By OSCAR FRALEY
(United Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK — Rany Don Gehrmann's prospects of winning the coveted Olympic 1,500-meter medal remained a question today but America's track and field athletes indicated by meritorious performances that they'd be tough to shove in Helsinki this summer.

Gehrmann, who runs only as hard as he has to in order to win again, was content to snop the tape by inches as he won the Wana-maker Mile in the Millrose Games Saturday. His time was an unsensational 4:11.2 as he shaded FBI-man Fred Wilt.

But observers looking ahead to this summer's international games freely predicted a new Olympic record for Bob Richards, the pole vaulting parson from Illinois. And there were encouraging feats in the hurdles, sprints and the high jump.

The chunky Richard impressed as Nebraska's Don Cooper missed out at 14 feet, cleared 15 feet for the 12th time in his bamboo pole career. Which makes it appear a inch that he will crack the Olympic record of 14 feet, 3 1/4 inches set in 1936. If he doesn't, there is a distinct possibility that either Cooper or Don Laz-America's two other 15-foot jumpers will do it.

Another great Olympic prospect appeared to be blond J. Lewis Hall of the University of Florida. He won the high jump with a leap of six feet, six inches—which was good enough to take the Olympic title for Australia's John Winter in 1948.

Dean Harrison Dilford failed to make the Olympic team last time when he ran through the hurdles. He had been signed over to the sprints and covered the 100 meter dash. He is intent on the timber, topping title this time and showed his class in winning the Millrose event. Yet he barely edged out Cletis Lyle Johnson of Army, which figures to give the United States a potent one-two punch there, even if Roby also shows up in the interim, which is in itself highly improbable.

Sprinters are a dime a dozen. Good ones, too. And moving up to the quarter mile were got 'em running out of our ears. Ever hear of four guys named Ron Ferraro, Lou Jones, Vern Dixon and Bob Carty? Probably not.

Well, all they did Saturday night was run the fastest mile relay ever stepped over the long-busy Madison Square Garden boards. Their 3:18.4 clocking wiped out a mark which had stood since 1940. Dixon merely stepped his quarter 47.7 seconds, only 1.7 seconds over the world record on a track where it feels only you're running inside a coffee cup. Morris Curotta, 1948 Olympic finalist for Australia, was run right into the boards by Dixon.

Another pleasantly surprising performance was turned in by former Cornell ace Charley Moore. Jamaica's George Rhoden and fellow countryman Herb McKenley are ranked as the world's best quarter-milers but Moore beat McKenley and almost took Rhoden in the Mel Sheppard 600.

Apparently cooking up an advance alibi in case they are beaten the Russians are screaming already that our armed forces are building for the Olympics. All I can say, Joe, is that if they ever do move in it's gonna be murder.

Ted Williams To Give Fly-Casting Exhibition In Boston; Take Exam.

By JOSEPH LEVINE
(UP Sports Writer)

BOSTON — Getting paid $33.33 a minute just to go fishing ought to please even Ted Williams. The temperamental titan of the Boston Red Sox outfield comes north from his Florida fishing retreat this week to coin a little out-of-season cash by demonstrating his fly-casting skill at the Sportsmen's Show opening Saturday.

Ted's tab figures out to $100 for every three minutes of casting. Pretty good pay, even for an upper-bracket baseball-and-dollar-catcher like Williams.

Nevertheless, it's a sad trip north for Ted—and it might have been the happiest of his life. For Williams faces recall to active duty with the Marine Corps, a development that threatens to shatter three of his dearest ambitions.

STARTED WITH DREAMS
Like many another less-talented rookie, Williams brought a head full of dreams with him in 1939 when he broke into the Major Leagues with his fantastic flair for homers and hassles.

Most of them came true. Ted played in the World Series and the All-Star game, twice won the American League's Most Valuable Player award. He's been the league's batting champion often—once with an unforgettable .408 average.

He's also topped the league in home runs, in runs scored, runs batted in, two base hits, bases on balls. Few rookies dream of more than he has accomplished.

Yet the fulfillment of three ambitions has eluded Williams—

1. To break Babe Ruth's home run record.
2. To earn the highest paycheck in baseball history.
3. To make enough money so that he can quit baseball in a year or two and retire in comfort.

MISSING OPPORTUNITY
This might have been the year for Ted to achieve all three. But if he passes his physical examination and a nearby Squantum Naval Air Station April 2, he will be 36 by the time he completes his 17-month tour of duty.

At that age, he might not even return to baseball, let alone start- dom. And the dream of hitting 60 homers would be dead.

