knocked the McLean car into a 1949 Ford, parked just ahead, owned by John H. Martin of Durham at the Studebaker was $300, to the Chevrolet it hit, $81.53, and to the Ford $5.

Missionaries Will Be Heard

A Baptist minister and his wife who plan to sail the last of January for Chile as missionaries of the Southern Baptist Convention will speak Wednesday at 7:30 at the Blue's Creek Baptist Church.
They are the Rev. H. K. Middleton of Yadkinville and Mrs. Middleton who have just finished the language school in Costa Rica, C. A. They will be assigned to the same general area in Chile in which Miss Marjorie Spence, Harnett County teacher, also works. The public is invited to hear them.
