He succeeds Miss Rachel Clifford of Dunn, who will serve in this capacity the remainder of this school year. Torrey Johnson of Bule's Creek was elected vice president, and Mrs. W. E. Prefers Truman

IN A SURPRISE move, Sen. Brian McMahon (D-Conn.) announces in Washington that he wants his name removed from the Illinois Presidential primaries. He said he had written a letter to backers that, upon reflection, he prefers President Truman for re-election.

Approximately 200 veterans, gathered in a mass meeting here last night, shouted their approval of a State bonus and pledged their support for the cause to Del Vascovas, who predicted flatly that a referendum on the issue will be called by the next legislature.

"The movement is picking up steam," declared Vascovas, who said he was organizing all 100 counties of the State to show the next General Assembly that "the veterans do want a bonus, and we want it now."

The bonus meeting was held under sponsorship of Dunn's AMVT post. Marvin Hight is the commander and he and Paul Hester handled the arrangements.

Vascovas State AMVT official from Burlington told the veterans that Senators and Representatives who last session opposed the bonus were "coming over on our side" and he predicted that few, if any, representatives would dare oppose the referendum when it comes up again.

The Durham legislator condemned the "gas" rule and declared the legislative committees were "stacked against the veterans just like gamblers stack a deck of cards."

"And we don't like to think we're with a bunch of gamblers," he added.

The Senator, acknowledged leader of the bonus advocates, estimated that the bonus would cost $100,000,000.

"If all Americans want is security, the best way to get it is to go to prison," he warned, "because against security objectives which would make us a nation of kept men and women."

COOPERATIVE UNITY Eisenhower's best known policy is for a co-operative world ultimately and tight mutual defense as of now. He favors large American aid to those ends. Here are some quoted or paraphrased expressions of Eisenhower's foreign and domestic policies.

Gen. Ike's Political Philosophy Outlined

By LYLE C. WILSON United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) - General Dwight D. Eisenhower calls his political philosophy the "middle road."

He began outlining his views on domestic issues in 1949-50 during the comparatively brief period in his adult life when he was out of uniform.

Eisenhower never got around to stating his detailed position on many questions. But some of his general statements were cuttingly critical of Truman administration policies. Some elements of the Democratic coalition left wing turned angrily against him.

The New Deal Americans for Democratic Action who sparked the 1948 Eisenhower boom decided Ike's ideas on individual economic security were those of an "advocate of a jungle state."

Foreign Policy: Enduring peace requires international disarmament, a United States police force and world co-operation to promote justice, freedom and economic opportunity. Standing alone in a world otherwise dominated by communism, our system would have to wither away.

Taxes: "How far can a government go in taxing away property rights and still not leave that government the master of the people instead of the servant?"

Government Economy: "If solvency and security are not synonymous, they are so closely related the difference, if any, is scarcely discernible."

Liberals: The definition of a liberal seems to have become "a man in Washington who wants to play the almighty's game."

Economic Security: "Too many people are seeking 'illusory' things called 'security' at the expense of individual freedom."

Political Path: This country should head "down the middle of the road between the unfettered power of concentrated wealth and the unbridled powers of statism."

Education: Opposed administration bill for federal aid to state school programs. Eisenhower said there should be aid for only the

Chinese Reds Plan To Bow Out Of Korea

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) - The Chinese Communists indicated today at the Panmunjom truce talks that they will bow out of the armistice administration of Korea.

The surprise development came as staff officers began discussion of the United Nations blueprint for a peaceful Korean armistice.

The Communists indicated that the Chinese would turn North Korea back to the North Koreans when they suggested a change in Paragraph 10 of the proposed armistice agreement.

Paragraph 10 proposed that a civil administration of the demilitarized zone be "the joint responsibility" of the Chinese and North Korean commanders and the U. N. commander.

The Reds suggested that the paragraph be altered to delete the phrase "joint responsibility" and also to eliminate a reference to "the commander of the Chinese Peoples Volunteers."

Firemen Work In Weather At 15 Below

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Numbered firemen today dug into an "icy log jam" which had been a three-story tenement before fire swept it, killing 17 persons.

The bodies of four women, six children and a man had been removed from the frozen ruins more than 24 hours after the fire raced through the structure a few hours before dawn yesterday.

The body of one small boy was found on a metal cot covered by a sheet of ice. He lay as if he were asleep, indicating he never was aware of the blaze.

Floodlights illuminated the scene through the night as firemen, working in temperatures of 15 below zero, chopped through the heap of timbers, furniture and clothing.

The walls of the building were demolished down to about the first floor to prevent them from collapsing on firemen who entered the rubble.