Normally, Williams would have used this mid-winter trip North as an opportunity to sign his new contract with the Red Sox. A bonus arrangement was expected to boost his pay over the $89,000 he received last year when only Joe DiMaggio's $90,000 was bigger.

With DiMaggio now retired, Williams figured to top $90,000 and become the highest-paid player in baseball history.

But if Ted passes his physical, he goes back on Uncle Sam's payroll as a Marine Corps captain and flying instructor at $7,200.

That wrecks ambition No. two and puts a crimp in No. three, to retire on a soft cushion of greenbacks.

EXPECTED 5 MORE YEARS
Although the once poor boy from the sandlots of San Diego, Calif., has planned cannily for his future he counted on at least another few years of five-figure financing by Tom Yawkey, millionaire owner of the Red Sox.

Nevertheless, Ted has not complained about the frustration of these three hopes by the Marine Corps. He merely said he was just like anyone else and wanted to do his duty.

Williams didn't say so, but nothing can stop him from obtaining his fourth and greatest remaining ambition.

Moody, unpredictable, often curt and occasionally childish, Williams once dropped his fetish for personal privacy long enough to confess—

"The one big ambition with me is that my name will be included when baseball men speak of the greatest hitters in the game."

How can he miss out on that one?

TRI-STATE TAKES IN GASTONIA
CHARLOTTE — Directors of the Tri-State Baseball League planned today to hold a special meeting to work out the knotty problem of a playing schedule for next season.

President Bobby Hipps of Asheville said he would call the meeting within a week or 10 days to work out the question of an eight-team, 140-game slate.

Directors met here yesterday and formally voted Gastonia into the eighth spot to replace the defunct Greenwood, S. C., team.

SCHEDULE TROUBLE
But they made little progress on the question of a playing schedule. A tentative slate of games was submitted, but the directors refused to adopt it.

Some 300 persons gathered at a banquet last night to honor Frank Campos, who played with Charlotte last season, as the Tri-State's most valuable player of the year. Campos is now with the Washington Senators.

Eddie Allen, baseball writer of the Charlotte Observer, was chosen president of the Tri-State Baseball League.

ALL IN THE GAME
MEXICO CITY — An international soccer match was out short yesterday because the angry spectators refused to return the balls kicked into the stands.

Oro of Mexico was playing Independent of Argentina and leading 1-0 when the referee expelled an Argentine from the game.

The spectators were enraged. Play was resumed after a bottle shower, but the three balls were kicked into the stands one by one. The fans kept all three.

The game was called and a free for all broke out.

McGregor Gets Upset Win Over Sedgeman
ADELAIDE, Australia — Young Ken McGregor stunned the tennis world today by upsetting top-ranking Frank Sedgeman, 7-5, 12-10, 2-6, 6-2 to win the Australian National singles crown.

The surprised and overjoyed Australian hurled the net to shake hands with the conquered Davis Cupper and then the two men walked off the court arm in arm.

McGregor's vicious service and spectacular backhand and forehand strokes forced Sedgeman to overhit the baseline repeatedly.

The turning point came in the marathon second set when McGregor smashed through Sedgeman's service in the 19th game to take the lead and then made him overhit the baseline.

SECOND PLACE
DAVIDSON — Davidson's Mac McLean holds second place behind Duke's Dick Groat in assists now being scored and recorded in all collegiate basketball games. McLean has a record to date of 51 assists in 11 games.

FOREST DEFENSE
DURHAM, Jan. — When West Virginia defeated Duke 95-74 earlier this cage season the Mountaineers total represented the most points ever scored against a Duke cage outfit.

Well over 100 thousand dairy cows have been bred artificially in North Carolina since the breeding program was started four years ago.

Greewave Takes W in From A.C.

Local Girls Play Swell Game To Take Favorites; Boys Score 70 Points

The Greewave came out on top of both ends of a doubleheader with Anderson Creek on Friday night at the armory. The girls played a fine game in besting a strong A. C. team by a 46-30 score, and the locals boys came through as expected in downing the visitors in a 70 to 53 game.

The girls' game was a game full of action in the first half and lacking action in the final half as the Greenies gals started putting on a half-freeze in an effort to bring out the A. C. zone defense.

The locals out-scored the Creekers in the first three quarters but yielded by a point in the final period.

Martha Butler was the leading scorer for the Greewave as she made 22 points to top the game's scoring. Betsy Lee got 15 points and Kaek White scored 9. Kaek Butt had the edge in a good Dunn defense.

Ann McArtan scored 21 points for the visitors to come very close to matching the high mark. Annette Capps used all of her small self in playing a good game for A. C. as she came through with 12 points, and Helen McArtan made 6 points.

Anderson Creek 12 16 9 9 46
Greewave 12 16 9 9 46
Coach Waggoner's boys showed improvement over the past couple of games in downing a hard-fighting A. C. team. The most impressive fact was that the game was six minutes told before the first foul was committed, even though the play was spirited. The locals ran up a ten-point margin by halftime.

Center Tommy Waggoner scored 14 points in the first half and went on to finish with 27 points to lead the scoring for the night. Daley Geff had a swell runner-up score of 22 points, eight of them coming in the last period and nine of them in the second period. Others scoring were Corbett Hartley with 16, W. Dixon with 2, and Skeet Carr with 3.

Larry Carr, Charles Williams, and Bobby Darden led the scoring for the visitors with 11, 10, and 10 points. Delt West and Ken Black were not far behind with 9 and 8

Campbell Cagers Trounce Pfeiffer For Sixth Straight Conference Win

Local Girls Play Swell Game To Take Favorites; Boys Score 70 Points

Campbell College took its sixth conference win and its fourteenth win for the season on Saturday night in the Buies Creek gym against the Pfeiffer College team. The Camels overwhelmed the visitors by a one-sided 82-51 score.

Center Red McDaniel and guard Smith Langdon led the scoring for the winners with 22 and 20 points, and guard Ronald Percise joined in playing good defensive and ball-handling games.

Langdon's 20 points will hold him up among the high scorers of the conference.

John Wyatt was the star of the visitors as he scored 16 points and joined center Loftin in topping the defense. Richie Dallas scored 13 points for Pfeiffer.

The Campbell girls defeated the Pfeiffer girls by a 55-37 score to continue their fine three-year record.

BUSY WEEK
Coach Smith's Camels have a busy week. The boys go to Louisville tonight to face a tough team that upset Oak Ridge Saturday night. Campbell defeated the Louisville team about a week ago at Buies Creek. The Camels go to Oak Ridge on the following night for a tough return engagement. Campbell gave the rampaging Cadets a good licking at Buies Creek.

Skier Fatally Injured

SEATTLE, Wash. — William Gundersen, one of the Pacific Northwest's top ski jumpers, was killed Sunday when he collided with a spectator as he neared the end of his landing run after a 160-foot jump. A spectator stepped in front of him and caused Gundersen to break his neck.

Dunn High Teams Face Coats High Tomorrow Night

The next home game for Dunn High teams will be played in the armory tomorrow night against teams from Coats. At that time, the local girls and boys will be trying to improve their Harnett Conference records against two second-division opponents.

Both Dunn and Coats teams are in the conference second-division at the present time with the two Coats teams claiming ninth place, and the local girls are just a notch ahead of their foe, and the local boys are (mistake—just noticed that the Dunn boys edged into fifth place with the Friday night win over Anderson Creek) in fifth place.

The Dunn girls will have a chance to move into the first division if they can conquer the visitors as they will be favored to do, but if they lose, they will barely hold their eighth-place position ahead of Coats. While at the same time, the local boys will have a chance to move into third or even second place, depending on the outcome of the next Erwin and Angier games.

The Coats boys have come up with some fine performances this year, and if the visitors hit Dunn with the brand of play that they used to lick Benhaven and Boone Trail, it may be tough for the locals to salvage a victory. With a good performance, the Dunn girls should win their game in spite of the effort of the opposition—but you never know.

N. C. State Meets Bowling Green In Coliseum Tonight
RALEIGH — N. C. State's Wolfpack will have the role of underdog tonight at the Reynolds Coliseum when Coach Everett Case sends his squad against the powerful Bowling Green University Falcons in an inter-sectional basketball scrap.
The Falcons, who've beaten such cage powers as Niagara, Dartmouth, Hamline, Toledo and Loyola of Chicago have won 10 games in 14 starts. They've averaged above 70 points per game this year and boast one of the nation's top scorers in Center Jim Gerber, who has a 21.5 average per game this year.
State has fared rather poorly against inter-sectional foes, winning only twice in seven starts. The Wolfpack whipped Eastern Kentucky and Loyola of Baltimore, but bowed before Texas Tech, Manhattan, Fordham, Louisville and Villanova.
MAY BE A CHANGE
Coach Everett Case of State may make at least one change in his starting lineup against Bowling Green. Sophomore Forward Dick Tver, who tallied 15 points against Villanova last week-end, likely will replay Bill Kukoy at one forward position. Kukoy has been in a waning slump since the Dixie Classic tournament and his average has dropped from 15 points per game to below eight.
The battle with Bowling Green is the first of two big inter-sectional games this week for State. Saturday night the Wolfpack faces Villanova College of Philadelphia at the Coliseum.
